Biggest Crowd in History of South Common Take in the Midway and Enjoys Grand Pyrotechnic Display

A PEEK AT THE MIDWAY FAIRYLAND

The Glorious Fourth has once more passed into history and with its 1221 passage goes a flood of pleasant and thrilling recollections of the holiday for thousands of Lowell people. It was a truly glorious holiday for the Spindle City, one unmarred by serious accident and characterized by the biggest outdoor carnival ever staged here.

As predicted, the American Legion carnival on the South common proved the nucleus of the day's program and from early Saturday night until late last night thousands tramped the common, making their way from stand to stand and enjoying to the full the medley of color, light, entertainment and bustle produced by hundreds of barker-booths and tents of every shape and description.

The greatest crowd that ever assembled on the common was there last evening to witness the municipal fireworks exhibition. It ranged very near the 15,000 mark and those who were still thinking subconsciously of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight of Saturday had an opportunity to get an approximate idea of the crowd which attended that affair. It was exactly the greatest crowd ever assembled in one place in the city of Lowell.

The Fourth itself and the day preceding it were both hot, muggy affairs of the four days of rain which had come before. However, as evening came on yesterday the heat was tempered and a slight breeze helped to make the evening hours most comfortable.

In addition to the South common Continued to Page 8

Lowell Ex-Service Men in Government Pictures of World War on Exhibition at Carnival

GEORGE M. WALSH

George M. Walsh and Cornelius Coughlin, both of this city, had a remarkable experience at the carnival of the local American Legion post, now at the South common, when they visited the exhibit of war relics and photographs which is one of the star features of the affair, and saw themselves depicted in United States official government pictures taken during the fighting in France, transferred to the war department archives at the national capital, and subsequently released for this exhibition, which has shown them in all parts of the country.

Walsh, a municipal employee now stationed at the South common, saw himself in his uniform as he was during the great St. Mihiel drive which took place at the close of the hostilities. The photo was taken Sept. 14, 1918. Walsh was a member of "G" company, 104th Infantry. Coughlin also discovered that he had been "snapped" by the U. S. war photographers. Coughlin was presented a copy of his picture by those in charge of the exhibit. Walsh already has one.

The corridor of the police station this morning looked like a dream of Omar Khayyam. Lining both walls, and leaving merely a narrow passage where through to reach the superintendent's office and the inspectors' room, were the following: Stills, jugs of moonshine, jugs of cider (hard), funnels, more stills, corks, bottles of Jamaica ginger, cases of flasks, vials, jars and similar receptacles, all bearing a kindred aroma, mash, more stills, more bottles, and more hooch. The scene revealed some of the fruits of a series of raids staged over the week end by the local liquor

BIG CARNIVAL TO CLOSE AT MIDNIGHT

Reports that the giant American Legion carnival would be continued through to Thursday evening were denied this afternoon by Manager Francis J. Roane, of the enterprise. "Today we shall keep every attraction going from 2 p. m. to midnight, but at 12 o'clock the carnival will close," declared Manager Roane.

The usual big free acts will be held this afternoon and evening. Tomorrow's flying circus gave an exhibition at 3:30 p. m. and will show again this evening at 7:15. At the latter performance, Mr. Twombly, it is announced, will attempt the feat of transferring from one speeding airplane to another. Buckley's band will give two concerts, from 7 to 9 and from 9 to 11 p. m.

A few of the free vaudeville acts have been cancelled, according to Manager Roane, as the result of trouble with the police when the concessionaires declined, he alleges, to live up to the rules he laid down for the conduct of the concessions.

CANNON BURSTS IN CHELMSFORD

A small cannon that was being used to celebrate the national holiday burst into bits yesterday at Central Square, Chelmsford. Several young men who had been engaged in firing the piece narrowly escaped serious injury.

When the explosion occurred a large section of the cannon, weighing about eleven pounds was blown high in the air and landed with a crash on the roof of the railway train shed almost a block away. The heavy metal ripped up the roof of the structure, bounded off and landed within a foot of Francis DeKalt who was standing nearby.

LOST CHILDREN

More than a score of little boys and girls were entertained at police headquarters yesterday evening, when they became separated from parents or other adult guardians during their festivities of Independence Day. The boys made the largest percentage of "lost children" on record at the station. All were eventually reclaimed by anxious parents.

South Africa, left for Ireland last night and was expected to arrive in Dublin early today. It was understood here this morning that the purpose of his visit to Ireland was to confer with Sinn Féin and Unionist leaders of South Ireland preliminary to the resumption of their conference next Friday. The Unionists and Sinn Féiners held a brief meeting in Dublin yesterday, and reports received here indicated that they had reached an understanding as to matters to be discussed at future conferences.

The Dublin conference was the outstanding feature in London newspaper this morning, nearly all treating sympathetically and expressing hope that it would lead to peace in Ireland. Comment on the meeting, however, was not devoid of remarks that the conference did not affect the progress of the Sinn Féin guerrilla warfare on crown forces there.

Great interest was manifested in the mission of General Smuts to Ireland, there being a difference of opinion whether it was prompted by the government or undertaken at the invitation of Irish leaders. Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster, left Belfast for London today, and it is pointed out he will have abundant time to confer with members of the government and others whom he may desire to consult, pending a decision by Raymond de Valera.

Earl Middleton, one of the four southern Unionists who took part in yesterday's conference at Dublin, arrived in England last night and it is assumed he intends to confer with politicians here during the interval before the resumption of the Dublin conference on Friday. Earl Middleton, when interviewed at Holyhead declined to talk of the proceedings of the conference, saying the participants mutually had agreed to say nothing for publication at present, adding that, as far as he personally was concerned, he would say there was no reason to be dissatisfied with the progress made. He reiterated the statement issued at Dublin last night to the effect that certain decisions had been reached, but refused to indicate anything regarding their character.

Agree on Finance

DUBLIN, July 5. (By Associated Press)—For three hours yesterday Raymond de Valera, the Irish republican leader; Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin; and four southern Unionists, Sir Robert Henry Woods and Andrew Jameson, conferred on the Irish situation with a view to preparing the way for possible negotiations with the British prime minister and the Ulster premier, Sir James Craig.

Great crowds gathered outside the Mansion House, where the discussion took place, waving American flags, many falling on their knees and reciting prayers for the success of the conference. The Unionist representatives met with a cordial reception from those assembled.

The members of the conference were reticent regarding what took place at the meeting, but points of agreement were reached on the financial question and the disadvantages of partition.

In a statement to the Associated Press yesterday an important official, in touch with all sides of the situation, asserted that the government was prepared to make large concessions, the far-reaching effect of which Mr. de Valera would appreciate. He added that fears that Mr. de Valera would be hampered by physical forces were baseless.

The view is entertained here that Sir James Craig's absence from the conference may be even advantageous to the present negotiations, since any concessions necessary from Ulster might easier be made by the Ulster premier in London than Dublin. This view, however, is not shared by the members of the conference, who would have preferred that all Ireland should be represented.

Companies Closed Down Must Pay Help

MEXICO CITY, July 5.—Oil companies which have closed down operations in the states of Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz, "without sufficient justification," are ordered to pay indemnification to employees thrown out of work by their action in a decree issued by President Obregon last night. Although the amount is not stated, it is understood that all laborers would receive three months' pay. Reports from the Tampico district indicate there has been a marked cessation of work during the past week, especially among American concerns. No reason has been announced by the companies but it is understood to be an act of reprisal against the recent decree increasing the export taxes on petroleum. Reports from the Vera Cruz fields indicate British companies are speeding up operations instead of decreasing their working forces.

Italian Cabinet Satisfactory to Catholics

ROME, July 5.—Catholic leaders in Italian politics express their satisfaction with the new cabinet formed by Signor Bonomi. This is not because the Catholic members of the ministry have been increased from two to three, but because for the first time, the Catholics have obtained the much-desired portfolio of justice. It is pointed out that this post is most important, as it deals with ecclesiastical questions. The fascists, the nationalists and conservatives are declared to be opposing the cabinet, while the socialists will not be open in their opposition if the new administration will disband the fascisti groups which have been carrying on a bitter campaign against radicals in Italy for some months.

BOY IS SCIENCE TEST TO PROVE PARENTAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—How does nature advertise the parentage of a child? Is there an infallible index? The case of Eugene, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Mamie Del Secco, is casting the light of science and art upon these mysteries involved in his own disputed parentage, and which may establish a precedent for the fate of many another youngster.

Eugene was brought to court to find out who his father is.

Julius B. Sorine, former husband of the lady's mother, claims Eugene as his own.

The mother says not, and freely admits infidelity during her former marriage to back up her assertion.

The boy, who understands little of the implications behind tedious appearances before Judge Thomas F. Graham, is evidently bored by the custody proceedings. Sufficient for him just now that he has a mother and another "father" who loves him like the "daddy that used to be."

Judge Graham, whose verdict will fix the boy's fate, was not content to adjudge between the word of the mother and the belief of Sorine.

He considered the possibility that another boy might admit the thing to which Mrs. Del Secco confessed rather than surrender her child. Therefore, he called a scientist and noted sculptor to help him decide.

Mrs. Del Secco consented first to abide by the vibratory blood test originated by Dr. Albert Abrams, but repudiated the findings when Dr. Abrams unequivocally pronounced the boy Sorine's son.

Haig Patigan, celebrated sculptor, was then called in to subject the case to the practiced eye of plastic art. Patigan reported a singular similarity between man and boy, but said that resemblance alone, no matter how striking, could not wholly be relied upon to establish blood relation.

"I consider that Julius Sorine and the Del Secco child bear strong resemblance," said Patigan, "but I do not presume that that points of resemblance I have discovered should be considered absolute proof of paternity."

Mrs. Del Secco secured a divorce from Sorine shortly after the child's birth because he then denied being his father. Following her marriage to John Del Secco, six months ago, Corine laid claim to the boy and petitioned for his custody. Mrs. Del Secco then asserted in court that he had been right when he accused her of having been unfaithful during their marriage, but she has persistently refused to divulge who is the father of her child.

Here is a simple, untailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the detanant in an original package.—Adv.

An automobile owned and operated by Fred Allen of 181 Beacon street, Clinton, crashed into a stone post on the Princeton boulevard last evening. No one was injured in the crash, but the automobile was put out of commission. The driver of the car claims he was crowded into the post by an automobile operated by Peter Malino of 21 Concord street, Maynard, and he also reported to the police that Malino settled for the damage to his car with a $50 check.

James Tumulty of 20 Hudson street was struck and knocked down by an automobile at corner of Corham and Locke streets last evening at about 9 o'clock, but escaped with slight injuries. The machine is owned and was being operated by Herman Grantz of 102 Centre street, Chelmsford.

An automobile operated by Sam C. Applebaum of 35 Morris avenue, Somerville, and a machine driven by Napoleon R. Applebaum claims his machine was struck by the other car as he attempted to swing into Appleton street from South street.

Vanzetti on Stand

Vanzetti is charged with having killed Frederick A. Parmenter, a shoe factory paymaster, and Alessandro Berardelli, a guard, in the robbery of a payroll of $16,000 at South Braintree, on April 15, 1920. Vanzetti is now under sentence to the state prison for his part in a hold-up at Bridgewater, December 21, 1919, somewhat similar to that at South Braintree four months later.

After sketching briefly the story of his life from his birth in Italy, 33 years ago, the defendant asserted he was selling fish in Plymouth on the day of the murder.

Coming to the United States in the summer of 1908, he said he went to work in a restaurant kitchen in New York's west side. Later he worked in many places in Connecticut and Massachusetts before he went to Plymouth in 1913.

LOWELL FAMILY PINNED UNDER AUTOMOBILE

Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Shapiro and their three young children of 31 Nichols street, this city, had a narrow escape from serious injuries early last evening when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on the Lafayette road in Rye, N. H. Fortunately no one was injured and the machine was only slightly damaged.

The Lowell party were returning from Portland, Me., where they spent the week-end and when a spot was reached near the Hampton line at Rye, their machine skidded in a sand bar, when Mr. Shapiro swung to the right to avoid striking another car, and the automobile overturned into the ditch on the side of the road. Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro and their children became pinned under the car, but were soon rescued by the occupants of a Newton automobile, which happened along. The Shapiro car was driven to a nearby garage and the Lowell people returned to their home by train. Mr. Shapiro stated today that no one was injured and that the only damage to the machine was to the bumper and windshield.

LOWELL BOY GETS B. C. SCHOLARSHIP

Arthur Joseph Riley, son of William E. Riley, instructor in penmanship at the State Normal school, has been awarded a four-years' scholarship to Boston college. It was announced today.

The honor which has just come to the Lowell boy is a noteworthy one as

Mr. Riley won it from a large field of competitors from all parts of the state. The scholarship will entitle him to four years' free tuition at the Newton Institution.

Mr. Riley's latest honor comes on the heels of one which was accorded him less than two weeks ago when he was graduated from the Lowell high school and awarded a Carney medal for proficiency in studies. He will enter Boston college in September. He lives at 691 Wilder street.

OPERATING WHILE UNDER INFLUENCE

Two defendants charged with operating motor vehicles while drunk were before Judge Fisher in the police court this morning, and had their cases continued when they pleaded not guilty. Judge Thomas J. Enright, regular justice of the police court, recently warned motorists and motorcycleists that future cases of driving machines while under the influence of liquor would be accorded severe measures and would receive direct jail sentences.

The first defendant on this charge called this morning was James Fallon, charged with operating a motorcycle while drunk on Lakeview, July 2. He will be heard July 12. Frank F. Curtis was charged with operating an automobile while drunk. Witnesses are Lieut. Ryan and Officers Conway and Sullivan. The case was not over to July 9. "Perhaps you do not realize what a serious offense you are charged with," said Judge Fisher to Curtis, adding that he had better engage counsel.

booths and a balloon, $700 worth of goods were stolen, but it is believed that some of this will be recovered. Two of the stands belonged to Roan, and the other four were the property of out-of-town concessionaires. The occupants of all the booths were re-installed in booths erected by Mr. Roan, and continued business.

It was stated at city hall this morning when the question of extending the carnival was discussed, that from a legal standpoint the park department would not be empowered to allow a further continuance of the affair, as the permission only extends, according to law for one day after the Fourth. Clerk Flaherty, of the licensing board, declared this morning that in the event of such an extension, new licenses would have to be taken out by concessionaires, as those at present in use are only valid to today, reading up to and including July 6.

Young Girls Need Care

FROM the age of twelve a girl needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter make life easier for her.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions. It can be taken in safety by any woman, young or old.

Read How These Mothers Helped Their Daughters

Guttenberg, N. J.—"My daughter was all run down and had fainting spells often, had a bad complexion, and suffered at her monthly periods. Her grandmother had been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the Change of Life, and got a bottle of it for her. She began to improve with the first bottle and took five in all and was entirely restored to health. For a time she had not been able to attend school, but she does now. She recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to her friends and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. CATHERINE MCGLOVE, 304 24th St., Guttenberg, N. J.

Roxbury, Mass.—"My daughter is a schoolgirl and she suffered very much with irregular periods, painful cramps and dizzy headaches. She was sometimes as long as three months between her periods and when they came she was not able to do her school home lessons because she could not even sit up. A copy of one of your little books was left in my letter-box and she began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for her troubles. She is now in good health, is regular and can help me with the housework when not in school."—Mrs. VICTORIA F. SPRESSERT, 74 Bragdon St., Roxbury, Mass.

Employees' Drive For Greater Business

Started off With a Bang This Morning at 8.30 o'clock

LAST Year, we, as well as other reputable houses, enjoyed a very large volume of business, it being a very remarkable year in many ways. During the remainder of July and the month of August we are going to make a special effort to exceed the business of the corresponding months last year by at least 50%. To do this means a much great number of sales, due to the fact that prices have been materially reduced since a year ago. Our store people, who are a most loyal group of individuals, say they are going to do it! Now Just Watch Us! The store people have been divided in two armies—The Reds and The Blues—and they are under the leadership of two of the popular buyers of the store. Enthusiasm is running high, and the greatest competition exists between both armies. Watch the daily papers and the store windows for the special features during this drive. Special prizes are to be given to the individuals in the departments standing the highest each week.

Part of the Crowd Which Got First News of the Fight Saturday Afternoon

THE SUN LEADS AS USUAL

Saturday's Demonstration Big Victory—Contemporary Is Leader in Name Only

The Sun takes pardonable pride in the manner in which it handled the returns of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight Saturday afternoon and gave its readers first news from the ringside long before its competitors were able to announce the result of the big international contest.

It was a day of succeeding journalistic triumphs for The Sun staff but its most important achievement and that which was most appreciated by the fans was the fact that it got a paper on the street with the result of the big fight fully five minutes before its nearest competitor. Not only did it carry the result of the fight but it also gave its readers a life-size picture of the winner. The Sun's sporting extra had the appearance of a real sporting extra and one glance at it told fight fans the whole story.

There was the first triumph for this newspaper—it gave the fans the first published account of the battle at Jersey City and when The Sun's sporting extra had been practically sold out, its competitor began to make an appearance with the story that had already grown old.

Then, while the fight was going on, The Sun gave megaphone service to thousands of fans in Merrimack square. A leased wire direct from the arena to the fourth floor of The Sun building gave Sun patrons every move of the boxers a second after it happened. As usual, The Sun man was the first to announce the fact that Dempsey had won. Another newspaper and the Chalfoux Co. gave similar service, but this paper was the first to announce the result.

But The Sun did not stop with one sporting extra, but put out another telling of the human interest scenes following the big fight and giving many details of the fight's conditions after the bout, the financial receipts, etc. It covered the fight from every angle.

While its competitor was struggling to get out its first edition, The Sun had put out its two regular editions, again carrying the first stories of the fight before the battle, the number attending the fight, etc. The fans didn't have to wait until 3:15 for the first news of the day from Jersey. The Sun gave it to them at 1:40.

Incidentally, did you notice that The Sun was the only local paper and only paper in the state, for that matter, to print on Saturday the story of the taking over of the former Harvard Brewery building in Payson street by a new corporation for the purpose of establishing a warehouse and storehouse—one of the most important transactions of its kind ever negotiated here?

But all this is an old story to Sun readers. From years of experience they have come to expect such service from The Sun and they are never disappointed.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 5.—Approximately 7000 coworkers in the independent plants of the Connelville coke region were affected today by a 10 per cent. reduction in wages, the second announced this year.

The chief of police declared yesterday that his inquiries indicated the fire was of incendiary origin, and that bombs either had been planted or thrown into the presidential suite.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN HERO AT SALISBURY

Leo R. Mongeau, aged 20 years, a student at Holy Cross and a son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mongeau of this city, who is spending the summer with his parents at Salisbury beach, performed a heroic act at the beach Sunday when he saved Antonio Toris, aged 11 years, of 111 Gardner street, Lawrence, from a watery grave. The little fellow was saved after going under water for the second time and after the efforts of several men to reach him had failed.

The Toris boy was bathing at the beach with water wings strapped to his body, when the underflow of the outgoing tide brought him a distance of about 100 yards from shore into water above his head. The little fellow struggled for life and shouted for help and his shouts were heard by two or three men who were enjoying a sun bath on the beach, but their efforts to reach him were fruitless. It was then that Leo Mongeau, who was also taking things easy on the beach, started out to the lad's rescue. He managed to reach him and after placing him on his shoulder, managed to reach shore safely but not until he had struggled in the water for over half an hour. When brought to shore the boy was in a semi-conscious condition, but was soon revived and today is none the worse for his experience. The Lowell young man was warmly congratulated for the heroic rescue, for it was feared at one time that he would not be able to reach shore with the boy.

MARATHON SOCIAL AND ATHLETIC CLUB

The official opening of the new quarters of the Marathon Social and Athletic Club at 27 Hanover street took place Sunday afternoon, and the exercises were largely attended. President Peter Tsafaras presided over the program and the speakers were Mayor Thompson, Thomas F. Spellman of Boston, chief examiner for the naturalization service; Dr. John K. Gatsopoulos and Dionisios Soufras, a Harvard student.

The new quarters of the club, a four-story stone building, was purchased last year at a cost of $5300. Inside and outside alterations to the extent of $6000 have been made and now the club has one of the most modern and best equipped buildings in the city.

The basement consists of a well appointed gymnasium with shower baths, toilets and boiler room, while on the second floor are the main office of the club and running track. The third story is taken up with a reading room, library and billiard rooms, while on the fourth floor are located offices for various Greek organizations. The membership of the club is 354 and it is expected that within a few months it will reach the thousand mark. The officers are as follows:

Peter Tsafaras, president; Spyros Hiondros, vice president; Sathros Kamos, treasurer; George Boemitis, secretary; John Shumas, Costas Rassias, Peter Gencantros, C. S. Kalodakis and Christos Svolintopoulos, directors. The aim of the organization is to promote athletics in this city and to increase the number of American citizens in the local Greek colony.

IS FRESH AS LARK OF MORNINGS NOW

Mrs. Martel Says She Gained Seven Pounds On Very First Bottle of Tanlac

"When I think of what Tanlac has done for me I also think of what I need it like I did, and I want to do all I can to help them find out about this grand medicine," said Mrs. Mary Martel, of 31 Nashua st., Fall River, Mass.

"My appetite was so poor that I couldn't force myself to eat enough to keep up my strength. Even the smell of cooking nauseated me and I was so miserable I hardly felt like turning my hands to do a thing. I was so tired and worn out when night came I just felt like I could go to sleep standing up, but when I would lie down I was so nervous and restless I could scarcely sleep a wink. I lost weight and felt so wretched that my friends were talking about what had happened to me and I just knew I was on the verge of a nervous and physical breakdown."

"However, I began improving on my first few doses of Tanlac, and two bottles have made me feel like a different person. I have such a big appetite that it just keeps me hungry all the time now, and everything agrees with me perfectly. I gained seven pounds in weight on my very first bottle and have been gaining right along ever since. I sleep like a child at night and get up mornings feeling refreshed and energetic and as happy as a lark. My work is easy for me now and I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Ad.

It is expected that within a few months it will reach the thousand mark. The officers are as follows:

Peter Tsafaras, president; Spyros Hiondros, vice president; Sathros Kamos, treasurer; George Boemitis, secretary; John Shumas, Costas Rassias, Peter Gencantros, C. S. Kalodakis and Christos Svolintopoulos, directors. The aim of the organization is to promote athletics in this city and to increase the number of American citizens in the local Greek colony.

Suzanne Comes to "Settle Up"

BY DEAN SNYDER
Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis champion, comes to "settle up" for all time. One is to "settle up" and the other is to settle down.
To realize the first she is coming to America to "settle up" for all time—the question as to who is the world's greatest and most spectacular woman tennis player.
After her attempt to prove that she is entitled to this title she wants to settle down in a home of her own.
For tennis to this 22-year-old girl wonder is only secondary, after all. Although she is merely a girl she is old in tennis. At 11 Suzanne was good enough to beat her parents. She won the championship of France when but 14.
In 1919 she took every event she entered on the Riviera without loss of a single set and also the singles and doubles championship at Wimbledon, England, by defeating Mrs. Lambert Chambers in the challenge round.
Last year she maintained her unbeaten record. She won the singles championship again at Wimbledon, also the doubles with Mrs. Ryan, and the mixed doubles with Gerald Patterson, the Australian.
"Before the war I had gained the title of world's champion," says Suzanne.
"But in reality I have only won the titles in France and England. That will give me the undisputed right to be called the world's champion."
"Tennis is only secondary to me. I hope to make enough out of my tour in America to get myself up in housekeeping as you Americans call it—settling down."
"I don't practice much any more. I couldn't bear the idea of training every day. That would be tiresome and take all the fun out of the game for me."
"I play because I love it. It's my only pastime, too, for I dance and swim poorly."
Her victory over Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt recently in France was not so much of a surprise as was the ease with which she vanquished America's leading woman player.
The game which the French girl plays is the most spectacular of any player in the world. She leaps into the air. She dies across the court, her hair streaming. She hits the ball with the power of a man.
Her very name, Suzanne, suggests pep. And if she were an American we'd likely call her "Pep" Lenglen instead of Mlle. Suzanne.

Faster Than Collins

At last a man has appeared on the horizon of baseball who is faster than the great Eddie Collins in executing double plays around second base.
He is Stanley Harris of the Washington Americans.
Harris has the knack of handling balls from all angles and snapping them on to first base to complete the play in six seconds of the runner.
Collins has held that speed honor for a long time, but after 15 years major league service, has slowed up some.
Harris is conceded by many to be as fast in negotiating double plays as Collins was in his prime.

BUCKLEY IN THE LEAD

South End Captain Now Tops Ricard's Most Popular Player Contest

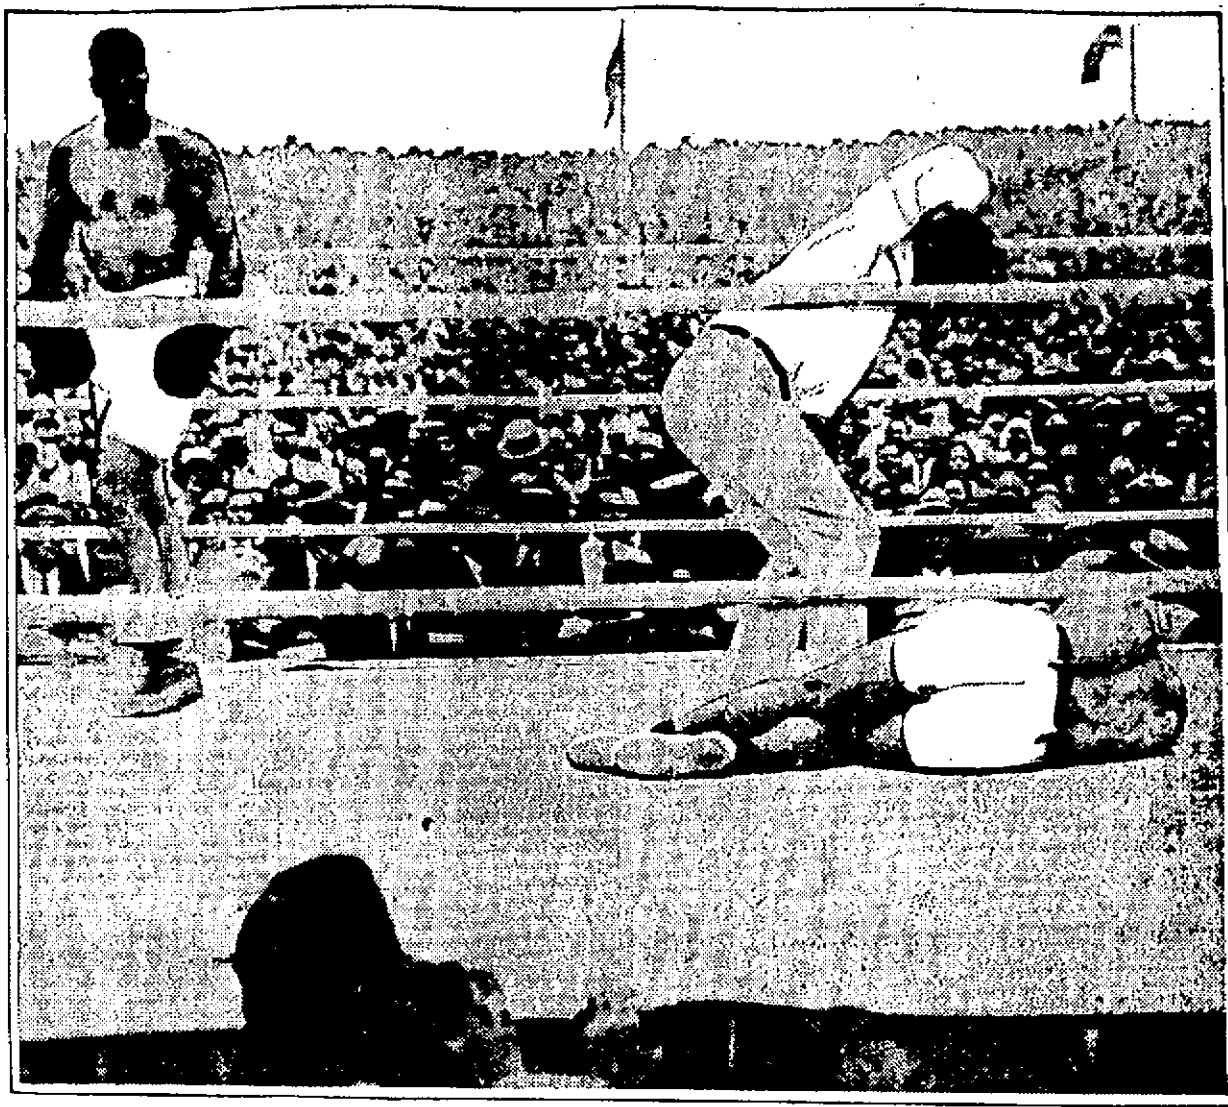

"Abe" Buckley, popular center-fielder for the South Ends, jumped into the lead this week in the most popular player contest being conducted by Frank Ricard, the Central Street Jeweler. Desmond, Marcotte, Green and Purcell follow in that order. Great interest is being shown in this contest throughout the city, and every week finds more votes pouring in to Ricard's than the previous week. Extraordinary care is taken by the judges of the contest in sorting and counting these votes, and much time is spent, therefore, assuring participants and the general public that great pains are taken in the counting. Each night in The Sun, on its sporting page, you will find a coupon good for one vote. Cut this out. Fill it out for your favorite. Send the votes in early to Ricard's, 123 Central Street. Make it a point to get your votes in by Friday of each week, so that your favorite will be credited with them in that week's standing. Watch for the standing every Monday in The Sun on the sporting page.
The twelve leaders in the contest follow:

PAUL DOYLE TAKES SEIGAL'S TITLE

BOSTON, July 5.—Paul Doyle is now the welterweight champion of New England, taking the title from the holder, Nate Seigal of Revere, at the T-D reunion bouts at Braves Field yesterday afternoon. At the end of the 10-round number, the referee gave Doyle the decision.
The battle was one of the fastest and most grueling seen in this city in a long time. In the second round it looked as if Doyle was going to be polished off quickly, as Seigal put him down for the count of eight with a short right to the jaw. When Doyle got to his feet, he blocked off the rights and lefts rained on him.
Seigal had some weight on Doyle and went after him from the start. Doyle displayed great cleverness and head-work, doing some fine blocking. It was his left that proved the undoing of the champion. He hooked and Seigal many times, driving his right to the jaw also. In the fifth round, Doyle opened Seigal's lower lip with a stiff left jab and he made that spot the target with his left after that.
When Doyle was declared the winner and new champion, not a dissenting voice was raised.
Tommy Regan of East Boston and Bobby Joseph of the South End came together in the opening bout, a 10-round affair. Joseph was declared the winner. He had the honors in every round except two. Regan was weary from the smashes he received. In the clinches Joseph gave Regan a had punning on the body.
Jack Malone of St. Paul easily won the award over Pat Reed of Natick in another 10-round number. In the opening session Malone nearly put Reed down with a short right to the jaw, and in the other rounds he rocked Reed with rights and lefts.
It looked in the last part of the battle as if Malone was not trying very hard to score a knockout. It was his first appearance here. Regan was a paw style brawler. Malone, in some extent at the start.
TULARE, Calif., July 5.—Tulare Post of the American Legion has telegraphed to the Commander Burton R. Fife of the legion suggesting the raising of a purse of $25,000 for any boxer formerly a member of any of the allied or associated armies who defeats Jack Dempsey.
When Jack-the-Hutch sails home to us.
As quickly as he lands.
We'll want to eye his golfing stance.
And how he holds his hands.

THE KNOCKOUT!

This time Georges Carpentier was down—and out. Once before he had staggered to his feet after a count of nine. Here is shown the second—and final—knockdown. As Referee Harry Ertle tolled off the count, Carpentier made a jerky, convulsive movement as if to arise; but his weakened frame was unequal to the effort; he sank back and rolled over on his side—finished. Dempsey is shown at the other side of the ring watching the referee's arm come down with the count of ten.

SUN WRITER REAL "I-TOLD-YOU-SO"

Kilbane Picked the Winner, the Round and the Blows That Decided Demp-Carp. Bout—Says Dempsey Must Now Meet Tom Gibbons

JOHNNY KILBANE

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion
JERSEY CITY, July 5.—The next logical opponent for Champion Jack Dempsey is Tommy Gibbons.
Gibbons would have put up a better fight against Dempsey than Georges Carpentier did.
Dempsey won in the round I predicted in my special article in The Sun, and the blows that put Carpentier out were the blows I forecast.
Carpentier was knocked out because he didn't use those famous brains of his—because he failed to stay out of the clinches.
Boxing was the method by which Georges could have won. He was advertised as a better boxer than Dempsey, and he proved this superiority beyond the shadow of doubt.
But Georges was a fool not to stay out of clinches. Dempsey had more weight, more strength and more stamina. This overcame Carpentier's greater speed and boxing skill.
Carpentier lost because he let himself get into clinches where Dempsey, with his 20 pounds of excess weight, could lay that weight against him and wear him out and weaken him with short jabs.
Brute strength beat boxing skill.
In spite of Carpentier's handicap of choosing the wrong method of fighting, he fought an even fight up to the fatal fourth round.
It was plain to me that Dempsey was heating him in the first round in the clinches by a use of short uppercuts, mostly lefts.
I give Dempsey the first round, but the second round unquestionably belonged to Carpentier. He was boxing in this round and he was too fast for Dempsey and Dempsey was missing and Carpentier was landing worthwhile punches. I judged the third round a draw, with Carpentier landing more blows but with Dempsey averaging things up with his superior strength.
Taking the fight as a whole, Carpentier landed more blows than Dempsey did—just as I forecast.
If Carpentier had boxed—boxing all the time and dancing his way out of those deadly clinches—as he did so admirably in the second round, he might have won.
Carpentier didn't do the thing he could do better than Dempsey and he tried to do the thing that Dempsey could do better than he could. That was Carpentier's fatal mistake.
The Frenchman surprised many by the splendid fight he put up. And he had Dempsey groggy in the second round. And he did this latter in spite of the fact that he was weakened by the punishment he received in the clinches during the first round.
I predicted Dempsey would win in the fourth round with a right-hand blow to the heart and a left hook to the

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WIN BALL GAME

In a slow, somewhat spiritless game the Knights of Columbus won handily from the Boston Professionals yesterday afternoon at Spaulding park: score, 8 to 4. From the start the visiting team showed that it did not possess the qualities necessary to snatch a win from their fast rivals and as the game proceeded it became merely a question of how large the score should be at the end.
Davidson from Fitchburg tossed for the home team and it was largely through his efforts that the K. of C. won. King was the name of the opposing pitcher but he fell far short of ridding the ball for after the local boys had solved the easy riddle of his slow ball they hit him almost at will and rolled up the hits which swung the tide of battle to their side.
Some new names appeared in the K. of C. lineup. Several former college boys were on the roster, including Huppelle of Holy Cross, Knowles of Harvard and McLaughlin of Fordham.
The local team showed a better brand of ball than they have at any time this season and it was no wonder that they conquered the Boston team, professionals though they were. Manager Chughlin has a strong ball team this year and may look for a very successful season if he gets any considerable proportion of the breaks.
The visitors got their first rally in the first stanza when a pass, a stolen base and a wild pitch gave them an opportunity. They did not get another chance until the seventh when three successful hits, bunched closely, made the going easy. It was at this point

Jabez White Substituted and Montreal Won

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 5.—Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion of the world, and Young Montreal of Providence did not meet in their scheduled fight yesterday afternoon. Lynch reported that he was unable to box because of a strained ligament in his back.
Jabez White of Albany was substituted for the champion in a 12-round no-decision bout. Newspapers at the ringside said Young Montreal won 10 of the rounds.

RACING AUTO DRIVER KILLED AT NO. ADAMS

NORTH ADAMS, July 5.—Joseph Thomas, a racing automobile driver, was instantly killed yesterday when his car crashed through a fence on the west turn in a race at the fair grounds here. Although his car went into a crowd no one else was injured.
Thomas, whose home was in the Hyde Park section of Boston, was making his first race as a driver, having been employed as a mechanic previously for the troupe of racing motorists who participated in the contest yesterday. He was an officer in the aircraft production division of the air service during the war.
CARE NOT TO RETIRE
MANHASSETT, L. I., July 5 (by the Associated Press).—Georges Carpentier will not retire from the ring as a result of his defeat by Dempsey. He will fight any man in the world excepting the champion, who he admits is his superior. This statement was made yesterday by Francis DeCarman, the Frenchman's manager.

NOTES OF THE GAME

The local team plays the Haverhill K. of C. at Javerhill Wednesday. The game to be called at 5 o'clock.
Next Saturday the Dorchester team which is considered to be a very strong aggregation will be the attraction at Spaulding park.
The crowd was very large yesterday considering the many counter attractions that were being staged in the city.
Every one of the former college boys showed up well. Ropelle made an especially favorable impression in the outfield.
SHEVLIN DEFEATS KLOBY AT SALEM
SALEM, July 5.—Eddie Shevlin, the Boston welterweight, won the decision over Tommy Kloby Corcoran of Lawrence in their 10-round bout at the open-air show of the Naavalls A.C. yesterday afternoon.
It was sweet revenge for Shevlin for the knockout that Kloby gave him in Lawrence a few years ago. About 12,000 fans watched the bout.
Kloby fought in his usual tearing-in style, trying with both hands for the body and head. He found Shevlin a smarter fighter than when they met before and Kloby could not land his punches very often. Shevlin slipped to one side from most of Kloby's loads, countering the Lawrence boxer with either a right or left.
In the clinches, Shevlin worked his right uppercut with good effect. It was the first part of the opening session did Kloby show to advantage. The rest of the way Shevlin had the honors by a big margin.

CARP TO REST UP AND NURSE BROKEN HAND

MANHASSET, N. Y., July 5.—Georges Carpentier will spend several weeks here following the doctor's orders, Francois Descamps, his manager, announced today. His hand, broken in his battle with the victorious Dempsey last Saturday, probably will take about six weeks to heal, he estimated, and it was not believed the European champion would do any boxing before that time.

Descamps said, "I am not sure of the possibility of a bout between Carpentier and Tom Gibbons in the big Jersey City arena on Labor day. The doctor, however, has not yet seen the counter, announced last night that he might arrange such a bout on the day named, but said he had not conferred with any officials of the Frenchman's camp. Descamps, however, said he was highly in favor of the match as soon as Georges' hand is healed and he has had sufficient time to rest."

"The bout is six weeks of rest," Descamps said, "according to the doctor's orders, and then Georges would need about six weeks of training to be in the best possible condition for Tom Gibbons or any other opponent. This program would keep him out of the ring until early in October."

Carpenter's plans are somewhat indefinite, but he is expected to be seriously considering taking a trip to France before he engages in another bout in this country.

GOOD HORSE RACES
AT GOLDEN COVE

Independence Day races at Golden Cove yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Lowell Driving club were the best that have been seen hereabouts for many moons and the crowd was the largest yet seen at the Golden Cove track. The list of entries included fast horses from various cities and the races were all that could be desired. The weather, of course, was a bit too warm for comfort so far as it applied to humans, but the horses didn't seem to mind it except to sweat a little more than usual.

NEW YORK, July 5.—"It's an old story, the heavyweight championship of the world, but this is the first time Jack Dempsey, his manager, has had a real opportunity to enjoy it. With the abandonment of a schoolboy, the youthful titleholder is free to do as he pleases, and to vacation with all the enthusiasm of a youngster."

Since Jack stepped into the ring at Toledo, two years ago yesterday and unopposed, he has been a busy man. Now that he has prevented another contender in the person of Georges Carpentier, from annexing the title he has cast away and can now enjoy his vacation. He is playing, but probably at the end of this week, he will be found in a hotel in the West, or in a train westward bound.

Jack Dempsey, his mother, will be waiting for him. Dempsey declared he was anxious to get back to his home, and especially anxious to see his mother. The three Belgian police dogs that were his companions at Atlantic City already are on their way.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 5.—Jack Dempsey, still the heavyweight champion of the world, observed Fourth of July yesterday in addition to celebrating his victory over Georges Carpentier, the European champion, Saturday.

Dempsey plans to remain in this vicinity for several days, when he will go to Salt Lake City, his home, for a vacation and rest from his long training.

The champion Sunday saw himself in action. He motored to a motion picture theatre where he was showing pictures of Saturday's battle. Huddled in a back seat alongside of Jack Kearns, his manager, and Mike Grant, the Chicago detective sergeant who has been his bodyguard since he won the title, Dempsey watched the picture of his fight with Carpentier.

INTRODUCING BOB HART TO LOCAL SPORT WRITER

The sporting writer for a local Sunday paper, said to be none other than the president of the Twilight League, who also writes sports for other local papers, had a note in the former sheet the other day stating that Mike Mahoney was the only man Lowell ever sent to the big league as an umpire. This is one of the most humorous "phases" ever pulled in local sporting circles.

"Ask any school boy if Lowell has a representative on either of the big league umpire staffs, and it's a sure bet his reply will be in the affirmative. Only the other day the Sun's sporting page, which is right now among the best published in New England, carried an interesting letter from the Lowell man who is bringing credit to this city by his splendid work as umpire in the National league."

Incidentally, the man referred to picked the winner of the big fight at Jersey City July 2, and while his views did not conform to the wishes of the league president-sporting writer, he nevertheless was one of the many Sun contributors, who had the right dope on the international battle.

And this year is not the first that this popular, efficient and highly respected citizen of the Lowell city, who served as a big league umpire. We refer to genial "Bob" Hart, who in the winter time plays polo and enjoys the pleasures of his membership in the Lowell lodge of Elks, the Lowell council, K. of C., and the local Y.M.C.A.

If the reports are true that the Twilight head, the writer for the Sun, who made this error, the explanation of the "how" may be that the duties of the presidency are more arduous than one on the outside would imagine. In the same issue the writer admitted that he considered the league president did more work than the league umpires or the players, for he announced the names of the largest yet seen at the Golden Cove track. The list of entries included fast horses from various cities and the races were all that could be desired.

Congress To Pass Protective Tariff on Foreign Films

JOHN EMERSON, HE'S PRESIDENT OF ACTORS' EQUITY AND THE BIG GUN IN THE FIGHT FOR TARIFF ON FOREIGN FILMS.

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, July 5.—Congress is to pass a 30 per cent. tariff on all imported films to protect American actors.

John Emerson says so. And John Emerson is the president of the Actors' Equity association which has between 10,000 and 15,000 members. He is also the husband of Anita Loos. And an actor. And a scenario writer. And a director.

You've seen pictures of movie directors, haven't you? And read about them? They wear their caps turned backward. And riding breeches. And puttees. And a megaphone. And lots of atmosphere.

Well, you ought to see Emerson in action as a director. Only he's not a director. He sits still most of the time. No megaphone. His voice never rises above conversational tone. He looks and acts like a college professor teaching the theory of the fourth dimension.

Saw him the other day directing Clarence Talmaidge in "Good for Nothing." He wore white flannel trousers, white shirt and a turn-down collar of ancient cut.

It was hottest blueblazes in the studio and so he wore his handkerchief tucked in his collar, big-fashion. The interview was between scenes. Scenes were changed so often that the interview suffered from lack of continuity, as Emerson might say.

"Do you believe foreign films should be banned from this country?" I asked. "Not at all," he answered. "But we ought to protect American actors and American interests in this industry the same as we do in all industries. It's a business proposition."

It's well enough to talk about art for art's sake, but let's not talk about it for the sake of Europe when American actors face the disasters of unemployment. "Right now American producers are planning production in Europe because of the low price of labor there. If that plan becomes extensive with no protective tariff the American industry faces ruin."

This Man Emerson
John Emerson used to think movies were "the bunk." He saw "The Birth of a Nation." He saw it 12 consecutive days. Then he deserted the stage for the screen.

He had had 20 years' experience on the stage. Was associated with Mrs. Fiske, Clyde Fitch, Charles Frohman and others.

When he went to the Metropolitan studios six years ago he met Anita Loos. They were married two years ago. That was after they had collaborated on a number of pictures.

Their first was "His Picture in the Papers," a satire for Douglas Fairbanks.

Most of Emerson's stories are satires on society.

CHAPLIN'S SUCCESS
"The Fireman," one of Chaplin's earlier films, has been revived. It is bringing as many laughs as it did years ago and as many as Chaplin's newer comedies bring.

That's because the quality of Chaplin comedy is about the same now as it was in the beginning. He held us up to our own ridicule then as he does now.

For instance, our telephone conduct. A man's house is a fire. He calls the fire department. The man at one end and Chaplin at the other are both laughing. When Emerson is talking, other folks to have the receiver at his ear.

Thus it is in our own experiences. We feel that our party often because of our own impatience. The man runs to the engine house.

Amundsen Arrives at Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., July 5.—Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South pole and seeker of the North pole, arrived here last night from Nome, Alaska, where he appeared the middle of June after leaving his schooner, the Maud, at Cape Serge, disabled by a broken propeller. Captain Amundsen said he still considered entirely feasible his project to drift across the North pole with the current, which he believes flows from Greenland to Siberia. He expects to remain in this country a year, he explained, before proceeding with his voyage.

Amundsen's arrival in Seattle was a great event. He was met by a large crowd of people. He was taken to a hotel where he will stay during his stay in the city.

BRALEY'S STORY OF FIGHT IN VERSE

BY BERTON BRALEY
JERSEY CITY, July 5.—The lights are low in Gaby Carey—the boutards are sad—because the news from overseas is worse, worse than the news from Jersey City. The Frenchman is a sport all right, and yet he lost the fight.

It seemed to me Carpentier, the smiling boy from France, was badly handled all the way and scarcely had a chance. His tactics seemed, exceeding strange to one who watched the bout; he should have fought at greater range, just dodging in and out, instead of playing Dempsey's game and fighting one and hard on things worth over a million dollars.

It was a splendid fight to watch, a battle full of blows. Though Georges had a crimson spot where once had been his nose, he kept on fighting hard and fast till Dempsey wore him down, and knocked him to his knees at last—so Jack retains the crown!

Oh! Gaby! Dempsey's Tex is king. He left his nose on me, he did not let that cheer for every blow he did sort of time with has been and with variety, hopes and challenges and much—Ah, no, he cannot say much of such. We thank him very much.

The crowd was great, a mighty mob that cheered for ever blow. It sort of made your heartstrings throbb to hear them roaring so. It was a sight to recall, and so it's safe to add that by and large and all in all a pleasant time was had by all.

New Georges and the mighty Jack battle day they look back and say: each one can wipe his brow as on the night of the fight. They had their fight, they've got their pay—and the fight, we end our rhyme with "Au revoir, Carpentier, and better luck next time!"

LEONARD CALLED OFF
BOUT ON HOLIDAY

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 5.—The Michigan State commission has sent a representative to Chicago, where Benny Leonard is stopping, to investigate the condition of the fight, which was called off his match at Benton Harbor yesterday with Sailor Freedman.

"While we have no reason to doubt Leonard's word," said Secretary C. A. McCauley of the commission, "we want to be sure as if there was any slight suspicion about the affair it might lead to the losing of Leonard from boxing, and that is a great loss."

Leonard gave as his reason for not appearing at Benton Harbor that he was suffering from rheumatism. In an article there, he said, he was given a big reception and was out in the air most of the day instead of remaining in his hotel and attending his affairs.

"We have no reason to doubt his explanation and are merely sending our representative to make sure. If there should be anything wrong with Leonard's explanation, it is almost as surely would be laid out of the state."

PRIVY COUNCIL SCORES GRAFT SCANDALS

TOKIO, June 3 (Delayed).—Graft scandals in connection with the management of the South Manchuria railway which led to the dismissal of the high officials have been made the subject of condemnation of the government by the privy council of the empire.

The resolution of the privy council declares that Japanese colonial affairs need drastic reform. It was attached to a bill proposing revision of the regulations for the Kwantung leased territory. It continues:

"The position we occupy in South Manchuria was gained after a war in which safety of the nation was at stake, and its importance is so great that the development of that part of Asia has a vital bearing on the national prosperity of the Japanese people. The South Manchuria railway company is not a business concern of the ordinary description, and it may not be too much to say that it is the price of the blood of our people."

"The nature of the South Manchuria railway being such, the members of the privy council of the empire, cannot help but share in the regret of the general public at the prevailing condition of affairs as revealed by the various scandals in which high officials are involved."

"The privy council's resolution then urges on the government 'the necessity of talking proper steps, not only to put a check on the present impossible situation but to place these affairs in such shape that they will lead to a further development of our interests in that part of our territory.'"

TOO TO WORK

A Mother Tells How Her Daughter Was Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had had pains across her back and in her sides, her back would pain her so that she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. KATIE EICHER, 4034 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions and often with wet feet, young girls contract deranged conditions, and before they are hardly aware of it they develop headaches, backache, irregularities, nervousness and bearing-down pains, all of which are symptoms of woman's ills. If every mother who has a daughter suffering from such symptoms would profit by the experience of Mrs. Eicher and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial she may expect the same happy result.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Large holiday crowds witnessed the second Black New England theatre presentation at the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening and like those who saw and heard the features of the first presentation of this sort a week ago they were most enthusiastic and admiring. The policy of the Capitol theatre in New York City—that of combining photoplays and music in an artistic potpourri—has been brought to Lowell amusement lovers by Manager Nelson and is certainly being appreciated.

The program opens with a catchy overture and this is followed by the Merrimack Square News, always up to the minute in portraying world events. "Sharks at the Bottom of the Sea," a unique film presentation, is the next feature. Rarely has there been accomplished so difficult a photographic feat.

"Indian Summer," an idyll in film, is a bit of beautiful sentimentality and in equally beautiful photography, while jungle vaudeville is an out of the ordinary entertainment feature.

"What a Difference a Few Years Make," the next feature of this week's presentation, was just as funny as the series shown last week under the same name while the vocal solo, "Mother Macree," by Charles Hanson, brought forth immediate recognition.

The big photoplay offering of the program, "Madonnas and Men," proved a dramatic treat. Seldom, if ever, has such a remarkable entertainment been presented in this city. It is filled to overflowing with all the elements that go into the making of the finest kind of photographic entertainment.

A powerfully dramatic story, dealing with ancient and modern times, is enacted by a cast of unusual excellence in which Evan Burrows Fontaine, the noted "Ziegfeld Follies" favorite, is seen as a dancing girl, Edmond Lowe, who played opposite Louise Ulrich in Belasco's "Son-Of-A-Gun," has one of the leading roles as well as Anders Randolph, who scores the hit of his career in the part of the revenge seeking millionaire. Dolores Fairo Binney and beautiful Ilaye Dean are also seen in captivating roles while that noted character actor Gustaf Von Seyffritz offers the most astounding bit of characterization ever seen in the role of the father who devotes his life and fortune to finding his lost daughter. In addition to these featured players thousands of others appear in the massive scenes depicting the Roman amphitheatre and other elaborate sets.

There is not a moment during the presentation of "Madonnas and Men" in which the interest is allowed to lag. Throughout the production the spectator is held spellbound, is completely carried away by the great production, story and playing of the cast. To see "Madonnas and Men" is to see the last word in photodramas.

A Fountain Dance by Bernice Adams and Clyde Adams in his latest comedy bit, "All Wrong," were other big features of the program.

THE STRAND THEATRE

Charlie Chaplin is in town again and his headquarters for the next three days of the week is at the Strand theatre, where he is entertaining with a very delightful comedy, "Tillie's Punctured Romance." Charlie is as funny as ever and his new play is a side-splitting comedy. The story concerns a farm girl named Tillie, who is being courted by a city chap, "Charlie." The latter really is a rich fellow and goes back to his former sweetheart, but later when he learns of money, he manages to regain his friendship and a marriage follows. It turns out, however, that Tillie's inheritance is hardly worth while, so the clever city chap has a pretty problem to solve, and how he gets out of his mixup is the most interesting part of the play.

The dramatic end of the program is a most enjoyable play entitled "His Own Law," in which Hobart Bosworth plays the title role. This unfolds the story of McNeil, a member of a big engineering firm, who goes on a spree after every big job. He becomes friendly with Jean Savat, another engineer, after a little encounter with him in a San Francisco saloon. Savat falls in love with a charming young woman and just as he is about to marry the girl he is called back to his regiment in France. Later news of the death of Savat is received and McNeil marries the girl. Savat returns, however, after four years and his return is followed by one of the well-known mind, just go and see for yourself. The current events are interesting, while the musical numbers are very pleasing.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

Thousands went to Lakeview yesterday to enjoy the free vaudeville and other forms of amusement at the popular picnic resort, and if there was one place where the ozone had played, it was in the place surrounding the sheet of water. Free vaudeville will continue all week, and on Wednesday and Friday Miss Blanche Perrin will give free dancing instruction to children. Parents should avail themselves of this opportunity. The hour is from 2 to 3 o'clock. Meanwhile, Miner-Doyle's orchestra will play for all dancing sessions.

URGES BETTER SCHOOL BUILDINGS

CHICAGO, July 3.—School buildings should Americanize by setting before children standards of cleanliness, attractiveness and sanitation. Neither American nor foreign-born children should be exposed to the effect of living daily in schools with grimy walls and dirty floors.

These were outstanding features in recommendations made by William T. McCoy, vice president of the American Federation of Teachers, in rendering to the Chicago High School Federation his report of the Eastern Conference of the organization held recently in Washington, D. C.

"Our school plants should be models of neatness and sanitation," he said. "The existing deterioration of the school system throughout the country makes it imperative that teachers themselves establish standards desirable for school buildings. We note with regret that pupils and teachers are becoming accustomed to surroundings below the standards of their home environment. The social menace we see in this situation is that the public school will not continue to be a civic model but a symbol of degradation."

"The following standards for school buildings were submitted for adoption by teachers throughout the United States:

"Rest rooms for girls and teachers. "Lunch rooms for pupils and teachers."

Clothing closets with facilities for drying and ventilation.

"Drinking fountains so adjusted that infection from this source will be impossible."

"Hot water, liquid or powdered soap. "Absolutely sanitary conditions in toilets."

"Thorough cleaning of class-rooms at least once a month."

"Abandonment of use of class-rooms without natural light and pure air."

"Insistence upon systems of ventilation, heating and sweeping which do not dry up or contaminate the air."

"Maintenance of needed repairs within buildings and of neat appearance outside."

"Strict conformity to regulations established by the fire department."

"Only as American teachers set the standard that school buildings shall be safe and clean can they be said to perform their duty in teaching civics. The building will speak louder than the teacher."

LANGUAGE OF THE OIL FIELDS

TULSA, Okla., July 3.—Oil men have a language all their own, as it were, for the oil industry. Like others, has a number of more or less technical terms and phrases connected with it that are not generally understood outside the oil field districts.

For instance, "shooting a well" has an entirely different meaning from that applied in river navigation to the term "shooting the rapids." In the oil country the phrase means the lowering into the well of several dozen quarts of nitroglycerine and allowing it to explode in the bottom of the well in the oil sand.

Oil wells are drilled much like artesian water wells. A "rig," or tall pyramid framework, is erected over the spot where the well is to be drilled. At various stages during the sinking of the well it is cased in by steel pipe, the joints of which are sewed together, making a continuous pipe. This serves to keep out water and to keep the well from caving.

As the well is bored deeper, the size of the casing is reduced in order to keep putting it down inside of that already in place. Two or three changes, or possibly four, are all that are usually made in reducing the size of the casing.

If no oil is found the well is termed a "dry hole." If gas is found, it is a "gas well." A producing well is named according to the number of barrels of oil it produces in 24 hours, as a 50-barrel or a 500-barrel well.

Oil as it comes from the ground is called "crude oil." It is carried to the refining plants in pipe lines, from pipes ranging all the way from 3 to 10 or 12 inches in diameter, or in railway tank cars. There it goes through the refining process.

Almost all oil men lease the land on which they drill, paying "royalties," from one-eighth to one-sixteenth of the value of the oil produced going to the owner of the land. A "location" is a piece of land on which a well is drilled. It varies from 300 to 500 feet square. Thus in a field that is closely drilled, each well will have wells on four sides of it between 300 and 500 feet away. These wells are known as "offsets."

A "tank farm" is a tract of land on which are located a number of large storage tanks for oil.

"Test wells" are the first wells drilled in a territory where oil has not been discovered. "Wild cat" wells are those drilled in territory where geologists have not found rock formations that indicate the presence of oil. A "pool" is an underground supply of oil, or oil sand saturated with oil. The "Mid-Continent" field comprises the states of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and Montana.

Arkansas has more miles of navigable rivers than any other state.

BASIC CHARTER PRINCIPLES

Do not forget that the city charter campaign follows that of the paving referendum. Let us here take a view of the basic principles, aim and purpose of the new charter.

Under our form of political institutions, all power for the promotion and regulation of the public welfare through concerted action of individuals rests primarily with the state and is exercised subject to constitutional limitations of commonwealth and nation. A group of persons, living in proximity to each other, must necessarily have many interests in common. There is bound to be a number of things which it is desirable shall be done for the common welfare and which can only be accomplished by united co-operative action. As the size of a group grows larger, the number of things which may be called community needs is bound to increase. The most common of these are adequate highways, a supply of pure water, protection against fire and lawlessness, and facilities for the education of children.

Members of any given group, acting separately as individuals, obviously cannot adequately supply these common needs. Therefore application is made to the state for the setting-up and sanctioning of a set of rules under which individuals can combine and act together to bring about the ends which they desire.

The first section of our proposed new charter provides in substance that the inhabitants of the city of Lowell shall be constituted a "body corporate and politic" with the rights and privileges of a municipal corporation. In the succeeding sections are set forth the rules under which the people of the city are to carry on the necessary work of municipal housekeeping.

There is nothing mysterious, nor very complicated, about this. The process of incorporating a city or town is greatly different from what happens when a body of men make up their minds that they would like to venture into the business of cotton manufacturing. To them, on application, is given a charter, or act of incorporation, that furnishes them with the right and power to do those things which are necessary to bring about the production of textile fabrics. In much the same way the proposed new charter for Lowell provides a way in which the inhabitants of the city can carry on the work of producing and maintaining those facilities that are necessary for the common welfare.

Properly speaking, the city government is but a co-operative institution. It is an establishment for furnishing the things needed by citizens which they can only obtain by united action. The more completely we are able to disabuse our minds of the idea that politics and municipal government are intimately intertwined, the more fully we are able to realize that furnishing honors of office to individuals or representatives of this or that faction, the giving of jobs to men and women, the provision of this or that interest are not the purpose for which we should go to the polls and vote, the more nearly we shall come to getting the work for which we are incorporated as a "body corporate and politic" properly done.

The right kind of rules can do much toward helping to make our co-operative municipal housekeeping economical and efficient, and the proposed new charter goes a long way toward accomplishing that result.

HEREDITARY PREJUDICES?

How far the decision of President De Valera will be approved by others—i.e., by those who are not themselves Irishmen, or not possessed of the hereditary prejudices and opinions of that race—remains to be seen.—Courier-Citizen editorial.

Mr. Editor, may we ask you if a robber entered your house, gave you a few jabs of a bayonet, took possession and not only robbed you of your property, but made you his vassal, would it be "prejudice" on your part to protest that you were not fairly treated and that you would insist upon your right to live in your own domicile without molestation? Or, if your ancestors for seven centuries had been treated in the same way by alien oppressors, would it be "hereditary prejudice" on your part to demand now, that the domain of your fathers be restored and that the invader clear out bag and baggage, leaving you to work out your destiny in your own way?

Once upon a time the American colonists were in much the same predicament as are the Irish people at the present moment, although their grievances were not nearly so great nor so long endured. According to your line of reasoning in the case of the Irish, you would say their complaints against England are based upon "hereditary prejudice."

If you accept the principle laid down in the Declaration of Independence, that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, then you must concede that the Irish people have a right to freedom the right to determine for themselves under what form of government they shall live. If you deny that principle, you are not a consistent American. As to prejudice, hereditary or otherwise, before making war faces at a supposed note in your neighbor's eye, you might well remove the beam from your own.

WORKING TOWARD NORMAL

During the campaign for the presidency and since, President Harding has had much to say about a return of business and industrial conditions to normalcy. In getting down to that very desirable condition, urged by the president, there has been a general deflation of prices all along the line. In all other cities laboring men have been forced to accept a very considerable reduction in their incomes. They have done this on the whole without serious complaint, realizing that it was not desirable to attempt to force a continuance of highly artificial conditions brought about by the war. They have shown a willingness to do their part toward getting the world back to a safe and normal basis.

Manufacturers, too, have almost without exception fallen into step with the movement to cut out fancy profits by selling their products at greatly reduced prices. There has been no inclination shown to interfere with the orderly course of deflation. They have taken the losses that have come to them without complaint and without any attempt to resist the return to normal conditions. They have shown not the slightest disposition to grasp the last dollar that could be wrung from the public in exchange for their goods. At the end of the year it is probable that some of the concerns will find that they have been running very close to the line that marks the difference between profit and loss if they have not actually gone over the boundary on the losing side.

CAUSES OF WAR

Here in the United States we have one strong influence for peace— plenty of room. Our country is 3,626,759 square miles in area so that everybody has plenty of room without crowding upon others. That allows 35 people to the square mile, whereas Germany before the war, had 300 and Japan proper has 410 to the mile at the present time. That is what makes Japan so restless and so insistent upon getting favorable conditions for emigration to other lands. It may also furnish the motive of her war-like tendencies and her preparations for war.

Give Europe a century's recuperation and it may be ready for another war. For instance, Germany may again be fighting Frenchmen or Russians or the British.

Yet if those potential and as yet unborn warriors could be transported to America in their early years, the idea of warring against each other would never occur to them, any more than their kindred now living as peaceful neighbors in the United States are thinking of flying at each other's throats.

Land hunger, trade rivalry, ethnological differences and lust for conquest born of militarism, have been the main causes of war in all the ages and they will so remain unless militarism is checked and a world court of justice be established to deal with all international disputes.

BUDGET MAKER DAWES
Charles G. Dawes, appointed by President Harding director of the budget, has taken hold of his job in a way that indicates he is going to get something out of it.

There is no more important post in the government. Properly administered, it can save the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars. The mass meeting of cabinet members and bureau chiefs called by Dawes with the president's approval, to impress upon them the urgent necessity for the most rigid economy in every branch of government activity, was an inspiring example of direct action for results.

Dawes' idea seems to be that the way to economy is to economize instead of merely talking about it. Based upon Dawes' temperament and past performance, it is pretty safe to venture the prediction that if the watchful methods which are the rule rather than the exception in Washington are not changed, there is going to be a noise like a riot in the capital city.

ROCKED THE BOAT

Two men were drowned by the capsizing of their boat on the Merrimack river at Groveland, says a despatch. The accident resulted from one of the three occupants having amused himself by rocking the boat in order to frighten his companions. It is not stated whether the man who rocked the boat was one of those drowned, but if he were, he certainly deserved the sudden end that befell him. Of all the silly, asinine, stupid and criminal things that anyone can do, there is none worse than rocking a boat or a cage with which a boat may be tipped would do such a thing. The ordinary row boat is a death trap at best for those who cannot swim and very often for people accounted good swimmers.

THE FIGHT

Had Dempsey been among the American boys at Chateau-Thierry, he would have won the sympathy as well as the hard work in his fight with Georges Carpentier. The Frenchman was defeated but he made a game fight and but for an accident might have given the champion several rounds as good as the second. The fact remains, however, that say what they will, Dempsey is a terrific fighter. His show of sympathy for Carpentier at the close of the fight proved that he had no venom against his adversary and touched the multitude of sportsmen.

CROWD UNPARALLELED

The vast crowd that thronged every part of the South common last night was probably more than twice as large as the greatest that assembled there on any previous occasion in the history of our city. It was certainly a tribute to the boys of the Legion who conducted the carnival.

And now we are technically at peace so let the world move on.

KNEELING PAD

If you must get down on your knees to clean the kitchen floor, provide a slip-on cloth cover. This would be a good thing for the woman who does your scrubbing if you still believe in hand-scrubbed surfaces.

SEEN AND HEARD

If it is true there are 30,000 poets in Japan, she has troubles of her own.

"Most men try to be on the right side; more are needed on the side of right."

Perhaps those Atlantic pirates are just ordinary bandits forced by prohibition to take to water.

ARTIST

Kaddara, an opera with its scenes in Greenland, is being presented at the Royal theatre, Copenhagen. Redskin costumes are used. Lights of the aurora borealis play over the icy scenes. Arctic explorers praise the fidelity of these effects. That would be better to look at than the costumes would be to wear for a summer show in the United States.

VIEWPOINTS

Judge Nathan South, senator from Connecticut, was said to be "of the old school in his dress; a remnant of that race of men, the very form and fashion of whom are a passport to deference and respect. His white hair well powdered, a handsome blue coat with shining gilt buttons; drab kerseymer breeches, and top boots, the clean white tops of which were well contrasted by the elaborate black polish of the legs." That was when he died in 1835. One doubts if this fashion, worn on the street today, would win either deference or respect.

FIRST UNITED STATES STAMP

The first United States stamp was sold July 1, 1847, in New York city. Think what that event meant to people of Lowell.

Before then it was necessary to go to the postoffice to mail a letter, and the postmaster was paid in cash for every letter he posted.

Small as it is, the postage stamp has performed a great service, and one of the many kind things that can be said about it is that it was the first commodity to come down in price after the war.

THE MEANEST DAD

Two small boys were discussing the various attributes of their respective parents, and the conversation had reached the highly critical stage and threatened to get even warmer still. "Well," remarked Tommy Stubbs, "you can say what you like, but I reckon your father's about the meanest that ever lived." "My father is not mean," screamed Bobby Roberts. "Yes, he is mean," persisted Tommy. "For does he let you go about in those shabby shoes when he is a schoolmaster by trade?" "All right," answered Bobby, "but at any rate he is not so mean as your father. Why, he's a dentist, and yet your baby brother's got only one tooth!"

RATTLESNAKE PICKERS

In order to get the most enjoyment out of life one must have faith enough in mankind to believe that every person is worth something. Theodore Roosevelt tells of a rather foolish, ignorant man of the common frontier type, who had failed at everything he had undertaken, and who seemed absolutely useless, who found he possessed the power of picking up rattlesnakes without danger. "There is no deception about it," says Roosevelt. "I would take him off on horseback, and when I found a rattlesnake he would quietly pick it up and hold it in his body and put it in the sack." It seems to me that there are many rattlesnake pickers scattered throughout society. One trouble is the market for their ability is limited. However, the belief that even the most useless of our acquaintances may be good for something is cheering news.

PRISCILLA'S PRAYER BOOK

When grandmother was a little maid, Of ghosts and spiders and mice afraid, Up to the garret she crept at night, She found a book with yellow leaves, An ancient prayer book, tattered and torn. The leather binding streaked and worn And stiff with dampness and green with mold, But legible still on the flyleaf old Writing the sleeping rains had run—"Priscilla, 1621."

A prim young Puritan girl was she Who came in the Mayflower across the sea, And wore a kerchief and cap, no doubt, Was modest, quiet and most devout. She never shimmied or bobbed her hair, Or drove an auto or took a dare, Or played a game of bridge for gain, Or piloted an aeroplane. Or wore a wrist watch, or made a bet, Or smoked in public, or cigar, Or angled after a gilded son, Priscilla, 1621!

But lo! I fancy she stole a look Over the top of the open book With heart a-flutter at some young man, Like a modern coquette over a fan— And he looked back for a year was strong. And life was dull and the prayer book lone, And later they walk in the dusk and dew, Planning a log-built home for two, For love called over the ocean spray In the Pilgrim ship as a showaway, And the little Puritan was won, Priscilla, 1621.

LODGE TO LEAD

FIGHT FOR BEER

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Senator Lodge will lead the opposition to a passage of the anti-beer bill in the senate. The senior senator from Massachusetts takes the attitude that the new amendment, which would prohibit that ever was intended by the prohibition amendment.

Mr. Lodge is specially opposed to the measure assuming the right to tell the doctors of the United States just how much liquor they shall prescribe. He regards any such attempt "not only as insulting to the medical profession, but entirely inconsistent and ridiculous."

CATHOLIC NEWS

Members of the following churches will hold their monthly communion Sunday morning: Immaculate Conception of St. Peter's, Holy Trinity of the Immaculate Conception, Holy Rosary of the Sacred Heart, Holy Mary of St. Michael's, Women of St. Columba's. In most of the Catholic churches the summer schedule will begin about the 15th inst. Mass having been substituted for the high mass at 11 o'clock, Sunday, and the usual sermon and instructions on the gospel of the day have also been eliminated.

12 HEAT PROSTRATIONS

BOSTON, July 5.—Twelve heat prostrations were treated in Boston hospitals on the fourth of July when the temperature soared to 94 degrees at noon, fell its position for practically two hours and then fell rapidly. The intense humidity made it the hottest day of the year. Fair and cool is the forecast for today.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Hops springs eternal in the human breast, but in the newshy's breast it springs infernal. When I am on K. street, homeward bound through Merrimack square, I am certain to be assailed by at least a brace, and sometimes by a trio or a quartet, or even more "newsies," queering me as to whether I desire a paper. It is a matter of indifference to them that I am already burdened with several papers; they are always in the expectation that for some reason which I cannot fathom, I may need another. When I actually do purchase a newspaper, I often find myself a transaction started with one boy bias fair to be consummated by another. I hail a boy and while he is digging for the right journal, and I am disgusted by the sight of another boy, archin has interposed, thrusting the desired sheet beneath my nose. From some vague sense of the dishonor of such competition, however, I invariably insist in buying from the youngster who made the first leap for my vicinity. If I chance to place a casual hand in my pocket while standing through the square, I find, instantly, a host of boys spring upon me, waving frantic applications, shouting, enveloping me in a whirlwind of salesmanship. Even though I explain to them that I am merely seeking a handkerchief or a tin of tobacco, they persist in the delusion that I was after a couple of pennies to acquire a paper. Flight is my only medium of escape, after one has been so injudiciously to put a hand to pocket where newshys may see.

The train from Boston has just arrived. At least a score of exasperated new arrivals stood upon the sidewalk of Middlesex street, craning their necks in vain expectation of a stately limousine to carry them to the Mackay hotel. These new arrivals provide to the calm student of physiognomy, marvelous registrations of rage, patience, despair, humorous vexation, vexation with no trace of the humorous. One's eyes register a whole herd of other emotions. Unfortunately, I could not observe them with cold analysis. For I, too, awaited conveyance to Merrimack square, and I could not but permit my consciousness to display sundry unpleasant sensations. From my lips emerged comments upon fate, life, civilization, but notably street car. "What a nuisance," I murmured, "or even seemly, that I should repeat here? A venerable man turned towards me. His eye, which might ordinarily have been a kindly and meliorated one, was red with wrath. "You know you're in Lowell now, young man," he cried, as he gave one more fierce look in the direction from which a car might have been coming. "I am," I replied, "somewhere." He gave me a look that said he had read literature by the street railroad company, precluding their earnest determination to accommodate those who arrive in this city on trains. Are they trying to kid us?

The circus isn't the only institution of which we never tire, which lures us anew with every reappearance. There is another potent attraction which draws us as by a spell year in year out. It is, of course, fireworks. A demonstration of the weird power exercised by this ingenious invention of ancient China was given on the evening of Independence Day. When a crowd of curious spectators, in a general way, gathered in the park, the booming of the fireworks exhibited in honor of our severance from our stepmother across the ocean. Infants might well when a particularly loud report shattered the air. Women might give little squeaks. Even men might jump, notably shell-shocked war vets.—when a correct imitation of a gas mask was offered to the crowd, until the last fuse had been touched. Every eye and ear remained fascinated by the bright display in the armament.

By far the most interesting feature of the carnival, in my way of thinking, is the exhibition of war relics which occupies a tent near the centre of the South common. Here are everything from German cigarettes to Austrian airplane machine guns. There are the famous Teuton paper suits of clothes, and paper sacks for sand bags. There is a tankard far older than any which medieval knight ever donned, and which shows the mark of bullets turned aside by its strength. There are fragments of the shell which killed the first American soldier in France. There are a thousand and one other articles of potent historic interest, while, topping all, is one of the most complete showings of war photographs that we have ever seen. Veterans of the big battles are on hand to explain the finer points in the uninitiated. No admission is charged, as the United States government does not permit this where official war photographs are displayed.

The railroad bridge near Reading at which several fatal accidents have occurred as a result of automobiles running off the road, or account of the very sharp curve at either end of the bridge, is now placarded "Death Bridge." The sign bearing this cognomen and a warning to automobile drivers to be careful of the bridge at either end, it is indeed most unfortunate that any bridge should be built almost at right angles to a roadway in which there is such great volume of traffic as on this highway. The state highway commission, I notice, has adopted the plan of painting a white line on the road surface around curves indicating the grave danger to autos passing in either direction. This is intended to prevent speed maniacs from following their dangerous practice of cutting corners. The auto found driving on the wrong side of this white line will be clearly responsible for the consequences of any accident that may result from such violation of the rules of the road.

NAVAL DEFENSE OF BRITAIN DISCUSSED

LONDON, July 5.—Questions relative to the naval defense of the British empire were discussed at today's session of the Imperial conference. Prime Minister Lloyd George and the Dominion premiers resuming consideration of the subject where it was left off at yesterday's meeting. Opposition to the discussion of this subject by Premier Meighen of Canada and others seemed to have broken down and the admiralty laid before members of the conference a confidential memorandum which was understood to have been the basis of yesterday's debate. Naval authorities on the British staff have been insisting that the Dominion's contribution to the naval strength of the empire should be definitely fixed.

It was expected that at the conclusion of today's meeting, an official summary of the proceedings would be issued. The press, however, before the conference has closed made public many of the discussions that have taken place.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Useful

YES, a first-class education gives a mental elevation Which is worth the toil and trouble to acquire; And a brain that's quick and active makes a woman more attractive, For intelligence is something men admire. But—don't place your whole reliance on your letters and your science Though they give you lots of glamor and of charm. It is well to have ambition for a lot of erudition, But—a little bit of beauty does no harm!

WHILE it's wisdom to endeavor to be scintillant and clever, Don't forget to give your features proper care; And though knowledge is enduring, don't neglect your manicuring And occasional attention to your hair. It won't minimize your learning if you show some thought concerning The appearance of an ankle or an arm; And though style and fit and fashion shouldn't be your ruling passion, Yet a little bit of smartness does no harm!

OH, a girl who's wise and witty can be also mighty pretty And exceedingly attractive to the glance, And it causes no reduction in the worth of her instruction If her step is like a feather in the dance. We admire the girl from college, with her culture and her knowledge, But that isn't all the secret of her charm; For the simple honest fact is, she has learned from daily practice That a little bit of beauty does no harm!

The following students from Lowell and vicinity are in attendance: Andrew Finnegan, Grant Watson, Arthur Thibault and Edith Perham Lowell; Helen Eames, William Edith Davis, Carlisle; Elizabeth Bloch, Groton; Dorothy Allen Concord.

DUELLING IS AGAIN POPULAR IN HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, July 5.—The passion for duelling, which slumbered in Hungary during the war is breaking out with increased vehemence, according to a report of the ministry of home affairs just made public. About 5000 challenges to fight were recorded during the last six months, and in 350 cases the combat was fought without a serious result. There were three killings. Trifling incidents have been the cause of some encounters. Treading on a man's foot in an overcrowded street car or calling a person a "fool" might impel two solemn-looking gentlemen in full dress and top-hat to call on you on behalf of the offended person, requesting you to name your seconds.

As a rule the conference leads to explanations, apologies and a protocol embodying these important facts to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. But when the insult is considered too gross or the offender too stubborn, the seconds rule that only blood can wash the insult away and they fix the conditions of the next morning's encounter with light or heavy swords, with bandages or without, or with pistols. The combat then takes place in one of the fencing schools or, when fought with pistols, in some deserted meadow outside the town.

Political antagonisms frequently change arguments for weapons and heated debate in parliament is generally followed by a couple of duels. Even ministers have to accept the challenge of an opposition member and it is still remembered that the late Count Stephen Tisza when prime minister fought nine duels with his political opponents.

Under the penal code of Hungary an armed combat is a punishable misdemeanor. Sometimes when combatants are tried and sentenced to a few months' imprisonment they serve it in a special establishment of detention, an operette-prison, where they may provide themselves with outside food, drink and clothing, take out-door exercises and receive any number of visitors.

Duelling is regarded as a class-privilege of the gentry and nobility and by tacit consent of the learned professions. The working man is excluded from this "benefit of chivalry" and if the offender be a workman, ordinary judicial proceedings might be taken against him in a case of offense. On the other hand, should any male member of the so-called classes refuse to accept a challenge, he would inevitably be blacklisted by his club and spurned by society friends as a coward.

POLAR SONS DON'T PULL WIVES HAIR

POINT BARROW, Alaska, July 5.—The cave-man about which professors and disgruntled wives talk so glibly may be a dead one in glacial combs, but the latter-day sons are very much alive here on top of the everlasting ice.

The Eskimo is essentially a cave-dweller. Preferably he burrows in the frosty top of the world. His permanent home is a sod dugout similar to the pioneer's shelter of early Kansas and Nebraska days. A seal gut serves for window. Ventilation is taboo.

He eats his meat raw, like his far progenitor. Meats of animals are his working clothes. He's the happiest, most hospitable, honest and industrious fellow in the world, by the word of explorer and trader. The polar chill hasn't refrigerated the heart out of Mr. Eskimo and his wife.

Trees—wood—they wouldn't know what to do with. Seal, walrus and whale oil are used for light and fuel. Skin boats, from the one-man bidarka to the 40-man omiak, provide sea conveyance and dog sleds serve on land.

Hittes are nice—but the good old tested spear still serves for seal and walrus.

In winter white fox, ermine, wolves and sable fall to the trap, while summer brings parka squirrels for food and clothing. Reindeer add variety and milk.

They live by a modified law of tooth and fang, and apparently have changed little down through the centuries. And if they are true chips off the old cave-man block, the pre-Adamite couldn't have been such a bad fellow after all.

HARDING'S TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN BOYHOOD

RARITAN, N. J., July 5.—Acting as sponsor here yesterday of a rowboat made by a 9-year-old boy, President Harding delivered a Fourth of July oration of a single sentence in tribute to the ingenuity and aspirations of American boyhood.

The diminutive craft, which inspired the president's toast was the Raritan, nine feet over all, conceived and built by Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Jr., son of the senior senator from New Jersey, at whose home here Mr. and Mrs. Harding are guests. The bank of an artificial lake, forming a hazard across a golf course of the Raritan Valley Country club was the scene of the launching and will be the home port of the "Raritan" as she sails a tramp course in search of misdirected golf balls.

Had she been the largest ocean liner, the vessel could scarcely have taken the water with a greater show of ceremony. Specially constructed ways whose upper and rested on a soan box guided her down the bank. The American flag was in place above her stern and as she was loosed to begin her adventurous career, the president of

MORE LOADED CIGARS BY MAIL

The unknown despatcher of loaded cigars, who was responsible for severe injury to the hands and body of John Norinkovitch, when the latter smoked one of the dangerous gifts, on Saturday made a third attempt to perpetrate his peculiar and gruesome brand of humor on a Lowell resident. Michael Lebednick, of Hudson street, already a recipient of a package of cigars similar to those sent to Norinkovitch, received a second parcel on Saturday, and promptly turned it over to the police as he had done with the first, having an eye to his fellow resident's fate in negotiating one of the "loaded" cigars.

Norinkovitch found a package containing three cigars in his mail. Wednesday. They were ostensibly bestowed for advertising purposes by a Boston firm. The first he consumed with pleasure, but shortly after he had fired up the second, a resounding explosion was heard, and the fingers that held the cigar were badly burned, while naked of singeing powder alighted on numerous portions of his anatomy. He notified the local police. While the officers were working on the case news was forthcoming from Lebednick that he had been made the recipient of a like present. He brought the parcel unopened to police headquarters, where it was diligently studied in an effort to trace it to its source. Then, Saturday evening, a third package was added to the collection at the station house, when Lebednick was selected for a second time by the mysterious joker or lunatic, or whatever he may be. A thorough investigation is now progressing.

Because of the dangerous condition of the Main street bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tracks the bridge has been ordered closed to traffic by City Engineer Kearney. It is expected that the structure will soon be put in passable condition.

WAMESIT STAFF ASSOCIATION Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of Wamesit Staff association, I.O.O.F., M.I., which was held Sunday morning in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. P.G.M. James Smith occupied the chair.

Much waste in fabric tires —
no need of it

THERE are four or five million car owners in this country using fabric tires.

When they see themselves being made a target for the sale of "odd lots", "discount offers", "retreads" and "seconds" — what do they think?

You can hardly blame quality seekers if this kind of situation is getting on their nerves.

Some people seem to feel that the spread of cord tires has made tire-makers and tire-dealers indifferent about fabric quality.

Others have the idea that fabric tires get less attention because they run to smaller sizes.

The makers of United States Tires would like to go on record as to how they feel about it.

They are engaged in serving people.

They build the most complete line of fabric tires in the world.

This year "Nobby", "Usco" and "Chain" Tread tires are more universally popular than ever before. Because they satisfy a legitimate need for fabric quality.

Neither the size of the tire nor the kind of tire has anything to do with U. S. Tire standards.

Back of every Fabric Tire bearing the U. S. name stands the same quality that has made U. S. Royal Cords the outstanding tire.

This is the logical stand for the oldest and largest rubber organization to take.

It builds by policy — or doesn't build at all.

CANNED CHERRIES
FOR WINTER USE

RRY SISTER MARY

Canned cherries have many possibilities for winter use. They are delicious with cake. Canned cherry pie is always acceptable after a fish dinner, and canned cherries make almost as good puddings as the fresh fruit. Carefully drained from the juice canned cherries can be used in salad.

Cherries may be canned with or without sugar, but with sugar at normal again there is no special point in canning without and the fruit is really better if put up in syrup.

Canned Cherries

Cold Pack Method: Wash cherries, stem and stone. Save the juice. Pack fruit in jars to within 1-2 inch of the top. Pour over a medium thin syrup, half seal, and boil 16 minutes in sterilizer. Finish sealing and cool. To make the syrup use one-third the weight of the fruit in sugar and 2 1/2 cups of water to each pound of sugar. The water in the sterilizer must cover the jars one or two inches. The water should be boiling when the jars are put in and the boiling started as soon as possible so that cooking begins at once.

Open Kettle Method: Wash, stem, and stone cherries. Save juice. Can one quart of fruit at a time. For every quart of fruit use 3/4 cup sugar. If cherries are very sour the amount of sugar will need to be increased. Put 1/2 cup of juice and water and the sugar in preserving kettle. Bring to boiling point and add cherries. Let boil 10 minutes. Fill sterilized cans full to overflowing with boiling fruit and juice and seal. The fruit must be boiling and the cans must be absolutely full. If the can is wrapped in a towel wring out of hot water there is no danger of breaking the glass when the boiling mass is put in.

sugar. Weigh the cherries after stemming. Pour the juice, cherries and sugar in preserving kettle. Let stand an hour. Put over a slow fire and bring to the boiling point. Let boil up well for two or three minutes. Pour out on platters and let stand in the sun for two days. Cover platters with mosquito netting. Put in sterilized jelly glasses and seal with paraffin. BELIEVE IN YOURSELF
SAYS THIS WOMAN

Self-confidence. On this single word, says Alice Lynch Bryant, of Forta, Maine, Ind., does the success or failure of the woman in business depend.

"A woman who believes in herself can do anything, surmount any obstacle."

"A woman who does not believe in herself, has lost the battle before even beginning it."

And Mrs. Bryant should know, because she was still in her teens when she stopped clerking for someone else and started a store of her own, with money which she had saved. She specialized in women's goods.

"Of course, I went in debt," she says of the venture, "but it never once occurred to me that I could fail."

And she didn't. The store grew until it became necessary to employ a corps of clerks and had for its patrons the purchasers of the finest class of women's novelties.

Mrs. Bryant is good looking, but of beauty she says:

"It never helped any woman to permanent success."

"I believe," says she, "that woman's greatest difficulty is overcoming a certain doubt in herself relative to business. Once that is overcome and she has confidence in herself, she will not fail."

KNOX WARNS AGAINST THEORIES OF RADICALS

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Speaking at a Fourth of July celebration in Independence hall yesterday, Senator Knox of Pennsylvania warned against the novel theories of government and social and economic life brought to this country by races from alien soil—"doctrines born of the ill of the lands from which they came, radical remedies sometimes self annihilating to those using them."

"Mighty ferments are at work amongst us governmentally and socially," the senator said. "Today there are coming to us by the millions, peoples from races untraded and unseasoned in self government, peoples unfamiliar with and largely unappreciative of its good, and untutored to tolerate and meet its evils. There are those amongst us who deny the very basis of our social order, the very foundation of our whole system."

"Just as the commingling of members of different races from different climes with different customs of life exposes each of the individuals to new and strange bodily ailments and disease, so the intimate actions and reactions of diverse race members bring novel theories of government and social and economic life. Were their new theories tried, had they been effectively used by any race, had any people or nation risen to wealth, power and happiness under them, we might hope that adjustment thereof of our environments would make them tolerable. But such is not the fact."

"These strange doctrines come primarily from races unskilled in self government, untaught in the fundamentals of free government, uneducated in the basic discord between liberty and license. Their doctrines are born of the ill of the lands from which they came. They are radical remedies, sometimes self annihilating to those using them, for ailments unfamiliar to our system of government and life. Bolshevism may be the heaven of the theorist crushed under the weight of a cruel czarism, but it bears no true relation to the inconsequential defects of free government."

As the nation's fathers fought physical foes and subdued them, Senator Knox continued, "so we must do battle with foes of the mind and heart. We must combat the disguised mind and conquer. But be not, fellow citizens, I beseech you," he added, "deceived or lulled into the false security which brings destruction."

The senator in concluding paid a tribute to those "honest men and women" who have become a part of the nation's great citizenry and are doing their part in the great experiment of welding together in one great and homogeneous nation the lovers of human liberty from all lands. He voiced the conviction that while being alert to its insidious foes, the country can and is assimilating those who have sought refuge here from the oppressions of other lands.

Laboratory test showing unburned fuel at the exhaust

Gasoline you paid for wasted at the exhaust

With ordinary fuel the exhaust gases of your car could be touched into flame

AN automobile engine on the test stand—two masked figures—fire extinguishers and sand on hand—tank filled with ordinary gasoline—then the engine was started.

Engineers wearing asbestos gloves applied a plumber's blow torch to the gases now rushing out the exhaust pipe.

Balls of flame shot across the room! The exhaust gas contained unburned gasoline in large quantities. The horsepower contained in each flame was a total waste. Here was the proof!

Ordinary sluggish gasoline could not vaporize fast enough to produce full engine power.

About 87% of the power in the ordinary sluggish gasoline you buy today is wasted and unused.

And yet this is not the total loss. Carbon, slow pick-up, loss of power, diluted oil—these are the results.

Utilizing every drop of gasoline

The next test was to compare ordinary gasoline with Tydol, the Economy Gasoline. Now, even with a cold engine, there was no waste gasoline to ignite. It was impossible to light the exhaust gases.

With Tydol, complete, instantaneous explosions in the cylinders drive your engine without such waste. Tydol vaporizes fast. Fill up with Tydol. Look for the orange and black Tydol sign today.

FORESTATION

WORK IN CHINA

PEKING, July 5.—Forestation in China made noteworthy progress in 1920 through the activities chiefly of the provincial governments. More than 130,000,000 seedlings were planted and cultivated by twenty-one institutions in central and north China at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars in Chinese currency.

The government railways, anticipating their need of timber, have also taken steps to plant trees along their rights of way. One alone, the Kanku-Hachow railways, is in process of planting 4,000,000 trees, according to the bureau of economic information.

Afforestation has been extended to nearly all the provinces, with especially promising stations in Shantung and Kiangsu. In the latter province, at Nanking, there are approximately 6000 acres devoted to the cultivation of 25,000,000 trees. In this station students are given a three years' course in forestry and later are sent to various districts to specialists.

There are three gardens in Shantung which occupy some 700 acres. The largest and most prosperous station is in the north of Kiangsu near Yangchow where 3000 to 4000 trees are grown every year. Special afforestation schools have been established in Anhui, Chakiang, Hupai, Szechuan and Shan-shi. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the 1800 stations or counties in China are now engaged in this work which the Chinese hope will in due course transform many of their barren tracts into flourishing forests.

The establishment of a national Arbor day when all classes of the population are encouraged to plant trees, is pointed to by the bureau as an indication of China's awakening to the value of forestation.

TOO MANY SPINSTERS; STATE IS CONCERNED

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
In England they're getting alarmed about the number of spinsters parked around in apartment houses and taking up room in the picture shows.

Miss Dorothy Evans, secretary of the Association of Women Clerks and Secretaries, has announced that in her opinion there is only one way to reduce the vast army of the unemployed—by setting a standard dowry for the girls. Some one who has their interest at heart.

Just think what a fine arrangement it would be to have your state give you a thousand or two or three and let you shop around for a husband, just as you would for a suit, or a pair of shoes or a tooth brush.

You could take your little dot down town with you and look them all over. If you didn't like the way he combed his hair or the kind of glasses he wore you could go on to the next lot.

And maybe some days they'd have special bargains, dollar days and that sort of thing.

And I wonder, kind sir, when they begin this putting of a price on the heads of husbands, will there be any approvals, exchanges or refunds?

CREW JUMPS FROM BURNING MOTOR GIG

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—The motor gig of Commander Percy W. Foote of the U.S.S. Salem burned to the water's edge in San Francisco bay shortly before midnight Sunday night, severely burning the officer and two of the five men with him. They were returning to the Salem from shore at the time.

Commander Foote and the sailors jumped overboard from the gig when it started to burn and they were picked up some time later by a boat from the U.S.S. Tennessee.

News of the mishap did not get ashore until several hours after it had occurred.

Commander Foote's hands were burned and Seaman B. Cunningham and Machinist's Mate P. J. Locklinner received burns on the face and body. Cunningham, who had no life preserver was in the water nearly an hour before he was rescued. Commander Foote and the other four sailors, however, were picked up in about fifteen minutes.

Why Dread Old Age?

It don't make much difference how old you are if you only keep in good health and are active. Many people appear older at 50 than others do at 70, to keep looking young you have got to enjoy good health, and do a little worrying as possible. Backaches, swollen joints and legs, disturbed sleep by being compelled to arise one or more times during the night are sure symptoms of kidney trouble, and should have immediate attention to avoid serious consequences. SEVEN BARKS, nature's remedy of roots and herbs, is one of the best remedies to take not only for averted kidneys, but for liver, stomach and heart troubles.

Middle-aged people realize that they cannot perform their work or move around as fast as formerly. The internal organs feel the effect of age and do not perform their work properly. The heart palpitates on the slightest exertion and the back aches after a day's work. The muscles and flesh get flabby, and the blood thinner than formerly. It is then you need a good tonic and bowel regulator—you cannot find a more reliable and efficient remedy for these conditions than SEVEN BARKS.

If you want to enjoy life, recover some of your youthful vigor and have the glow of health, get SEVEN BARKS of your druggist. Do not accept a substitute.—AD.

Sometimes the mail is delayed and by the time I send 'em the weather they want, it's too late to do any good. Here, Chick Chickadee wanted the weather a little warmer and I never knew it until South Wind told me herself. You go down now to Whispering forest and keep me informed about things."

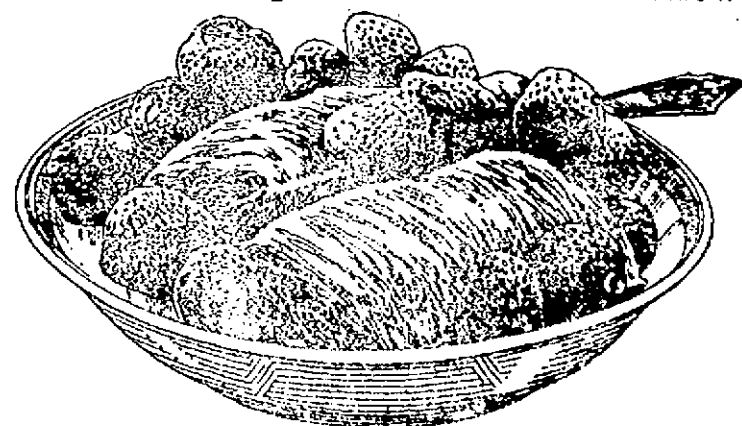

So down the twins went. They were nearly all the time Chick Chickadee (Red Squirrel) was singing and waiting for the maple sirup to run into the hole he had made. And they were there when he returned and found it missing. But they were also there in the meantime and knew who the thief was.

But, Chick didn't know, and he jumped to a conclusion. "I just know who it was!" he fumed. "I know who it was that came to my house while I was away and drank up all my maple sirup sap. It was that cousin of mine, Scramble Squirrel. He's jealous of me and he was curious to know why I moved into his apartment house. He's come snooping around while I was away and stole my sirup."

"What had we better do?" Nancy asked Nick. "It wasn't Scramble at all."

SHANTUNG QUESTION

Chinese People Regard With Suspicion Japan's Suggestion for Negotiations

PEKING, July 5.—The Chinese people regard with suspicion Japan's suggestion that China and Japan enter into negotiations regarding the Shantung question, realizing that in the past China always has lost either territory or prestige as the result of negotiations over international controversies, and they further believe that in this instance there is no occasion for negotiations, according to Dr. W. W. Yen, China's minister of foreign relations, in a statement made to the Associated Press.

man invaded territory in Shantung and the insupportable rights and privileges formerly enjoyed by Germany, without conditions, Japan should announce that fact to the world in unequivocal terms," he said. If she proposes to make conditions for such restitution she should likewise frankly announce those terms for all nations to pronounce judgment upon them.

"Furthermore China does not wish to jeopardize her right to carry the Shantung question to the League of Nations by entering into direct negotiations. China does not propose to permit Japan to cite such negotiations in support of possible opposition to submission of the question to that body.

"China also would be lacking in proper consideration for the nations which have interested themselves in the Shantung settlement should she undertake to negotiate directly. This is particularly true with reference to the senate and people of the United States who have evinced a friendly desire to see China's interests safeguarded.

"Internationalization of the port of Tsingtau would meet with approval by China. It is in line with China's declared policy and action in throwing open various ports to international trade, and it is realized that it would be greatly to China's interest; but the initiative in this direction lies with China and not with Japan."

Dr. Yen sees a hopeful future for China regardless of present financial difficulties. "The welfare of the country," he said, "rests upon the thrift and stability of the people, and the people are making perceptible advancement economically. They are better educated, live better, think more correctly and are more thrifty than ever before.

The reasons for this advancement are greater contact with more advanced nations, the press and the railways, and the influence of thousands of students and others, not omitting the coolies who went to France, who have returned with new and more progressive ideas."

The longest word of usual occurrence in the English language is "incomprehensibilities."

"Don't rub your youth away!"

RUBBING on the washboard for hours each week makes a woman grow old faster than any other work she has to do.

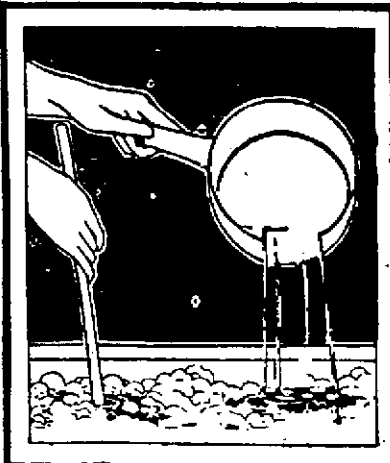

Today hundreds of thousands of women are saving themselves this needless drudgery. They have learned to let Rinso take the place of all those hours of exhausting work.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap makers in the world. After years of experimenting, they have perfected a soap product which takes all the hard rubbing out of washday.

Rinso loosens and dissolves the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash, without injury to a single fabric.

Don't rub your youth away. Try doing next week's washing with Rinso. Get it today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

DISSOLVE—For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. (Where water is hard or clothes extra dirty, use more Rinso.)

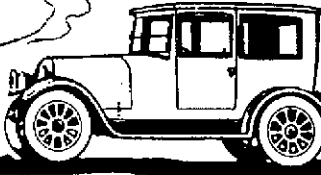

POUR INTO TUB of lukewarm water—mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds even after the clothes have been put in.

Rinso 8¢

Then let your clothes soak—and rinse without any hard rubbing—Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—whatever time is convenient. These wonderful mild suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinse to remove the loosened dirt. Till the water runs clear.

WASHING MACHINE OWNERS get beautifully white clothes with Rinso—follow the regular directions given here, adding a fresh Rinso solution before operating machine. The results are wonderful.

Mr. Franklin Owner:

WHAT a car the new Franklin is!

Of course, it isn't much better inside—it would be pretty hard to improve on the motor and the interior construction of the car. But everybody says the new car is even better looking than the smart Franklin of last year.

I ought to know all about them—I've been selling Franklins for a number of years now. I'll tell you there isn't a better car for the money on the market.

Easy on tires—smooth riding—lots of gasoline mileage—but oh!—wait until I tell you about FAM-O, and what it did to boost my mileage per gallon of gas.

The other day I was boasting to a friend about the distance my Franklin would go on one gallon of gasoline. And he dragged me into his old Wheeler Six and took me out for a spin. When his gas indicator showed one gallon gone his speedometer registered about three miles more than my high Franklin average per gallon.

I couldn't believe my eyes!

Then he whispered the magic word—FAM-O!!! I hot-footed to the nearest accessories store and paid out a dollar for an 8-oz. can. In a few days I had boosted my gasoline mileage nearly 33 1/2 percent. And now by using 1 oz. with every few gallons I'm saving 1/2 of my gas bill every month.

Some investment! Eh, what?

You should buy FAM-O today. Its continued use will remove all carbon and give you a smooth running motor. 8 oz. can $1.00. Gallon $12.00—all dealers. Gordon Mfg. Co., Foxboro, Mass.

HARVEY PRAISES KING

Lauds Speech in Belfast—No U. S. Declaration in '76 if George III Had So Done."

LONDON, July 5 (by the Associated Press).—Diplomatic representatives of more than 20 foreign governments were guests last night at the annual Independence day dinner of the American society of London. Ambassador Harvey was the guest of honor.

Lord Lee of Fareham, first lord of the admiralty, toasted the guest.

Referring, in his reply, to the revolt of the American colonies, Ambassador Harvey declared: "Whether the territory comprising the United States could have been retained is wholly speculative. But one fact is certain—if George III had issued a proclamation even approximating in eloquent sincerity and appealing force that uttered the other day by George V in his faithful endeavor to reconcile a nation, there would have been no ringing of bells in Philadelphia 145 years ago this night, nor for many years thereafter."

"I find in Europe," said the ambassador, "the common impression that the United States alone among the nations of the world is today a land of milk and honey whose people not only are universally prosperous, though recalcitrantly discontented, but are rich beyond the traditional dreams of avarice. You have only to supplement the fancy with a suspicion, which I find not wholly lacking that all this opulence and this happiness are direct results of the great war, to account for the wholly natural sense of resentment."

Ambassador Harvey proceeded to cite the tremendously increased national debt, the congressional appropriations for 1920, and the heavy income taxation. He added:

"In dollars, the cost to America of her participation in the war, when finally computed, will fall not so very far short of the entire indemnity upon Germany."

The second misapprehension, he said, is by Americans who have been led to doubt that the peoples of Europe have been doing their utmost for themselves before seeking help. He confessed he has held somewhat to that surmise, but does so no longer. He had talked with representatives of every stricken state in Europe, and had heard no complaining word, nor received a single request for beneficence.

Through the better understanding between Great Britain and the United States the Atlantic has practically been eliminated from consideration of danger so far as naval warfare is concerned, he declared, and there is ground for good hope that "whatever apprehensions exist of perilous possibilities on the Pacific may be dispelled sooner than is commonly anticipated."

Then, he declared, "disarmament will follow naturally and inevitably, and peace on earth will be assured for years at least, and it may be, forever."

WASHING LIGHT MATERIALS

Your gay summer frocks—more gay this year than you have ever worn before—need careful laundering.

There are various ways of setting their color and keeping them quite like new. Blue, for instance, washed in a mixture of half cup of mild vinegar in a gallon of water, is not injured. Pink or red can be washed in the same solution with success.

One tablespoon of sugar of lead to each gallon of water will set the color in your lavender gown and keep it bright. Sugar of lead is good for green materials also.

If a salt solution is used it should be made with a handful of salt to a gallon of water, the material should be allowed to remain in the water for some time.

Extremely hot water, a very hot bath or strong soap will dull fabric colors.

HOT WATER BOTTLES

Hot water bottles when not in use during the summer months should be kept about three-quarters full of water so they will not dry and crack. The water should be changed frequently.

SWEEPING

After sweeping it is well to dust a carpet with a cloth wrung out of clean water or ammonia.

BOSTON, July 5.—Joseph Coppinger, aged 30, of 54 Bennett street, Brighton, formerly of Co. B, 101st Infantry, died last night after being struck, it is alleged, by George E. Wilson, aged 41, formerly of Co. B, 101st Infantry, while both were in the Y.D. club at 200 Huntington avenue.

KABER MURDER TRIAL RESUMED

Venire of 100 Ordered to

Attorneys for Defense Continue Fight to Exclude Women From Jury

CLEVELAND, July 5.—With 12 women among the new venire of 100 ordered to appear in Judge Maurice Vernon's court this morning, attorneys for Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, were prepared to continue their fight to prevent women from sitting on the jury, much like Mrs. Kaber, on a charge of plotting the murder of her invalid husband, Daniel K. Kaber, two years ago.

The trial was resumed today after a five-day recess taken when the original venire was exhausted. Four women and five men had been tentatively accepted as jurors.

John K. Kaber, the attorneys have declared, is not competent to testify, and it is necessary that their will exercise all their 6 peremptory challenges to exclude women from trying the case.

Three alternates for the defense have examined Mrs. Kaber in her cell since her trial was adjourned. Reports on the examination will not be made known until the alternates take the witness stand.

New Swimming Pool?

A petition signed by David Dickson and 60 or 60 others, among them many young boys, asked the council to clean out and put in proper condition for swimming the pool in the rear of the Chelmsford street hospital. The matter was referred to the mayor and Commissioner Murphy.

Then came an innocent looking paper from the office of the secretary of the council, informing the council that Louis T. Bechard and Ferdinand W. Bechard had applied for a certificate of incorporation for the Boulevard Social and Athletic association, Inc., for the purpose of promoting social and athletic activities among the young people of the city.

Accompanying it was a letter from the Springfield police in which a favorable report was made on the characters and records of the incu-orators. The report was then signed by the members of the council and returned to the office of the secretary of the commonwealth.

It is understood that the club in question is to be conducted in the building erected more than a year ago on the site of the High School, situated on the boulevard and for which a dancehall license has been twice denied by the license commission.

A vote introduced by Commissioner Donnelly was passed, instructing the city auditor to issue upon the city treasurer a warrant for the payment of $266 for two-cent stamps to be used in sending out the tax bills.

A $10,000 loan order for schoolhouses, which had previously been passed with three votes, but which was returned by the bankers with the request that four votes be obtained, came up for action and again passed but this time with four votes.

The city clerk was directed to advertise an order to borrow $34,000 for schoolhouses, the money to be used for the purchase and completing the Moseley school addition and erecting an $8000 domestic science bungalow on the school grounds as requested by a large number of residents of the Highlands.

Bills contracted by world war veterans in connection with the Memorial day celebration, totalling $927.17, were approved.

Blessington Resigns

The mayor then read a letter from Dr. James B. O'Connor recommending to John B. Blessington, superintendent of streets, that owing to his poor health, his resignation as such be accepted. There was then read Mr. Blessington's formal resignation in which he asked that it take effect July 1. On motion of Commissioner Murphy it was accepted.

The mayor said that he believed in view of Mr. Blessington's long term of service with the street department, his efficiency in handling large numbers of men for many years and his success in instructing them, that many of them are now bringing credit to both him and to this city elsewhere, a vote of thanks and appreciation should be given to him. It was so voted unanimously.

Commissioner archard interrupted the superintendency proceedings for a few minutes by introducing a vote authorizing him to enter into a con-fact with the Kennel Buler of 1912, and the horizontal tubular boiler for the Varnum school at a cost not to exceed $1250. The city clerk was instructed to advertise the vote.

Commissioner Murphy then brought the council's attention back to the Des Moines matter by moving that Alfred Johnston be paid up to July 1st, despite the fact that he had not worked during the full period preceding that date. It was so voted.

Bowers is Elected

Commissioner Murphy then moved that the council proceed to the election of a superintendent of streets to succeed Mr. Westington. Commissioner Marchand seconded the motion.

The four ballots resulted as follows:

Biggest Crowd in History of South Common Take in the Midway and Enjoys Grand Pyrotechnic Display

A PEEK AT THE MIDWAY FAIRYLAND

The Glorious Fourth has once more passed into history and with its 1921 passage goes a flood of pleasant and thrilling recollections of the holiday for thousands of Lowell people. It was a truly glorious holiday for the Spindle City, one unmarred by serious accident and characterized by the biggest outdoor carnival ever staged here.

As predicted, the American Legion carnival on the South common proved the nucleus of the day's program and from early Saturday night until late last night thousands tramped the common, making their way from stand to stand and enjoying to the full the medley of color, light, entertainment and bustle produced by hundreds of barker in their booths and tents of every shape and description.

The greatest crowd that ever assembled on the common was there last evening to witness the municipal fireworks exhibition. It ranged very near the 75,000 mark and those who were still thinking subconsciously of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight of Saturday had an opportunity to get an approximate idea of the crowd which attended that affair. It was easily the greatest crowd ever assembled in one place in the city of Lowell.

The Fourth itself and the day preceding it were both hot, muggy affairs. The four days of rain which had come before, however, as evening came on yesterday the heat was tempered and a slight breeze helped to make the evening hours most comfortable.

In addition to the South common Continued on Page 8

BIG CARNIVAL TO CLOSE AT MIDNIGHT

Reports that the giant American Legion carnival would be continued through to Thursday evening were denied this afternoon by Manager Francis J. Roane, of the enterprise. "Today we shall keep every attraction going from 2 p. m. to midnight, but at 12 o'clock the carnival will close," declared Manager Roane.

The usual big tree acts will be held this afternoon and evening. Twombly's flying circus gave an exhibition at 3:30 p. m. and will show again this evening at 7:15. At the latter performance, Mr. Twombly, it is announced, will attempt the feat of transferring from one speeding airplane to another. A few of the free vaudeville acts have been cancelled, according to Manager Roane, as the result of trouble with concessions, which he had closed by the police when the concessionaires declined, he alleges, to live up to the rules he laid down for the conduct of the concessions.

Sinn Fein and Unionist Leaders Hold Important Meeting in Dublin

Understanding Reached as to Matters to Be Discussed at Future Meetings

Smuts Today Met De Valera, Griffiths, O'Neil and Other Leaders

DUBLIN, July 5. (By the Associated Press).—Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, South African premier, arrived in Dublin this morning and is the guest of the lord mayor here.

The welcoming delegation including the lord mayor, Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein and R. C. Barton, Sinn Fein member of parliament for Wicklow, awaited Gen. Smuts at Kingstown, expecting to meet him there and escort him to Dublin. Through some slip, however, they missed the general and he motored to Dublin unnoticed.

Men and Women Appear on Charges of Dry Law Violations

Stills, Mash and Moonshine Block Corridor at the Police Station

The corridor of the police station this morning looked like a dream of Omar Khayyam. Lining both walls, and leaving merely a narrow passage where through to reach the superintendent's office and the inspectors' room, were the following: Stills, jugs of moonshine, jugs of cider (hard), funnels, more stills, corks, bottles of Jamaica ginger, cases of flasks, vials, jars, vases, and similar receptacles, all bearing a kindred aroma, mash, more stills, more bottles, and more hooch.

The scene revealed some of the fruits of a series of raids staged over the week end by the local liquor Continued on Page 5

KING AND QUEEN OF BELGIUM IN LONDON

LONDON, July 5.—(By the Associated Press) King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, amid pre-war splendor and old world ceremony in the historic Guild Hall, today received an address of welcome from the city corporation.

After they were given a luncheon in the great hall, a large and distinguished gathering, including the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, the Belgian ambassador and the members of the British cabinet being present.

The journey from Buckingham palace to the Guild Hall was made in regal-state through cheering crowds.

WILLARD WILLING TO MEET DEMPSEY

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 5.—Jess Willard is willing to meet Jack Dempsey again, he said today, on his farm near here.

The former champion added that he was even anxious to get a chance to recapture the world's heavyweight championship which he lost two years ago at Toledo.

"I've led the simple life; I'm in splendid shape today," he said.

"I would need four months, for training and conditioning, then I would be ready for Jack Dempsey."

Shortland was common among the nobility in Cicero's time.

$200,000 SAFE ROBBERIES

Samuel Bender Arrested Near New Haven in Connection With Thefts

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 5.—Samuel Bender, who was arrested at Savin Rock near here, last night, for alleged safe robberies in New Jersey, waived extradition today. New Jersey officers planned to take him to Newark during the day.

Bender's alleged accomplice, Harry Feinberg, prepared to resist extradition and was held in bonds of $5000 for a continued hearing next Saturday.

Both men were charged with larceny of $1200 from the National Biscuit Co. at Newark in August, 1920, when the safe of the company was broken open.

The police declare that Feinberg and Bender have been connected with safe robberies involving the theft of nearly $200,000.

Safe Carried Away

WATERBURY, Conn., July 5.—Burglars broke into the branch office and garage of the Charles A. Templeton Hardware Co. last night, and carried the safe away in an automobile, which they stole. The car was found today but the safe containing $300 was missing. The plant is owned by Lieut. Governor Templeton.

IS REAPPOINTED K. OF C. DISTRICT DEPUTY

State Deputy William C. Prout of the Knights of Columbus has just assumed office and has appointed a new list of district deputies for the entire state. Many new names are on the list and but few of the older men have been reappointed. Standing out prominently, however, in the list of reappointments is District Deputy Chas. J. Landers of this city, who though a young man, is really one of the veteran deputies of the commonwealth.

Mr. Landers first received his commission from State Deputy Daniel J. Gallagher, and remained the Lowell man each year successively for three years. Now, when Judge Day steps down and the new state deputy comes in, it is gratifying to Lowell members of the order to note that Mr. Landers has again been chosen for another term.

Mr. Landers has been unusually successful as a district deputy despite the exacting nature of his duties and his popularity was attested today when he received an invitation to preside at a big excommunication to be held in Claremont, N. H., next Sunday. His district embraces Lowell, Lawrence, Andover and Woburn, but during his term of office he has traveled quite extensively over New England.

Among the new district deputies is James T. Duane, state commander of the American Legion and a personal friend of Mr. Landers.

CANNON BURSTS IN CHELMSFORD

A small cannon that was being used to celebrate the national holiday burst into bits yesterday at Central Square, Chelmsford. Several young men who had been engaged in firing the piece narrowly escaped serious injury.

When the explosion occurred a large section of the cannon weighing about eleven pounds was blown high in the air and landed with a crash on the roof of the railway train shed almost a block away. The heavy metal ripped up the roof of the structure, bounded off and landed within a foot of Francis DeKalb who was standing nearby.

LOST CHILDREN

More than a score of little boys and girls were entertained at police headquarters yesterday evening when they became separated from parents or other adult guardians during their festivities of Independence Day. The police made the largest number of "lost children" on record at the station. All were eventually reclaimed by anxious parents.

South Africa, left for Ireland last night and was expected to arrive in Dublin early today. It was understood here this morning that the purpose of his visit to Ireland was to confer with Sinn Féin and Unionist leaders of South Ireland preliminary to the resumption of their conference, next Friday. The unionists and Sinn Féin held a brief meeting in Dublin yesterday, and reports received here indicated that they had reached an understanding as to matters to be discussed at future conferences.

The Dublin conference was the outstanding feature in London newspapers this morning, nearly all treating it sympathetically and expressing hope that it would lead to peace in Ireland. Comment on the meeting, however, was not devoid of remarks that the conference did not affect the progress of the Sinn Féin guerrilla warfare on crown forces there.

Great interest was manifested in the mission of General Smuts to Ireland, there being a difference of opinion whether it was prompted by the government or undertaken at the invitation of Irish leaders. Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster, left Belfast for London today, and it is pointed out he will have abundant time to confer with members of the government and others whom he may desire to consult, pending a decision by Eamonn de Valera.

Earl Middleton, one of the four southern unionists who took part in yesterday's conference at Dublin, arrived in England last night and it is assumed he intends to confer with politicians here during the interval before the resumption of the Dublin conference on Friday. Earl Middleton, when interviewed at Holyhead declined to talk of the proceedings of the conference, saying the participants mutually had agreed to say nothing for publication at present, adding that, as far as he personally was concerned, he would say there was no reason to be dissatisfied with the progress made. He reiterated the statement issued at Dublin last night to the effect that certain decisions had been reached, but refused to indicate anything regarding their character.

Agree on Finance

DUBLIN, July 5. (By Associated Press).—For three hours yesterday Eamonn de Valera, the Irish republican leader; Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin; and four southern unionists, Earl Middleton, Sir Maurice Dockrell, Sir Robert Henry Woods and Arthur James Balfour, conferred on the Irish situation with a view to preparing the way for possible negotiations with the British prime minister and the Ulster premier, Sir James Craig.

Great crowds gathered outside the Mansion House, where the discussions took place, waving American flags, many falling on their knees and reciting prayers for the success of the conference. The unionist representatives met with a cordial reception from those assembled.

The members of the conference were reticent regarding what took place at

Companies Closed Down Must Pay Help

MEXICO CITY, July 5.—Oil companies which have closed down operations in the states of Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz, "without sufficient justification," are ordered to pay indemnification to employees thrown out of work by their action in a decree issued by President Obregon last night. Although the amount is not stated, it is understood that all laborers would receive three months' pay. Reports from the Tampico district indicate there has been a marked cessation of work during the past week, especially among American concerns. No reason has been announced by the companies but it is understood to be an act of reprisal against the recent decree increasing the export taxes on petroleum. Reports from the Vera Cruz fields indicate British companies are speeding up operations instead of decreasing their working forces.

Italian Cabinet Satisfactory to Catholics

ROME, July 5.—Catholic leaders in Italian politics express their satisfaction with the new cabinet formed by Signor Bonomi. This is not because the Catholic members of the ministry have been increased from two to three, but because for the first time, the Catholics have obtained the much-desired portfolio of justice. It is pointed out that this post is most important, as it deals with ecclesiastical questions. The fascists, the nationalists and conservatives are declared to be opposing the cabinet, while the socialists will not be open in their opposition if the new administration will disband the fascist groups which have been carrying on a bitter campaign against radicals in Italy for some months.

Girl Shot in Fight Over U. S. Flag

An exciting incident occurred after the conference. A large republican flag decorated with American emblems, hanging from a window in Dominick st. was removed by soldiers. A girl secured the flag and escaped. Later the flag was hung from a rope across the street. Auxiliary police climbed to the roof and cut the rope; when the flag fell it was seized by waiters, but was re-captured by the auxiliaries. A shot was fired during the confusion and the girl was severely wounded.

BOY IS SCIENCE TEST TO PROVE PARENTAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—How does nature determine the parentage of a child? It is the question asked by the city of San Francisco, and the answer is being sought by a scientific test on the boy Eugene, son of Mrs. Del Secco, who is charged with the fathering of the child.

rams unequivocally pronounced the boy Sorine's son.

Haig Patigan, celebrated sculptor, was then called in to subject the case to the practiced eye of plastic art. Patigan reported a singular similarity between man and boy, but said that resemblance alone, no matter how striking, could not wholly be relied upon to establish blood relation.

"I consider that Julius Sorine and the Del Secco child bear strong resemblance," said Patigan, "but I do not presume that that points of resemblance I have discovered should be considered absolute proof of paternity."

Mrs. Del Secco secured a divorce from Sorine shortly after the child's birth because he then denied being his father. Following her marriage to John Del Secco, six months ago, Corine laid claim to the boy and petitioned for his custody. Mrs. Del Secco then asserted in court that he had been right when he accused her of having been unfaithful during her marriage, but she has persistently refused to divulge who is the father of her child.

Employees' Drive For Greater Business

Started off With a Bang This Morning at 8.30 o'clock

LAST Year, we, as well as other reputable houses, enjoyed a very large volume of business, it being a very remarkable year in many ways. During the remainder of July and the month of August we are going to make a special effort to exceed the business of the corresponding months last year by at least 50%. To do this means a much great number of sales, due to the fact that prices have been materially reduced since a year ago. Our store people, who are a most loyal group of individuals, say they are going to do it! Now Just Watch Us! The store people have been divided in two armies—The Reds and The Blues—and they are under the leadership of two of the popular buyers of the store. Enthusiasm is running high, and the greatest competition exists between both armies. Watch the daily papers and the store windows for the special features during this drive. Special prizes are to be given to the individuals in the departments standing the highest each week.

THE SUN LEADS AS USUAL

Saturday's Demonstration Big Victory—Contemporary Is Leader in Name Only

The Sun takes pardonable pride in the manner in which it handled the returns of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight Saturday afternoon and gave its readers first news from the ringside long before its competitors were able to announce the result of the big international contest.

It was a day of succeeding journalistic triumphs for The Sun staff but its most important achievement and that which was most appreciated by the fans was the fact that it got a paper on the street with the result of the big bout fully five minutes before its nearest competitor. Not only did it carry the result of the fight but it also gave its readers a life-size picture of the winner. The Sun's sporting extra had the appearance of a real sporting extra and one glance at it told fight fans the whole story.

There was the first triumph for this newspaper—it gave the fans the first published account of the tussle at Jersey City and when The Sun's sporting extra had been practically sold out, its competitor began to make an appearance with the story that had already been known.

Then, while the fight was going on, The Sun gave megaphone service to thousands of fans in Merrimack square. A tensed wire direct from the arena to the fourth floor of The Sun building gave Sun patrons every move of the boxers a second after it happened. As usual, The Sun man was the first to announce the fact that Dempsey had won. Another newspaper and the Chalfoux Co. gave similar service, but this paper was the first to announce the result.

But The Sun did not stop with one sporting extra, but got out another telling of the human interest scenes following the big fight and giving many details of the fighter's conditions after the bout, the financial receipts, etc. It covered the fight from every angle.

While its competitor was struggling to get out its first edition, The Sun had put out its two regular editions, again carrying the first stories of the scenes before the battle, the number attending the fray, etc. The fans didn't have to wait until 3.15 for the first news of the day from Jersey. The Sun gave it to them at 1.40.

And incidentally, did you notice that The Sun was the only local paper and only paper in the state, for that matter, to print on Saturday the story of the taking over of the former Harvard Brewery buildings in Payson street by a new corporation for the purpose of establishing a warehouse and storage house—one of the most important transactions of its kind ever negotiated here?

But all this is an old story to Sun readers. From years of experience they have come to expect such service from The Sun and they are never disappointed.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN HERO AT SALISBURY

Leo R. Mongeau, aged 20 years, a student at Holy Cross and son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mongeau of this city, who is spending the summer with his parents at Salisbury beach, performed a heroic act at the beach Sunday when he saved Antonio Toris, aged 11 years, of 114 Gardner street, Lawrence, from a watery grave. The little fellow was saved after going under water for the second time and after the efforts of several men to reach him had failed.

The Toris boy was bathing at the beach with water wings strapped to his body, when the undertow of the outgoing tide brought him a distance of about 100 yards from shore into water above his head. The little fellow struggled for life and shouted for help and his shouts were heard by two or three men who were enjoying a sun bath on the beach, but their efforts to reach him were fruitless. It was then that Leo Mongeau, who was also taking things easy on the beach, started out to the lad's rescue. He took place to reach him and after placing him on his shoulder, managed to reach shore safely but not until he had struggled in the water for over half an hour. When brought to shore the boy was in a semi-conscious condition, but was soon revived and today he is none the worse for his experience. The Lowell young man was warmly congratulated for the heroic rescue, for it was feared at one time that he would not be able to reach shore with the boy.

MARATHON SOCIAL AND ATHLETIC CLUB

The official opening of the new quarters of the Marathon Social and Athletic club at 37 Hanover street, Sunday afternoon, and the exercises were largely attended. President Peter Tsaffaras presided over the program and the speakers were Mayor Thompson, Thomas F. Spelman of Boston, chief examiner for the naturalization service; Dr. John K. Gatsopoulos and Dionisios Soufras, a Harvard student.

The new quarters of the club, a four-story stone building, was purchased last year at a cost of $5000. Inside and outside alterations to the extent of $3000 have been made and now the club has one of the most modern and best equipped buildings in the city.

The basement consists of a well appointed gymnasium with shower baths, toilets and boiler room, while on the second floor are the main office of the club and running track. The third story is taken up with a reading room, library and billiard rooms, while on the fourth floor are located offices for various Greek organizations. The membership of the club is 354 and it

IS FRESH AS LARK OF MORNINGS NOW

Mrs. Martel Says She Gained Seven Pounds On Very First Bottle of Tanlac

"When I think of what Tanlac has done for me, I also think of others who need it like I did, and I want to do all I can to help them find out about this grand medicine," said Mrs. Mary Martel, of 31 Ashua st., Fall River, Mass.

"My appetite was so poor that I couldn't force myself to eat enough to keep up my strength. Even the smell of cooking nauseated me and I was so miserable I hardly felt like turning my hands to do a thing. I was so tired and worn out when night came I just felt like I could go to sleep standing up, but when I would lie down I was so nervous and restless I could scarcely sleep a wink. I was eating and feeling so wretched that my friends were talking about what bad health I was in and I just knew I was on the verge of a nervous and physical breakdown."

"However, I began improving on my first few doses of Tanlac, and two bottles have made me feel like a different person. I have weight and my appetite is just keeps me hungry all the time now, and everything agrees with me perfectly. I gained seven pounds in weight on my very first bottle and have been gaining right along ever since. I sleep like a child at night, and get up mornings feeling refreshed and energetic and as happy as a lark. My work is easy now, and I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. J. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

It is expected that within a few months it will reach the thousand mark. The officers are as follows:

Peter Tsaffaras, president; Spyros Hondros, vice president; Salistos Kamas, treasurer; George Holemilis, secretary; John Shumas, Costas Russias, Peter Genetakos, C. S. Kalodakis and Christos Svolintopoulos, directors. The aim of the organization is to promote athletics in this city and to increase the number of American citizens in the local Greek colony.

Suzanne Comes to "Settle Up"

BY DEAN SNYDER

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis comet, has two main objects in life ahead of her.

One is to "settle up" and the other is to settle down.

To realize the first she is coming to America to "settle up" for all time—the question as to who is the world's greatest and most spectacular woman tennis player.

After her attempt to prove that she is entitled to this title she wants to settle down in a home of her own.

For tennis to her 22-year-old girl is only secondary, after all.

Although she is merely a girl she is old in tennis. At 11 Suzanne was good enough to beat her parents.

She won the championship of France when but 14.

In 1919 she took every event she entered on the Riviera without loss of a single set and also the singles and doubles championship at Wimbledon, England, by defeating Mrs. Lambert Chambers in the challenge round.

Last year she maintained her unbeaten record. She won the singles championship again at Wimbledon, also the doubles with Miss Ryan, and the mixed doubles with Gerald Patterson, the Australian.

"Before the war I had gained the title of world's champion," says Suzanne.

"But in reality I have only won the titles in France and England. Now I want to win it in America. That will give me the undisputed right to be called the world's champion."

"Tennis is only secondary to me. I hope to make enough out of my tour in America to set myself up in housekeeping as you Americans call it—settling down."

"I don't practice much any more. I couldn't bear the idea of training every day. That would be tiresome and take all the fun out of the game for me."

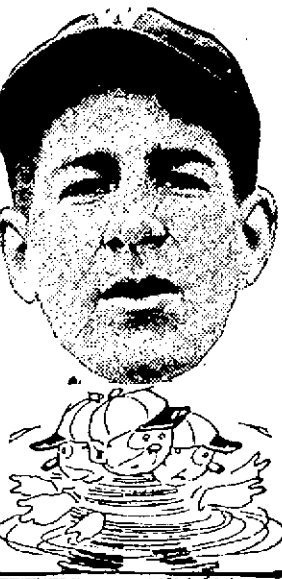

"I play because I love it. It's my only pastime, too, for I dance and swim poorly."

Her victory over Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt recently in France was not so much of a surprise as was the ease with which she vanquished America's leading woman player.

The game which the French girl plays is the most spectacular of any player in the world. She leaps into the air, she flies across the court, her hair streaming. She hits the ball with the power of a man.

Her very name, Suzanne, suggests pep. And if she were an American we'd likely call her "Pep" Lenglen instead of Mlle. Suzanne.

Faster Than Collins

STANLEY HARRIS

At last a man has appeared on the horizon of baseball who is faster than the great Eddie Collins in executing double plays around second base.

He is Stanley Harris of the Washington Americans.

Harris has the knack of handling balls from all angles and snapping them up to first base to complete the play a step ahead of the runner.

Collins has held that speed honor for a long time, but after 15 years in major league service, has slowed up some.

Harris is conceded by many to be as fast in negotiating double plays as Collins was in his prime.

BUCKLEY IN THE LEAD

South End Captain Now Tops Ricard's Most Popular Player Contest

"Abe" Buckley, popular center-fielder for the South Ends, jumped into the lead this week in the most popular player contest being conducted by Frank Ricard, the Central street jeweler. Desmond, Marcotte, Breen and Purtell follow in that order. Great interest is being shown in this contest throughout the city, and every week finds more voters pouring in to Ricard's, than the previous week. Extraordinary care is taken by the judges of the contest in sorting and counting these votes, and much time is spent, therefore, assuring participants and the general public that great pains are taken in the counting. Each night in The Sun, on its sporting page, you will find a coupon good for one vote. Cut this out. Fill it out for your favorite. Send the votes in early to Ricard's, 123 Central street. Make it a point to get your votes in by Friday of each week, so that your favorite will be credited with them in the standing every Monday in The Sun, on the sporting page.

The twelve leaders in the contest follow:

PAUL DOYLE TAKES SEIGAL'S TITLE

BOSTON, July 5.—Paul Doyle is now the welterweight champion of New England, taking the title from the holder, Nate Seigal of Revere, at the Y. M. C. A. boxing gym at Graves Field yesterday afternoon.

At the end of the 10-round number, the judges and referee gave Doyle the decision.

The battle was one of the fastest and most scuffling ever in the city in a long time. In the second round it looked as if Doyle was going to be polished off quickly, as Seigal put him down for the count of eight with a short right to the jaw. When Doyle got to his feet, he blocked off the rights and lefts rained on him.

Seigal had some weight on Doyle and went after him from the start. Doyle displayed great cleverness and head-work, doing some blocking.

It was his left that proved the undoing of the champion. He hooked and jabbed Seigal many times, driving his right to the jaw also. In the fifth round, Doyle opened Seigal's lower lip with a stiff left jab and he made that sent the target with his left after that.

When Doyle was declared the winner and new champion, not a dissenting voice was raised.

Tommy Regan of East Boston and Bobby Joseph of the South End came together in the opening bout, a 10-round affair. Joseph was declared the winner. He had the honors in every round except two Regan was very close in the smashes he received. In the clinches Joseph gave Regan a bad punning on the body.

Jack Malone of St. Paul early won the award over Pat Reed of Natik in another 10-round number. In the seventh round Malone nearly put Reed down with a short right to the jaw, and in the eighth round he rocked Reed with rights and lefts.

It looked in the last part of the battle as if Malone was not trying very hard to score a knockout. It was his first appearance here. Reed's south-paw style bothered Malone to some extent at the start.

WONOSOCKET, R. I., July 5.—Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion of the world and Young Montclair of Providence did not meet in their scheduled bout here yesterday afternoon. Lynch reported that he was unable to box because of a strained ligament in his back.

Jabez White of Albany was substituted for the champion in a 12-round no-decision bout. Newspapersmen at the ringside said Young Montclair won 10 of the rounds.

RACING AUTO DRIVER KILLED AT NO. ADAMS

NORTH ADAMS, July 5.—Joseph Thomas, a racing automobile driver, was instantly killed yesterday when his car crashed through a fence on the west turn in a race at the fair grounds here. Although his car went into a crowd no one else was injured.

Hyde Park section of Boston, was making his first race as a driver, having been employed as a mechanic in the racing department, who participated in the contest yesterday. He was an officer in the aircraft production division of the air service during the war.

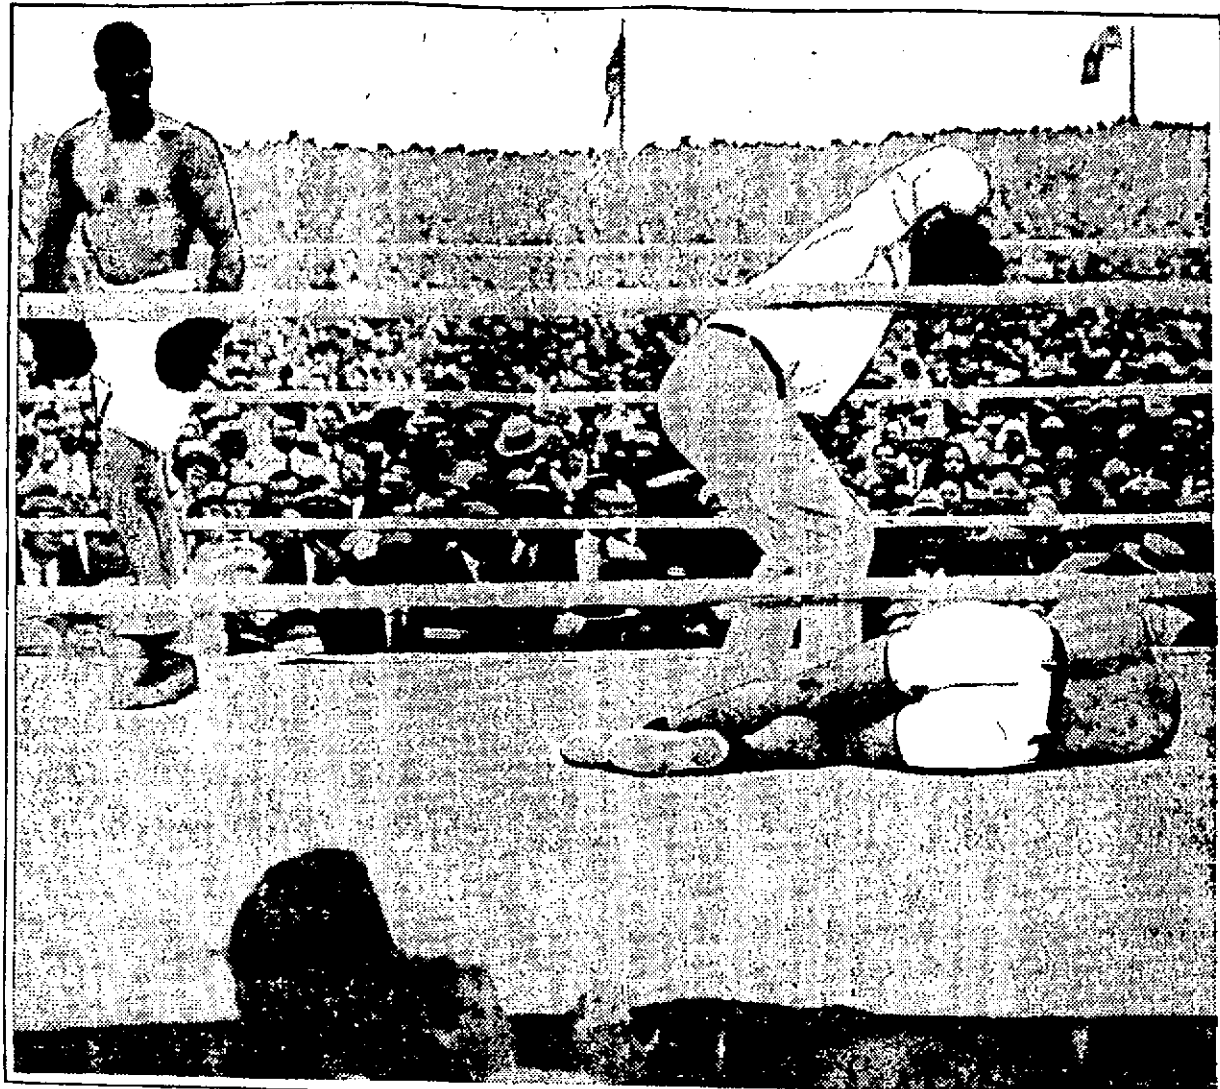

CARP NT TO RETIRE

MANHASSET, L. I., July 5 (by the Associated Press).—George Carpenter will not retire from the ring as a result of his defeat by Dempsey. He will fight any man in the world excepting the champion, who he admits is his superior. This statement was made yesterday by Francis Descamps, the Frenchman's manager.

Some fishermen get cheated if they swap good worms for what they bring home.

No factory in Great Britain may be open for more than 12 hours in one day.

THE KNOCKOUT!

This time Georges Carpentier was down—and out. Once before he had staggered to his feet after a count of nine. Here is shown the second—and final—knockdown. As Referee Harry Erle tolled off the count, Carpentier made a jerky, convulsive movement as if to arise; but his weakened frame was unequal to the effort; he sank back and rolled over on his side—finished. Dempsey is shown at the other side of the ring watching the referee's arm come down with the count of ten.

Kilbane Picked the Winner, the Round and the Blows That Decided Demp-Carp. Bout— Says Dempsey Must Now Meet Tom Gibbons

JOHNNY KILBANE

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion

JERSEY CITY, July 5.—The next logical opponent for champion Jack Dempsey is Tommy Gibbons.

Gibbons would have put up a better fight against Dempsey than Georges Carpentier did.

Dempsey won in the round I predicted in my special article in The Sun, and the blows that put Carpentier out were the blows I forecast.

Carpentier was knocked out because he didn't use those famous brains of his—because he failed to stay out of the clinches.

Being was the method by which Georges could have won. He was advertised as a better boxer than Dempsey, and he proved this superiority beyond the shadow of doubt.

But Georges was a fool not to stay out of clinches. Dempsey had more weight, more strength and more stamina. This overcame Carpentier's greater speed and boxing skill.

Carpentier lost because he let himself get into clinches where Dempsey, with his 20 pounds of excess weight, could lay that weight against him and wear him out and weaken him with short jabs.

Brute strength beat boxing skill.

In spite of Carpentier's handicap of choosing the wrong method of fighting, he fought an even fight up to the fatal fourth round.

It was plain to me that Dempsey was beating him in the first round in the clinches by a use of short uppercuts, mostly lefts.

I gave Dempsey the first round, but the second round unquestionably belonged to Carpentier. He was boxing in this round and he was too fast for Dempsey and Dempsey was missing and Carpentier was landing workable punches. I judged the third round a draw, with Carpentier landing more blows but with Dempsey averaging things up with his superior strength.

Taking the fight as a whole, Carpentier landed more blows than Dempsey did—just as I forecast.

If Carpentier had boxed—boxing all the time and dancing his way out of those deadly clinches—as he did so admirably in the second round, he might have won.

Carpentier didn't do the thing he could do better than Dempsey and he tried to do the thing that Dempsey could do better than he could. That was Carpentier's fatal mistake.

The Frenchman surprised many by the splendid fight he put up. And he had Dempsey groggy in the second round. And he did this latter in spite of the fact that he was weakened by the punishment he received in the clinches during the first round.

A predicted Dempsey would win in the fourth round with a right-hand blow to the heart and a left hook to the

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WIN BALL GAME

In a slow, somewhat spiritless game the Knights of Columbus won handsily from the Boston Professionals yesterday afternoon at Spaulding park, score, 8 to 4. From the start the visiting team showed that it did not possess the qualities necessary to snatch a win from their fast rivals and as the game proceeded it became merely a question of how large the score should be at the end.

Davidson from Ellensburg tossed for the home team and it was largely through his efforts that the K. of C. won. Ring was the name of the opposing pitcher but he fell far short of throwing the ball for after the local boys had solved the easy riddle of his slow ball they hit him almost at will and rolled up the hits which swung the tide of battle to their side.

Some new names appeared in the K. of C. lineup. Several former college boys were on the roster, including Rioselle of Holy Cross, Knowles of Harvard and McLaughlin of Fordham.

The local team showed a better brand of ball than they have at any time this season and it was no wonder that they conquered the Boston team, professionals though they were. Manager Coughlin has a strong ball team this year and may look for a very successful season if he gets any considerable proportion of the breaks.

The visitors got their first tally in the first stanza when a pass, a stolen base and a wild pitch gave them an opportunity. They did not get another chance until the seventh when three successful hits, bunched closely, made the going easy. It was at this point

SHEVLIN DEFEATS KLOBY AT SALEM

SALEM, July 5.—Eddie Shevlin, the Boston welterweight, won the decision over Tommy Kloby, Gorcoran of Lawrence in their 10-round bout at the open-air show of the Naval Air Corps today afternoon.

It was sweet revenge for Shevlin for the knockout that Kloby gave him in Lawrence a few years ago. About 12,000 fans watched the bout.

Kloby fought in his usual testing-in style, trying with both hands for the body and head. He found Shevlin a smarter fighter than when they met before and Kloby could not land his punches very often. Shevlin slipped to one side from most of Kloby's leads, countering the Lawrence boxer with either a right or left.

In the clinches, Shevlin worked his right uppercut with good effect. In only the first part of the opening session did Kloby show to advantage. The rest of the way Shevlin had the honors by a big margin.

NEW JERSEY OFFICIALS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 5.—Details of the plans for the prosecution of public officials in New Jersey were discussed today by officials of the International reform bureau, who vainly attempted to prevent the staging of the Dempsey-Carp fight, which is scheduled for Saturday night in the office of Herbert Clark Gilson, attorney for the bureau.

The bureau has already demanded the arrest of Jack Dempsey on a charge of assault and battery upon the person of Georges Carpentier, Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, superintendent of the reform bureau, has also demanded that Gilson be prosecuted for the law, as well as many other state officials. The same 3000 spectators are also cited by the reformers as law-breakers. They have their contention upon the assertion that the spectacle witnessed Saturday was a prize fight, which is prohibited under the New Jersey law.

One of the principal purposes of the bureau, it was believed, would be the attempt to prevent similar contests in the future within the borders of New Jersey. It was indicated that a test case might come up in the courts to determine whether the boxing law of the state, which was passed in 1915, was a repeal of the Crutcher act, still on the statute books, which prohibits prize fighting. The reformers said they were confident that the courts would hold that the latter law still exists and that they could prevent future contests of the sort held here Saturday.

Dr. Crafts announced that the bureau was planning a crusade against the exhibition of motion pictures of the fight anywhere in the world.

As for the boxing law or Dempsey-Willard fight, Dr. Crafts had this to say:

"We will go through the state to speak against the exhibition of the fight anywhere in the world. The reform bureau announces that its campaign is constructive, not destructive.

"We will press this constructive campaign harder now," Dr. Crafts said. "Community organizations will be suggested to provide proper recreation in place of such dangerous forms of amusement as desecrated motion pictures, public dances and automobile races. People go to prize fights, check-book dances and immoral motion pictures because there is no constructive plan for better recreation."

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT NORTH RANDALL

CLEVELAND, July 5.—The Fast Sweepsstakes for three-year-old trotters were the feature of the annual Grand Circuit harness racing card at North Randall. In addition, five other races were on the program, including the unfinished 201 pace of yesterday.

Nine of the crack colts of the year are entered in the sweepsstakes, among which are the American and the Great, Danica Bell and Peter Hilt.

Other entries on the card are the 210 pace with seven scheduled starters; the 212 in two divisions with 11 horses named to start in each, and the 218 pace, which closed with 16 entered.

Under the New York Trotting association rules, the virtue of his victory in two straight heats yesterday, is the winner of the 201 pace. This third heat was postponed until today when the remainder of the field will race to decide the division of the remainder of the money.

17 HOME RUNS IN YESTERDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, July 5.—Seventeen home runs were made in the two leagues yesterday. Nine were hit in the American and eight in the National.

In one game, a feat performed also by Southworth of the Boston Nationals and Baker of the New York Americans.

NURSE BROKEN HAND TO LOCAL SPORT WRITER

MANNHASSET, N. Y., July 5.—Georges Carpentier will spend several weeks here following the doctor's orders. Franciscus Descamps, his manager, announced here today. His hand, broken in his battle with the victorious Dempsey last Saturday, probably will take about six weeks to heal, his physician has estimated, and it was not believed the European champion would do any boxing before that time.

This, Descamps said, precluded the possibility of a bout between Carpentier and Tom Gibbons in the big Jersey City arena on Labor day. "Tex" Hickland, promoter of the recent event, announced last night that he might arrange such a bout on the day named, but said he had not conferred with any officials of the Frenchman's camp. Descamps, however, said he was highly in favor of the match as soon as Georges' hand is healed and he has had sufficient time to train.

"He will be six weeks of rest," Descamps said, "according to the doctor's orders, and then Georges would need about six weeks of training to be in condition for a fight with Tom Gibbons or any other opponent. This program would keep him out of the ring until early in October."

"Gibbons-Carpentier would make a great match," continued the manager. "The weight was too much for Georges Saturday, but Gibbons is heavier than a feather and a real contender for the light heavyweight championship."

Carpentier's plans are somewhat indefinite, but he learned that he is seriously considering taking a trip to France before he engages in another bout in this country.

GOOD HORSE RACES AT GOLDEN COVE

Independence Day races at Golden Cove yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Lowell Driving club were the best that have been seen hereabouts for many moons and the crowd was the largest yet seen at the Golden Cove track. The list of entries included fast horses from various cities and the races were all that could be desired. The weather, of course, was a bit too warm for comfort so far as it applied to humans, but the horses didn't seem to mind it except to sweat a little more than usual. The crowd, however, was more than pleased with the program. The summary:

DEMPSEY ENJOYS PICTURES OF FIGHT

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 5.—Jack Dempsey, still the heavyweight champion of the world, observed the punches which he landed in addition to celebrating his victory over Georges Carpentier, the European champion, Saturday. Dempsey plans to remain in this vicinity for several days, when he will go to Salt Lake City, his home, for a vacation and rest from his long training.

The champion Sunday saw himself in action. He listened to a motion picture theatre that was showing pictures of Saturday's battle. Huddled in a back seat alongside of Jack Kearns, his manager, he watched the punches which the champion had landed on his bodyguard. He watched the punches that enabled him to retain the championship. He also saw the punches that in the second round caused the mass of humanity in the great arena to gasp in the belief that the blood French boxer was to make good his boast of a knockout.

Then, Dempsey saw himself utter and away as the Frenchman sent those punches to his jaw. Perhaps not understanding the picture, he called out: "Just how near he had been to dropping to the canvas floor, for after the fight Dempsey declared the blows had not bothered him."

As Dempsey sat himself on the screen inflicting punishment upon his lighter opponent, his eyes sparkled and he leaned forward eagerly, and uttered an exclamation when he saw the way Carpentier gamely came back. "He did take it, Mike," he said. "He did take it, Mike, he did take it."

Eighteen Young Men and Women Will Attend Christian Endeavor Society Convention in New York

Lowell's delegation to the sixth world's convention of the Christian Endeavor society, which is being held in New York, will consist of eighteen young men and women, who are scheduled to leave this city tomorrow morning on the 6:23 train. They will remain in New York until the 10th, when they will return to Lowell. The group, which represents the Lowell Christian Endeavor union, comprises the following: Osmond E. Coburn, Mrs. Osmond E. Coburn, A. Edwin Wells, Miss Gladys Paige, Fremont Nichols, Miss Agnes Pollard, Rodman Cheney, Morton Fleming, Fred V. Hansen, Miss Bernice Ragner, Miss Bernice Frisbie, Miss Frances Graves, Miss Viola Rowken, Miss Elizabeth Lane, Miss Leonard, Miss R. W. Thompson, Leonard Fish and Rev. Elmer L. West.

Osmond Coburn, president of the Lowell union, will be in the lead of a three-act play dealing with the Christian Endeavorers, to be presented by Massachusetts delegates at noon Friday before the convention. A. Edwin Wells, of Draught, will also make one of the characters. Mr. Wells is president of the Middlesex county Christian Endeavor union, and will direct one of the teams which are to hold conferences during the gathering.

The convention is to be conducted in sections at the First regiment armory, 215 street and Park avenue. The final day of the gathering will be Saturday, when the parade will be held. The parade will be a three-act play dealing with the Christian Endeavorers, to be presented by Massachusetts delegates at noon Friday before the convention. A. Edwin Wells, of Draught, will also make one of the characters. ## JOHN EMERSON, HE'S PRESIDENT OF ACTORS' EQUITY AND THE BIG GUN IN THE FIGHT FOR TARIFF ON FOREIGN FILMS

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, July 5.—Congress is to pass a 30 per cent. tariff on all imported films to protect American actors.

John Emerson says so. And John isn't in the habit of talking through his hat.

"I have assurance from the ways and means committee of the house that such a tariff will be recommended," says Emerson. "And if it's recommended it will be passed."

He is president of the Actors' Equity association which has between 10,000 and 15,000 members. He's also the husband of Anita Long. And an actor. And a scenario writer. And a director. And—oh, lots of things.

You've seen pictures of movie directors, haven't you? And read about 'em?

They wear their caps turned backward. And riding breeches. And puttees. And a megaphone. And lots of atmosphere.

Well, you ought to see Emerson in action as a director. Only he's not in action. He sits still most of the time. He looks above conversational tone. He looks and acts like a college professor teaching the theory of the fourth dimension.

Now that he has directed "The Good for Nothing," he is white, thin, and a turn-down collar of ancient cut.

It was bottomed blueblazes in the studio and so he wore his handkerchief tucked in his collar, big-fashion.

The interview was between scenes. Scenes were changed so often that the interview suffered from lack of continuity.

"You can believe foreign films should be banned from this country," I asked. "Not at all," he answered. "But we ought to protect American actors and American interests in this industry the same as we do in all industries. It's a business proposition."

"It's well enough to talk about art for art's sake, but let's not talk about it for the sake of Europe when America's face the disastres of unemployment."

"Right now American producers are planning production in Europe because of the low price of labor there. If that plan becomes extensive with no protective tariff the American industry faces ruin."

This Man Emerson

John Emerson used to think movies were "the bunk." He saw "The Birth of a Nation." He saw it 12 consecutive days. Then he deserted the stage for the screen.

He had had 20 years' experience on the stage. Was associated with Mrs. Charles Fitch, Charles Frohman and others.

When he went to the California studios six years ago he met Anita Long. They were married two years ago. That was after they had collaborated on a number of pictures.

CHAPLIN'S SUCCESS

"The Tramp," one of Chaplin's earlier films, has been revived. It is bringing as many laughs as it did years ago and as many as Chaplin's newer comedies bring.

That's because the quality of Chaplin's comedy is about the same now as it was in the beginning. He held his up in our own ridicule then as he does now.

For instance, our telephone conduct. A man's house is a fire. He calls the fire department. The man at the end and Chaplin at the other are both important. When one is talking the other falls to have the receiver at his ear.

That it is in our own experiences. We fail to get our party often because of our own impatience.

CONGRESS TO PASS PROTECTIVE TARIFF ON FOREIGN FILMS

The sporting writer for a local Sunday paper, said to be none other than the president of the Twilight League, who also writes sports for two local papers, had a note in the former sheet the other day stating that Mike Mahoney was the only man Lowell ever sent to the big stage as an umpire. This in one of the most flagrant "hoaxes" ever pulled in local sporting circles.

Any school boy if Lowell has a representative on either of the big league umpire staffs, and it's a sure bet his reply will be in the affirmative. Only the other day "The Sun's" sporting page, which is right now among the best published in New England, carried an interesting letter from the Lowell man who is bringing credit to this city by his splendid work as umpire in the National League.

(Incidentally the man referred to picked the winner of the big bout at Jersey City July 2, and while his views did not conform to the wishes of the league president-sporting writer, he nevertheless was one of the many Sun contributors who had the right dope on the international battle.)

And this year is not the first that this popular, efficient and highly respected citizen of the Spindle city, has served as a big league umpire. We refer to genial "Bob" Hart, who in the winter time plays polo and enjoys the pleasures of his membership in the Lowell lodge of Elks, the Lowell council, K. of C., and the local Y.M.C.A.

If the reports are true that the Twilight League is the writer for the Sunday paper who made this error the explanation of the "hoax" may be that the duties of the presidency are more arduous than one on the outside would imagine. In the same issue the writer admitted that he considered the league president did more work than the league umpires or the players, for he announces that the president collects five dollars per game, while the umpires get three and the men who play the games average about $1 per contest.

Go Easy, Warns Man Who Zips Through Life at 60 Per

ENGINEER JOHN LACEY
By R. J. GIBBONS
CHICAGO, July 2.—"Go easy! Be careful!"
That is the advice of a man who has been zipping along at a rate of 60 miles an hour for the past 52 years.
He is John F. Lacey, the most traveled engineer in the world. And, with some 2,375,115 miles, equal to 55 trips around the globe, checked up on his speedometer, he is getting ready to retire on Aug. 1.
"Plenty of speed—and lots of control. That's my hobby," says Lacey, "and that's my tip to everybody."
"I like goin' fast—nothin' less than 60 per for grandpa. Whenever I take 'Pete'—that's my pet engine, you know—out for a spin, I just travel on the idea of the quicker we get there, the better."
Lacey figures he's carried about 100,000 folks, and he has been in every state in the Union.
"Ever had an accident?" Lacey smiles as he repeats the query. "Nope, not one! Safety first! That's me all over!"
The vet remembers the days when 50 miles an hour was some traveling. The engines of that time, he says, were "jokes" compared to his "Pete."
When he rings out at the La Salle street station here for the last time, he'll start drawing the largest pension ever granted an engineer by the Rock Island.
"And what'll I do when I've quit 'Pete'?" Well—there's my home and my garden—but now and then I'll want

"Drys" Count Marchers in "Wet" Parade

NEW YORK, July 5.—Prohibition organizations are on the watch lest sentiment favorable to repeal of the 18th amendment be exaggerated.
The anti-saloon league announced today that it had employed accountants to make a careful tally by adding machines and other counting devices of everybody in the holiday "wet parade" on Fifth avenue that there were actually 14,922 persons in line including 922 bandmen and 24 policemen.
The organizers of the demonstration telegraphed United States Senators Wadsworth and Calder that "the remarkable anti-prohibition parade of over 100,000 citizens would support them in opposition to the Volstead act. Pledges from men and women to march had totalled 202,670th the promoters say."

Mrs. Laura Schneck, formerly of 125 West 17th street, Philadelphia, now of Bridgeport, Pa., after two attacks of pleurisy, could not regain her strength and suffered for a long time from weakness, lack of sleep and loss of appetite.
"I was for a long time in a very nervous and run-down condition," writes Mrs. Schneck. "One day I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought a bottle of Wincarnis. I soon began to notice that I was eating and sleeping much better, and after a while my nerves quieted down, and I began to feel fine, putting on flesh, which I needed, as I was very thin after my illness."

Well, Fellows, It's Surely All Off Now— Woman Is To Boss Everything

in 1950
SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Listen to this, old timers! Here's what we'll be up against in 1950 when woman, bless her, will be boss of all she surveys, according to Rose Clare, modern oracle in the "1950 Girl" of the Orpheum.
Girls will do the proposing.
They'll demand eugenic certification as a matter of course.
They'll box, race, fly machines and outmatch men in all the more thrilling sports, and will as well constitute more than half the fans.
Most of them will wear trousers and have their hair bobbed.
They'll carry their own check books—and hubby's trousers pockets will be inviolate.
Love triangles will be a thing of the dim past because wives, taking the lead in mating, will select carefully, combining science with intuition.
Politically, women will be dominant, and the old time ward boss will have gone the way of booze.
Women will be represented in the president's cabinet; maybe one will even be president.
No one will think of looking askance at the girl who smokes.
Slavish adherence to styles in clothes will be no more; every woman will deck herself according to personal taste.
At the hotels the wife will do the registering, inscribing herself, "Mrs. So-and-so and husband."
The reason for all this? Simply because Mr. Man has been pulling the "Rip Van Winkle" for the past 100 years, while the other sex has been forging ahead so fast there's no stopping now.
The 1950 girl, says her present-day champion, will be perfect, mentally and physically. She'll be an ideal mother, business woman, and—listen—something of a flirt, too. She'll captivate the man of her choice by wit, then propose to him. But the man whose lax morals won't get much attention. He'll have to live up to certain standards if he expects any proposals.
But don't be afraid, men, that the 1950 girl will be forbidding, bespectacled and masculine-voiced. Not at all; she'll be just as feminine as ever, but she'll know what she wants and how to get it.
And if you don't like it, old timer—well, there's always the "back to the farm" movement.

MORMON CHURCH

ELDERS MEET

Minimizing the importance of polygamy in the Mormon church, and prophesying dire spiritual results to the man or woman who slams the door in the countenance of a Mormon missionary, local clerics of the church of the latter day saints gathered Sunday and heard the truths of their creed enunciated by Jack Major, who is attending Harvard law school, and occupying the leisure of his vacation period by missionary work for the Utah organization. The Mormon "gospel" asserted the young speaker, is the oldest in point of time that there is. It is God-made, not man-made, he declared. Polygamy was practiced by three per cent of the Mormon population, he admitted, but denied the charges that it has been far more extensively indulged in, and that this indulgence continues to the present day. An address by President Delbert G. Taylor was to the effect that Mormonism's finest tribute to a modification of pantheism, holding that man, spiritually considered, is the literal offspring of God Himself.

FRED COUTURE

WINS HOT RACE

Fred Couture was victor yesterday afternoon in a race from Tewksbury Centre to city hall, running from scratch and outdistancing the other three competitors. These were Billy Salome, George Goddard, and "Iron Man" Roddy. Couture's time was 32 minutes, while Salome arrived a close second, with a time of 33 minutes and 30 seconds. Goddard arrived in 40 minutes, and Roddy in 42 minutes. It was a hot day for a marathon.

How Nuxated Iron Helped

Put Me In Such Superb Condition As To Enable Me To Whip Carpentier

JACK DEMPSEY
"TIGER OF THE KING"
Tells a Secret Of His Training— Advises People Who Are In A Weakened, Rundown Condition To Use Nuxated Iron To Increase Their Strength, Vigor and Vitality

Today, recognized as the physical superior of any living man, the superman of the age, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, explains below the part Nuxated Iron played in helping to prepare him for the two supreme tests of his career. First he used Nuxated Iron as a part of his training to increase his strength and endurance in his decisive smashing victory over the mighty Willard who had never before been knocked from his feet. In this battle Dempsey displayed a dynamic overwhelming strength and power never before known in the history of the ring; and now again in his phenomenal victory over Carpentier he displayed that same indomitable force and nerve never before seen in any human being. The fact that Dempsey took Nuxated Iron as part of his training for both Willard and Carpentier is convincing evidence of the importance he attaches to keeping his blood rich in strength-giving iron, and the high regard in which he holds Nuxated Iron as a master strength and blood builder.

Instatement made at his headquarters in New York after the fight with Carpentier, Dempsey said: "A couple of years ago in preparing for my big fight with Jess Willard I took Nuxated Iron, and after I had taken it for a short while I was positive I could stand harder strains with less fatigue than before, and I firmly believe my championship bout against Carpentier I won my punch and helped me to whip Jess Willard and thereby win the world's championship at Toledo. After that time when I felt I was in a better condition to help build up my physical condition, and when I started to train for the international championship bout against Carpentier I again came to the front at the time I most needed it, and I am sure that it played an important part in getting me into such a physical condition as to enable me to win so quickly and easily in my battle with Carpentier. Before the fight I had heard so much of Carpentier's great skill and the ease with which he had defeated all the noted heavyweights of Europe

BIG CELEBRATION IN BILLERICA

The carnival, concert, fireworks, drawing and dance conducted by the Harold W. Estey post, 268, American Legion in Billerica yesterday, were successful even beyond expectations. The carnival, which was conducted on the common, proved a big attraction during the entire day and the many who visited the scene of the attractions spent their money very freely. The concert was given in connection with the carnival by the 101st Engineers' band and proved very enjoyable. The dance and drawing of a Ford automobile took place in the town hall and was largely attended. Late in the evening fireworks were held on the common under the direction of the fire department and this proved a fitting closing number to the observance of the holiday.

THE FIREWORKS DISPLAY

The program presented by the American Fireworks Distributing Co. on the Highland side of the common last evening, was one of the best ever seen here although a trifle briefer than in years past. Not only was it visible to thousands who stood on the common and in the vicinity, but in all sections of the city the lofty colorful rockets with their comet-like tails of stars entertained men, women and children with their fiery display. The display consisted chiefly of thundering rockets and bombs that shook the common by their concussion. The area in which the display was staged had been wired off, but even then the police had a difficult time in keeping the more enthusiastic spectators outside the danger zone. The program ended with a riot of bombs resembling an artillery conflict. The noise of the explosions could be heard all over the city. Rarely have so many automobiles been parked around the common. ## PRIVY COUNCIL SCORES GRAFT SCANDALS

TOKIO, June 3.—(Delayed)—Graft scandals in connection with the management of the South Manchuria railway, which led to the dismissal of the high officials have been made the subject of condemnation of the government by the privy council of the Empire.

The resolution of the privy council declares that Japanese colonial affairs need drastic reform. It was attached to a bill proposing revision of the regulations for the Kwantung leased territory. It continues:

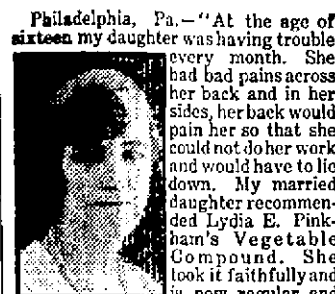

"The position we occupy in South Manchuria was gained after a war in which safety of the nation was at stake, and its importance is so great that the development of that part of Asia has a vital bearing on the national prosperity of the Japanese people. The South Manchuria railway company is not a business concern of the ordinary description, and it may not be too much to say that it is the price of the blood of our people."

"The nature of the South Manchuria railway being such, we, the members of the privy council of the empire, can not help but share in the regret of the general public at the prevailing condition of affairs as revealed by the various scandals in which high officials are involved."

The privy council's resolution then urges on the government "the necessity of taking proper steps, not only to put a check on the present impracticable situation but to place these affairs in such shape that they will lead to a further development of our interests in that part of our territory."

TOO ILL TO WORK

A Mother Tells How Her Daughter Was Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had bad pains across her back and in her sides, her back would pain her so that she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. KATIE EICHER, 4031 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions and often with wet feet, young girls contract deranged conditions, and before they are hardly aware of it they develop headaches, backache, irregularities, nervousness and bearing-down pains, all of which are symptoms of woman's ills. If every mother who has a daughter suffering from such symptoms would profit by the experience of Mrs. Eicher and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial she may expect the same happy result.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Large holiday crowds witnessed the second Black New England theatre presentation at the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening and like those who saw and heard the features of the first presentation of this sort a week ago they were most enthusiastic and admiring. The policy of the Capital theatre in New York city—that of combining photographs and music in an artistic potpourri—has been brought to Lowell amusement lovers by Manager Nelson and is certainly being appreciated.

The program opens with a catchy overture and this is followed by the Merrimack Square News, always up to the minute in portraying world events. "Sharks at the Bottom of the Sea," a unique film presentation, is a latest feature. Rarely has there been accomplished so difficult a photographic feat.

"Indian Summer," an idyll in film, is a bit of beautiful sentiment embodied in equally beautiful photography. While "Jungle Vandyke" is an out of the ordinary on ordinary feature.

"What a Difference Just a Few Hours Make," the next feature of this week's presentation, was just as funny as the series shown last week under the same name while the vocal solo, "Mother Macree," by Charles Hanson, brought forth immediate recognition.

The big photoplay offering of the program, "Madonnas and Men," provided a dramatic treat. Seldom, if ever has such a remarkable entertainment been presented in this city. It is filled to overflowing with all the elements that go into the making of the finest kind of photographic entertainment.

A powerfully dramatic story, dealing with ancient and modern times, is acted by a cast of unusual excellence in which Ivan Burrows Fontaine, the noted "Ziegfeld Follies" favorite, is seen as a dancing girl. Edmund Lowe who played opposite Lenore Ulric in Belasco's "Son-Deughter," has one of the leading roles as well as Anders Randolf, who scores the hit of his career in the part of the revenge seeking millionaire. Dainty Faire Binney and beautiful Raye Dean are also seen in captivating roles while that noted character Gustav Von Seyffritz offers the most astounding bit of characterization ever seen in the role of the father who devotes his life and fortune to finding his lost daughter. In addition to these featured players thousands of others appear in the massive scenes depicting the Roman amphitheatre and other elaborate sets.

There is not a moment during the presentation of "Madonnas and Men" when the interest is allowed to lag. Throughout the showing the spectators in both spellbound and completely carried away by the great production, story and playing of the cast. To see "Madonnas and Men" is to see the last word in photodrama.

A Fountain Dance by Bernice Adams and Clyde Adams in his latest comedy hit, "All Wrong," were other big features of the program.

THE STRAND THEATRE

Charlie Chaplin is in town again and his headquarter for the first three days of the week is at the Strand theatre, where he is entertaining with a very delightful comedy, "Tillie's Punctured Romance." Tillie is as funny as ever and his new play is a side-splitting comedy. The story concerns a farm girl named Tillie, who is being courted by a wispy city chap, "Charlie." The latter is a girl's sweetheart, but later when he learns that Tillie has inherited a large sum of money, he manages to regain her friendship and follow her. It turns out, however, that Tillie's inheritance was hardly worth while, so the clever city chap has a pretty problem to solve, and how he gets out of his mixup is the most interesting part of the play.

The dramatic end of the program is a most enjoyable play entitled "His Own Law." It is a play which Rosworth plays the title role. This uniformed story of McNeil, a member of a big engineering firm who goes on a spree with a girl named Saval, another engineer, after a little encounter with him in a San Francisco saloon. Saval falls in love with a charming young woman and just as he is about to marry the girl he is called back to his regiment in France. Later news of the death of Saval is received and McNeil marries the girl. Saval returns, however, after four years and his return is followed by one of the—well, never mind, just go and see for yourself. The current events are interesting, while the musical numbers are very pleasing.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

Thousands went to Lakeview yesterday to enjoy the free vaudeville and other forms of amusement at the popular picnic resort, and if there was one place where the moon had play, it was in the pines surrounding the sheet of water. Free vaudeville will continue all week, and on Wednesday and Friday Miss Blanche Perrin will give free dancing instruction to children. Parents should avail themselves of this opportunity. The hour is from 2 to 3 o'clock. Meanwhile, Miner-Doyle's orchestra will play for all dancing sessions.

URGES BETTER SCHOOL BUILDINGS

CHICAGO, July 5.—School buildings should Americanize by setting before children standards of cleanliness, attractiveness and sanitation. Neither American nor foreign-born children should be exposed to the effect of living daily in schools with grimy walls and dirty floors.

These were outstanding features in recommendations made by William T. McCoy, vice president of the American Federation of Teachers, in rendering to the Chicago High School Federation his report of the Eastern Conference of the organization held recently in Washington, D. C.

"Our school plants should be models of neatness and sanitation," he said. "The existing deterioration of the school system throughout the country makes it imperative that teachers themselves establish standards desirable for school buildings. We note with regret that pupils and teachers are becoming accustomed to surroundings below the standards of their home environment. The social menace we see in this situation is that the public school will not continue to be a civic model but a symbol of degradation."

The following standards for school buildings were submitted for adoption by teachers throughout the United States:

"First rooms for girls and teachers. 'Lunch rooms for pupils and teachers."

"Clothing closets with facilities for drying and ventilation."

"Drinking fountains so adjusted that infection from this source will be impossible."

"Hot water, liquid or powdered soap. Absolutely sanitary conditions in toilets."

"Thorough cleaning of class-rooms at least once a month."

"Abandonment of use of class-rooms without natural light and pure air."

"Insistence upon systems of ventilation, heating and sweeping which do not dry up or contaminate the air."

"Maintenance of needed repairs within buildings and of neat appearance outside."

"Strict conformity to regulations established by the fire department."

"Only as American teachers set the standard that school buildings shall be safe and clean can they be said to perform their duty in teaching civics. The building will speak louder than the teacher."

"The manufacture of paper ranks in second only to the manufacture of textiles."

LANGUAGE OF THE OIL FIELDS

TULSA, Okla., July 5.—Oil men have a language all their own, as it were, for the oil industry, like others, has a number of more or less technical terms and phrases connected with it that are not generally understood outside the oil field districts.

For instance, "shooting a well" has an entirely different meaning from that applied in river navigation to the term "shooting the rapids." In the oil country the phrase means the lowering into the well of several dozen quarts of nitroglycerine and allowing it to explode in the bottom of the well in the oil sand.

Oil wells are drilled much like artesian water wells. A "rig," or tall pyramid framework, is erected over the spot where the well is to be drilled. At various stages during the sinking of the well it is cased in by steel pipe, the joints of which are screwed together, making a continuous pipe. This serves to keep out water and to keep the well from caving.

As the well is bored deeper, the size of the casing is reduced in order to keep putting it down inside of that already in place. Two or three changes, or possibly four, are all that are usually made in reducing the size of the casing.

If no oil is found the well is termed a "dry hole." If gas is found, it is a "gas" well. A producing well is named according to the number of barrels of oil it produces in 24 hours, as a 50-barrel or a 100-barrel well.

Oil as it comes from the ground is called "crude oil." It is carried to the refining plants in pipe lines, iron pipes ranging all the way from 3 to 10 or 12 inches in diameter, or in railway tank cars. There it goes through the refining process.

Almost all oil men lease the land on which they drill, paying "royalties," from one-eighth to one-sixteenth of the value of the oil produced going to the owner of the land. A "location" is a piece of land on which a well is drilled. It varies from 300 to 500 feet square. Thus in a field that is closely drilled, each well will have wells on four sides of it between 300 and 500 feet away. These wells are known as "offsets."

A "tank farm" is a tract of land on which are located a number of large storage tanks for oil.

"Test wells" are the first wells drilled in a territory where oil has not been discovered. "Wild cat" wells are those drilled in territory where geologists have not found rock formations that indicate the presence of oil. A "pool" is an underground supply of oil, or oil sand, saturated with oil. The "Mid-Continent" field comprises the states of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and Montana.

BASIC CHARTER PRINCIPLES

Do not forget that the city charter is a compact between the city and the state. It is a compact which is subject to the approval of the state. Let us here take a view of the basic principles, aim and purpose of the new charter.

Under our form of political institutions, all power for the promotion and regulation of the public welfare through concerted action of individuals rests primarily with the state and is extended subject to constitutional limitations of commonwealth and nation. A group of persons, living in proximity to each other, must necessarily have many interests in common. There is bound to be a number of things which it is desirable shall be done for the common welfare and which can only be accomplished by united co-operative action. As the size of a group grows larger, the number of things which may be called community needs is bound to increase. The most common of these are adequate highways, a supply of pure water, protection against fire and lawlessness, and facilities for the education of children.

Members of any given group, acting separately as individuals, obviously cannot adequately supply these common needs. Therefore application is made to the state for the setting up and sanctioning of a set of rules under which individuals can combine and act together to bring about the ends which they desire.

The first section of our proposed new charter provides in substance that the inhabitants of the city of Lowell shall be constituted a "body corporate and politic" with the rights and privileges of a municipal corporation. In the succeeding sections are set forth the rules under which the people of the city are to carry on the necessary work of municipal housekeeping. There is nothing mysterious, nor very complicated, about this. The process of incorporating a city or town is not greatly different from what happens when a body of men make up their minds that they would like to venture into the business of cotton manufacturing. To them, on application, is given a charter, or set of rules, which, if they observe them, will give them the right and power to do those things which are necessary to bring about the production of textile fabrics. In much the same way the proposed new charter for Lowell provides a way in which the inhabitants of the city can carry on the work of producing and maintaining those facilities that are necessary for the common welfare.

Properly speaking, the city government is but a co-operative institution. It is an establishment for furnishing the things needed by citizens which they can only obtain by united action. The more completely we are able to disabuse our minds of the idea that political and municipal government are intimately intertwined; the more fully we are able to realize that furnishing honors of office to individuals or representatives of this or that faction, the giving of jobs to men and women, the protecting of this or that interest are not the purpose for which the city should go to the polls and vote, the more nearly we shall come to getting the work for which we are incorporated as a "body corporate and politic" properly done.

The right kind of rules can do much toward helping to make our co-operative municipal housekeeping economical and efficient, and the proposed new charter goes a long way toward accomplishing that result.

HEREDITARY PREJUDICES?

How far the decision (of President De Valera) will be approved by others—i.e., by those who are not themselves Irishmen, or not possessed of the hereditary prejudices and opinions of that race—remains to be seen.—Courier-Citizen editorial.

Mr. Editor, may we ask you if a robber entered your house, gave you a few jabs of a bayonet, took possession and not only robbed you of your property, but made you his vassal, would it be "prejudice" on your part to protest that you were not fairly treated and that you would insist upon your right to live in your own domicile without molestation? Or, if your ancestors for seven centuries had been treated in the same way by alien oppressors, would it be "hereditary prejudice" on your part to demand now, that the domain of your fathers be restored and that the invader clear out bag and baggage, leaving you to work out your destiny in your own way?

Once upon a time the American colonists were in much the same predicament as are the Irish people at the present moment, although their grievances were not nearly so great nor so long endured. According to your line of reasoning in the case of the Irish, you would say their complaints against England were based upon "hereditary prejudice."

If you accept the principle laid down in the Declaration of Independence that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, then you must concede that the Irish people have a right to freedom, the right to determine for themselves under what form of government they shall live. If you deny that principle, you are not a consistent American. As to prejudice, hereditary or otherwise, before making any statement, you should first remove the beam from your own eye.

That prejudice and, stranger still, opinions are inherited, seems to be assumed by the learned editor of the Courier-Citizen, although in that respect he runs counter to the teachings of British philosophers such as Locke, something which, judging from his usual policy, was entirely remote from his intention.

WORKING TOWARD NORMAL

During the campaign for the presidency and since, President Harding has had much to say about a return of business and industrial conditions to normal. In getting back to that very desirable condition, as urged by the president, there has been a general deflation of prices all along the line.

In this and other cities laboring men have been forced to accept a very considerable reduction in their incomes. They have done this on the whole without serious complaint, realizing that it was not desirable to attempt to force a continuance of highly artificial conditions brought about by the war. They have shown a willingness to do their part toward getting the world back to a safe and normal basis.

Manufacturers, too, have almost without exception fallen into step with the movement to cut out fancy profits by selling their products at greatly reduced prices. There has been no inclination shown to interfere with the orderly course of deflation. They have taken the losses that have come to them without complaint and without any attempt to resist the return to normal conditions. They have shown not the slightest disposition to grasp the last dollar that could be wrung from the public in exchange for their goods. At the end of the year it is probable that some of the concerns will find that they have been running very close to the line that marks the difference between profit and loss, if they have not actually gone over the boundary on to the losing side.

That is the spirit that will get this nation back to a normal business basis and it is the spirit that must be cultivated by all classes and by employers, and employees alike. As all shared in the war boom, so all should now be willing to do their share in meeting deflation while it lasts.

CAUSES OF WAR

Here in the United States we have one strong influence for peace—plenty of room. Our country is 3,026,753 square miles in area so that everybody has plenty of room without crowding upon others. That allows 35 people to the square mile, whereas Germany before the war, had 330 and Japan proper has 440 to the mile at the present time. That is what makes Japan so restless, and so insistent upon getting favorable conditions for emigration to her islands. It may also furnish the motive of her war-like tendencies and her preparations for war.

Give Europe 19th century's recuperation and it may be ready for another war. For instance, Germany may again be fighting Frenchmen or Russians or the British.

Land hunger, trade rivalry, ethnological differences and lust for conquest born of militarism, have been the main causes of war in all the ages and they will so remain unless militarism is checked and a world court of justice be established to deal with all international disputes.

BUDGET MAKER DAWES

Charles G. Dawes, appointed by President Harding as director of the budget, has taken hold of his job in a way that indicates he is going to get somewhere.

There is no more important post in the government. Properly administered, it can save the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

The mass meeting of cabinet members and bureau chiefs called by Dawes with the president's approval, to impress upon them the urgent necessity for the most rigid economy in every branch of government activity, was an inspiring example of direct action for results.

Dawes' idea seems to be that the way to economy is to economize instead of merely talking about it.

Based upon Dawes' temperament and past performance, it is pretty safe to venture the prediction that if the wasteful methods which are the rule rather than the exception in Washington are not changed, there is going to be a noise like a riot in the capital city.

ROCKED THE BOAT

Two men were drowned by the capsizing of their boat on the Merrimack river at Groveland, says a dispatch. The accident resulted from one of the three occupants having amused himself by rocking the boat in order to frighten his companions. It is not stated whether the man who rocked the boat was one of those drowned, but if he were, he certainly deserved the sudden end that befell him. Of all the silly, asinine, stupid and criminal things that anyone can do, there is none worse than rocking a boat or canoe. Nobody who knows anything of the ease with which a boat may be tipped would do such a thing. The ordinary row boat is a death trap at best for those who cannot swim and very often for people accounted good swimmers.

THE FIGHT

Had Dempsey been among the American boxers at Chateaufort-Thierry, he would have won the sympathy as well as the best of the fight with Georges Carpentier. The Frenchman was defeated but he made a game fight and but for an accident might have given the champion several rounds as good as the second. The fact remains, however, that say what they will, Dempsey is a terrific fighter. He showed sympathy for Carpentier at the close of the bout proved that he had no venom against his adversary and touched the multitude of spectators.

CROWD UNPARALLELED

The vast crowd that thronged every part of the South common last night was probably more than twice as large as the greatest that assembled there on any previous occasion in the history of our city. It was certainly a tribute to the boys of the Legion who conducted the carnival.

SEEN AND HEARD

If it is true there are 30,000 poets in Japan, she has troubles of her own.

Most men try to be on the right side; more are needed on the side of right.

Perhaps those Atlantic pirates are just ordinary bandits forced by prohibition to take to water.

Articles

Kaddara, an opera with its scenes in Greenland, is being presented at the Royal theatre, Copenhagen. Eskimo costumes are used. Lights of the aurora borealis play over the icy scenes. Arctic explorers praise the fidelity of these effects. That would be better to look at than the costumes would be to wear for a summer show in the United States.

Viewpoint

Judge Nathan Smith, senator from Connecticut, was said to be "of the old school in his dress; a remnant of that rare of men, the very form and fashion of whom are a passport to deference and respect; his white hair well powdered, a handsome blue coat with shining gilt buttons; dark kersey breeches, and top boots, the clean white tops of which were well contrasted by the elaborate black polish of the laces." That was when he died in 1835. One doubts if this fashion, worn on the street today, would win either deference or respect.

First United States Stamp

The first United States stamp was sold July 1, 1847, in New York city. Think what that event meant to people of Lowell.

Before then it was necessary to go to the postoffice to mail a letter, and the postmaster was paid in cash for every letter he posted.

Small as it is, the postage stamp has performed a great service, and one of the many kind things that can be said about it is that it was the first commodity to come down in price after the war.

The Meanest Dad

Two small boys were discussing the various attributes of their respective parents, and the conversation had reached the highly critical stage and threatened to get even warmer still. "Well," remarked Tommy Stubbs, "you can say what you like, but I reckon your father's about the meanest man that ever lived." "My father is not mean," screamed Bobby Roberts, "Yes, he is," repeated Tommy, "or else why does he let you go about in such shabby shoes when he is a shoemaker by trade?" "All right," answered Bobby, "but at any rate he is not so mean as your father. Why, he's a dentist, and yet your baby brother's got only one tooth!"

Rattlesnake Pickers

In order to get the most enjoyment out of life one must have faith enough in mankind to believe that every person is good for something. Theodore Roosevelt falls of a rather shiftless, ignorant man of the common frontier type, who had failed at everything he had undertaken, and who seemed absolutely useless, who found he possessed the power of picking up rattlesnakes without danger. "There is no deception about it," says Roosevelt, "I would take him off on horseback, and when I found a rattler he would quietly pick it up by the thick of the body and put it in the sack." It seems to me that there are many rattlesnake pickers scattered throughout society. One trouble is the market for their ability is limited. However, the belief that even the most useless of our acquaintances may be good for something is cheering news.

Priscilla's Prayer Book

When grandmother was a little maid, Of ghosts and spiders and mice afraid, Up in the garret, under the eaves She found a book with yellow leaves. An ancient prayer book, tattered and torn, The leather binding streaked and worn And stiff with dampness and green with mold, But legible still on the flyleaf old Writing the sleeping rains had run— "Priscilla, 1621!"

A prim young Puritan girl was she Who came in the Mayflower across the sea, And wore a kerchief and cap, no doubt, Was modest, quiet and meek about, She never chimed or bobbed her hair,

Or drove an auto or took a dare, Or played a game of bridge for gain, Or piloted an aeroplane, Or wore a wrist watch, or made a bet, Or smoked in public a cigaret, Or angled after a gilded son, Priscilla, 1621!

But let I fancy she stole a look Over the top of the open book With heart a-flutter at some young man, Like a modern coquette over a fan— And he looked back for youth was strong, And he was dull and the prayer long, And later they walk in the dusk and dew, Planning a log-built home for two, For love sailed over the ocean spray In the Pilgrim ship as a stowaway, And the little Puritan was won, Priscilla, 1621.

LODGE TO LEAD FIGHT FOR BEER

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Senator Lodge will lead the opposition to the passage of the anti-beer bill in the Senate. The senator from Massachusetts takes the attitude that the new amendment goes beyond anything that ever was intended by the prohibition amendment.

Mr. Lodge is specially opposed to measures assuming the right to tell the desires of the United States just how much liquor they shall produce. He regards any such attempt "not only as insulting to the medical profession, but entirely inconsistent and ridiculous."

CATHOLIC NEWS

Members of the following church societies held their monthly communion Sunday morning: Immaculate Conception of St. Peter's, Holy Rosary of the Immaculate Conception, Holy Rosary of the Sacred Heart, Holy Rosary of St. Michael's, Women of St. Columba's and Women of St. Mary's. In most of the Catholic churches the summer schedule was followed, the low mass having been substituted for the high mass at 11 o'clock, Sunday, and the usual sermon and instructions on the gospel of the day have also been eliminated.

ICE HEAT PROTESTATIONS

BOSTON, July 5.—Twelve heat protesters in Boston have been arrested in the Fourth of July when the temperature soared to 29 degrees at noon, held its position for practically two hours and then fell rapidly. The protest was made at the hottest day of the year. Fair and cool is the forecast for today.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Hope springs eternal in the human breast, but in the newsboy's breast it springs infernal. When I am on my way, homeward bound through Merrimack square, I am certain to be assailed by at least a brace, and sometimes by a trio or a quartet, or even more "newsies," querying me as to whether I desire a paper. It is a matter of indifference to them that I am already burdened with several papers; they are always in the expectation that for some reason which I cannot fathom, I may need another. When I actually do purchase a news-paper, I often find that a transaction started with my bids fair to be consummated by another. I shall a boy and while he is digging for the right journal, and I am disappointed, the right change of another urship has intervened, thrusting the desired sheet beneath my nose. From some vague sense of the dishonor of such competition, however, I usually insist on leaving for the youngster who made the first leap for my vicinity. If I chance to place a casual hand in my pocket while passing through the square, I am startled by the hearty hail of a spring upon my waving frantic publications, shouting, enveloping me in a whirlwind of salesmanship. Even though I explain to them that I was merely seeking my evening paper, my tobacco, they persist in the delusion that I was after a couple of pennies to acquire a paper. Flight is the only medium of escape. The only reason I have for not putting a hand to pocket where newsboys may see.

The train from Boston has just arrived. At least a score of exasperated new arrivals stood upon the sidewalk of Middlesex street, craning irritable necks in vain expectation of a trolley car to bring them to Merrimack square. These newcomers, mostly to the calm student of physiology, unworldly restrictions of rage, patience, decorum, humorous vexation, vexation with no trace of the humorous, Christian resignation, and a whole host of other emotions, I could not observe them with cold analysis. For I, too, awaited conveyance to Merrimack square. I, too, could not but permit my impatience to display some unpleasant comments upon late life, civilization, but notably street car companies. What I said, is it necessary to even repeat? A venerable man turned towards me. His eye, which might ordinarily have been a kindly and mellowed one, was red with wrath. "You're in Lowell, are you?" he asked. "Yes, sir," I replied. "You're a young man?" he asked, as he gave one more fierce look in the direction from which a car might have been coming, but which, alas, was nowhere. "Wherever I am," I replied, "I am by the railroad company, proclaiming their earnest determination to accommodate those who arrive in this city on trains. Are they trying to kid us?"

The circus isn't the only institution of which we never tire, which never grows old with every reappearance. There is another potent attraction which draws us as by a spell, year in, year out. It is, of course, fireworks. A demonstration of the weird power exercised by this ingenious invention of ancient China was given on the evening of Independence Day, when a stupendous crowd swarmed in and about the South common. All intent upon the colored light and noise, the boys of the crowd exhibited in honor of our severance from our stepmother across the ocean, infants might wait when a particularly loud report shattered the air. Women might give little squeaks. Even men might jump, notably shell-shocked war vets.—when a correct imitation of a barrage was offered. But no one left until the last fuse had been touched. Every eye with every appearance of the bright display in the firmament.

By far the most interesting feature of the carnival to my way of thinking, is the exhibition of war relics which occupies a tent near the centre of the South common. Here are everything from German cigarettes to Austrian airplane machine guns. There are the famous Tension paper suits of clothes, and paper sacks used for sand bags. There is armor for stouter than our usual medieval knight ever donned, and which shows the mark of bullets turned aside by its strength. There are fragments of the shell which killed the first American soldier in France. There are a thousand and one other articles of potent historic interest, while, looting all, is one of the most complete showings of war photographs that we have ever seen. Veterans of the big struggle are on hand to explain the finer points to the uninitiated. No admission is charged, as the United States government does not permit this where official war photographs are displayed.

The railroad bridge near Reading which several fatal accidents have occurred as a result of automobiles running off the road, on account of the very sharp curve at either end of the bridge, is now placarded "Death Bridge." The sign bearing this cognomen and a warning to drivers to be careful over the road approaching the bridge at either end, it is indeed most unfortunate that any bridge should be built almost at right angles to a road, as this bridge is such a great volume of traffic as on this highway. The state highway commission, I notice, has adopted the plan of painting a white line on the road surface around curves indicating the space allowed for autos passing in either direction. This is intended to prevent speed maniacs from following their lead in using practice of cutting corners. The auditor found driving on the wrong side of this white line will be clearly responsible for the consequences of such violation that may result from such violation of the rules of the road.

NAVAL DEFENSE OF BRITAIN DISCUSSED

LONDON, July 5.—Questions relative to the naval defense of the British empire were discussed at today's session of the Imperial conference. Prime Minister Lloyd George and the Dominion premiers resuming consideration of the subject where it was left off at yesterday's meeting. Opposition to the discussion of this subject by Premier McKenna of Canada and others seemed to have broken down, and the admiralty laid before members of the conference a confidential memorandum, which was understood to have been the basis of yesterday's discussion. The memorandum on the British empire have been existing since the naval strength of the empire should be definitely fixed. It was expected that at this conclusion of today's meeting, an official summary of the proceedings would be issued to the press. However, the conference has not yet taken place.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Useful

YES, a first-class education gives a mental elevation Which is worth the toil and trouble to acquire; And a brain that's quick and active makes a woman more attractive, For intelligence is something men admire. But—don't place your whole reliance on your letters and your science Though they give you lots of glamor and of charm, It is well to have ambition for a lot of erudition. But—a little bit of beauty does no harm!

WHILE it's wisdom to endeavor to be scintillant and clever, Don't forget to give your features proper care; And though knowledge is enduring, don't neglect your manicuring And occasional attention to your hair. It won't minimize your learning if you show some thought concerning The appearance of an ankle or an arm; And though style and fit and fashion shouldn't be your ruling passion, Yet a little bit of smartness does no harm!

Oh, a girl who's wise and witty can be also mighty pretty And exceedingly attractive to the glance, And it causes no reduction in the worth of her instruction If her step is like a feather in the dance. We admire the girl from college, with her culture and her knowledge, But that isn't all the secret of her charm; For the simple honest fact is, she has learned from daily practice That a little bit of beauty does no harm!

Spanish Cabinet Resigns

MADRID, July 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The cabinet of Premier Alcala-Salazar resigned today.

There has been dissension in the cabinet for some time, it is understood and this situation culminated yesterday when Manuel Arguillas, minister of finance, tendered his resignation on the ground that the new tariff law and the commercial treaties being negotiated by Spain were inimical to the interests of labor.

SEVEN WOMEN WHO DO UNUSUAL JOBS—AND GET AWAY WITH THEM

MRS. M. J. RAGAN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—Law's the thing for women, says Mrs. Masie Jones Ragan, and it's never too late to begin. She got her diploma in the presence of her two grandchildren. Mrs. Ragan, who is a prominent club and suffrage worker, will open her law office in the fall.

MISS L. TRICKEY

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 5.—The worse they buck, the better Mrs. Lorena Trickey likes to ride 'em. No wonder—she's the world's champion horsewoman. She won the title at the Cheyenne Frontier Days celebration, against the best women riders of the west. Miss Trickey used to punch cattle.

MRS. L. E. BAKER

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—Getting women and girls out of jail is Mrs. Louie E. Baker's vocation. She found she could be of more service that way than in general welfare work. She investigates cases, and if women are worthy, she goes on their bond. She's proud of having saved many unfortunate girls.

MRS. S. E. LEWIS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., July 5.—Can you bake a pie? That's what made Mrs. S. E. Lewis famous for miles around. When she wanted to send one of her daughters to a conservatory of music and didn't have the necessary money, Mrs. Lewis raised it by making pies.

MRS. E. LINGENFELTER

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—Miss Elizabeth Lingenfelter is pioneering in a job as "student counselor." Her work is to solve problems other than those of learning, which confront boys and girls in schools here. Flappers, the too-studious, the too-popular, the unpopular and the discouraged seek her advice.

MISS MABEL CODY

TAMPA, Fla., July 5.—Aviation is a nice vocation for girls. Take it on the word of Miss Mabel Cody, aviator. Miss Cody does wing-walking and parachute-dropping and says she's going to try the stunt of changing planes in mid-air. She is a niece of Colonel Cody, who was better known as "Buffalo Bill."

MISS NAN BADLEY

BATON ROUGE, July 5.—Girls, how would you like to be an auto mechanic? Miss Nan Badley works at it. She was the first girl to take the course at the Louisiana State university. She knows all about the technical end of an engine, and can take one apart and put it together again in a jiffy.

DUELLING IS AGAIN POPULAR IN HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, July 5.—The passion for duelling, which slumbered in Hungary during the war is breaking out with increased vehemence, according to a report of the ministry of home affairs just made public. About 6000 challenges to fight were recorded during the last six months, and in 330 cases the combat was fought without a serious result. There were three killings. Tribing incidents have been the cause of some encounters. Treading on a man's foot in an overcrowded street car or calling a person a "fool" might inspire a too solemn-looking gentleman in full dress and top-hat to call on you on behalf of the offended person requesting you to name your seconds.

As a rule the conference leads to explanations, apologies, and a protocol embodying these important facts to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. But when the insult is considered too gross or the offender too stubborn, the seconds rule that only blood can wash the insult away and they fix the conditions of the next morning's encounter with light or heavy swords, with handguns or without, or with pistols. The combat then takes place in one of the fencing schools or, when fought with pistols, in some deserted meadow outside the town.

Political antagonists frequently change arguments for weapons and a heated debate in parliament is generally followed by a couple of duels. Even ministers have to accept the challenge of an opposition member and it is still remembered that the late Count Stephen Tisza when prime minister fought nine duels with his political opponents.

Under the penal code of Hungary an armed combat is a punishable misdemeanor. Sometimes when combatants are tied and sentenced to a few months' imprisonment they serve it in a special establishment of detention, an open-air prison, where they may provide themselves with outside food, drink and clothing, take out-door exercises and receive any number of visitors.

Duelling is regarded as a class-privilege of the gentry and nobility and by tacit consent of the learned professions. The working man is excluded from this "benefit of civility" and if the offender be a workman, ordinary judicial proceedings might be taken against him in a case of offence. On the other hand, should any male member of the so-called classes refuse to accept a challenge, he would inevitably be blacklisted by his club and spurned by society friends as a coward.

HARDING'S TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN BOYHOOD

RARITAN, N. J., July 5.—Acting as sponsor here yesterday of a rowboat made by a 9-year-old boy, President Harding delivered a Fourth of July oration of a single sentence in tribute to the ingenuity and aspirations of American boyhood.

POLAR SONS DON'T PULL WIVES HAIR

POINT BARROW, Alaska, July 5.—The cave-man about which professors and disgruntled wives talk so glibly may be a dead one in glacial combs, but the latter-day sons are very much alive here on top of the everlasting ice.

The Eskimo is essentially a cave-dweller. Preferably he burrows in the frosty top of the world. His permanent home is a dugout similar to the pioneer's shelter of early Kansas and Nebraska days. A seal gut serves for window. Ventilation is taboo.

He eats his meat raw, like his far progenitor. Pelts of animals are his working clothes. He's the happiest, most hospitable, honest and industrious fellow in the world, by the word of explorer and trader. The polar chill hasn't refrigerated the heart out of Mr. Eskimo and his wife.

Trees—wood—they haven't know what to do with. Seal, walrus and whale oil are used for light and fuel. Skin boats, from the one-man bidarka to the 40-man oomiak, provide sea conveyance, and dog sleds serve on land. Rifles are nice—but the good old tested spear still serves for seal and walrus.

In winter white fox, ermine, wolves and sable fall to the trap, while summer brings parka squirrels for food and clothing. Reindeer add variety and milk.

They live by a modified law of tooth and fang, and apparently have changed little down through the centuries. And if they are true chips off the old cave-man block, the pre-Adamic couldn't have been such a bad fellow after all.

MORE LOADED CIGARS BY MAIL

The unknown dispatcher of loaded cigars, who was responsible for severe burns to the hands and body of John Norinkovitz, when the latter smoked one of the dangerous gifts, on Saturday made a third attempt to perpetrate his peculiar and gruesome brand of humor on a Lowell resident. Michael Lebednick, of Hudson street, already a recipient of a package of cigars similar to those sent to Norinkovitz, received a second parcel on Saturday, and promptly turned it over to the police as he had done with the first, having an eye to his fellow residents' fate in negotiating one of the weeds.

Norinkovitz found a package containing three cigars in his mail Wednesday.

The United States broke a heretofore record for advertising purposes by a station wagon. The first he consumed with pleasure, but shortly after he had tried up the second, a resounding explosion was heard, and the fingers that held the cigar were badly burned, while flakes of singeing powder alighted on numerous portions of his anatomy. He notified the local police. While the officers were working on the case news was forthcoming from Lebednick that he had been made the recipient of a like present. He brought the parcel unopened to police headquarters, where it was diligently studied in an effort to trace it to its source. Then, Saturday evening, a third package was added to the collection at the station house, when Lebednick was selected for a second time by the mysterious joker or lunatic, or whatever he may be. A thorough investigation is now progressing.

BRIDGE CLOSED Because of the dangerous condition of the Main street bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tracks the bridge has been ordered closed to traffic by City Engineer Kearney. It is expected that the structure will soon be put in passable condition.

WAMESIT STAFF ASSOCIATION Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of Wamesit Staff Association, I.O.O.F., M.U., which was held Sunday morning in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. P.P.G.M. James Smith occupied the chair.

Lowell Ex-Service Men in Government Pictures of World War on Exhibition at Carnival

GEORGE M. WALSH

George M. Walsh and Cornelius Coughlin, both of this city, had a remarkable experience at the carnival of the local American Legion post now at the South common, when they visited the exhibit of war relics and photographs which is one of the star features of the affair.

Walsh, a municipal employee now stationed at the South common, saw himself in his uniform as he was during the great St. Mihiel drive when he took place at the close of the hostilities. The photo was taken Sept. 14, 1918. Walsh was a member of "G" company, 104th Infantry. Coughlin also discovered that he had been "snapped" by the U. S. war photographers. Coughlin was presented a copy of his picture by those in charge of the exhibit. Walsh already has one.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE FOR TAXES

At the city treasurer's office at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning there will be sold at public auction 41 parcels of real estate upon which 1919 taxes remain unpaid. This annual auction will follow three weeks of advertising of the parcels on which the taxes have not been paid and will be conducted by City Treasurer Fred H. Bourke.

The parcels will be sold merely for the amount of the taxes. The purchaser will have clear title to the property at the end of two years but will have the right to step in and buy back his property if he so desires. Of the 41 parcels which will be sold tomorrow 14 will be sold merely to clear titles which have been more or less in doubt.

Japanese Envoys Confers With Sen. Borah

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Shiego Suyehiro, professor of law in Kyoto imperial university, Japan, who is in this country in the interest of limitation of armaments, announced today that he had conferred with Senator Borah, author of the disarmament resolution appended to the naval appropriation bill, and Senator Kenyon. He declared it would be "a grave error" should the proposed disarmament conference be secret, "because of the vital interest taken in the subject by the British and Japanese people as well as those of the United States, if the impressions I have received here are correct."

Model Airways to Cover Continent

WASHINGTON, July 5.—A system of model airways, covering the entire continent, is planned by the army air service for the use of all operators of aircraft. It contemplates chains of landing fields, frequent emergency fields, and identification markers connecting principal cities.

Clash at Sestri Ponente, Near Genoa

PARIS, July 5.—Communists of Sestri Ponente, four and one half miles northwest of Genoa, Italy, fired on a group of Extreme Nationalists and a clash ensued in which Carabinieri, in an endeavor to restore order, fired on the combatants, wounding three persons, says a despatch from Rome today. The Communists retreated and barricaded themselves in the Labor Exchange, where they are besieged by both Nationalists and Carabinieri, the despatch adds.

Identify Body of Woman Found in Hotel

BOSTON, July 5.—The body of a young woman found in a South End hotel Sunday with a bullet wound in her right temple, was identified today as that of Dorothy E. Stewart, a stenographer. She had lived at the Young Women's Christian Association office for two months ago, but officers there said today they did not know where she came from. Dr. W. J. Brickley, associate medical examiner, who performed an autopsy said the girl committed suicide. The police are seeking a man who registered at the hotel as William Boyer of Gloucester.

Senator Fletcher Raps G. O. P. Claims

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Republicans were charged today by Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, with making false claims of economy. He declared in the senate that a few hundred nominally paid employees of the government had been discharged in the name of economy while congress proceeded to create additional federal judgeships and to start investigations necessitating employment of clerks and other assistants. Senator Fletcher criticized the legislative policy of what he termed "the unwieldy republican majority" and said three months of the extra session of congress had produced little constructive legislation. Referring to the budget bill as one of the few worth while pieces of legislation, he said that "perhaps there is sufficient hell-and-maria in it to bring results."

Continued

Vanzetti is charged with having killed Frederick A. Parmenter, a shoe factory paymaster, and Alessandro Berardelli, a guard, in the robbery of a payroll of $16,000 at South Braintree, on April 15, 1920. Vanzetti is now under sentence to the state prison for his part in a hold-up at Bridgewater, December 24, 1919, somewhat similar to that at South Braintree four months later.

After sketching briefly the story of his life from his birth in Italy, 33 years ago, the defendant asserted he was selling fish in Plymouth on the day of the murder.

Coming to the United States in the summer of 1908, he said he went to work in a restaurant kitchen in New York's west side. Later he worked in many places in Connecticut and Massachusetts before he went to Plymouth in 1913.

LOWELL FAMILY PINNED UNDER AUTOMOBILE

Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Shapiro and their three young children of 31 Nichols street, this city, had a narrow escape from serious injuries early last evening when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on the Lafayette road in Rye, N. H. Fortunately no one was injured and the machine was only slightly damaged. The Lowell family were returning from Portland, Me., where they spent the week-end and when a spot was reached near the Hampton line at Rye, their machine skidded in a sand bar, when Mr. Shapiro swung to the right to avoid striking another car, and the automobile overturned into the ditch on the side of the road. Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro and their children became pinned under the car, but were soon rescued by the occupants of a Newton automobile, which happened along. The Shapiro car was driven to a nearby garage and the Lowell people returned to their home by train. Mr. Shapiro stated today that no one was injured and that the only damage to the machine was to the hood and windshield.

Warships Go to Tampico

can interests in the event that they are jeopardized because of labor troubles growing out of the unemployment situation, it was said today, at the navy department.

The Sacramento should reach Tampico today from Galveston. The Cleveland was ordered from Cristobal, Canal zone, and probably will not reach Tampico before Thursday. Both vessels are assigned to the American special service squadron in South and Central American waters, Rear Admiral H. F. Bryan commanding.

It was explained at the navy department that unemployment had been constantly increasing in and around Tampico because of depression in the oil industry there due to the new tax system, and that incipient riots and increasing labor troubles had resulted in decision to send the two warships to the Mexican port to protect American interests should they be endangered.

It was said, however, that the vessels would take no action unless a more serious situation arose.

booths and a balloon, $700 worth of goods were stolen, but it is believed that some of this will be recovered. Two of the stands belonged to Roane, and the other four were the property of out-of-town concessionaires. The occupants of all the booths were re-installed in booths erected by Mr. Roane, and continued business.

It was stated at city hall this morning, when the question of extending the carnival was discussed, that from a legal standpoint the park department would not be empowered to allow a further continuance of the affair, as the permission only extended according to law for one day after the Fourth. Clerk Flaherty, of the licensing board, declared this morning that in the event of such an extension, new licenses would have to be taken out by concessionaires, as those at present in use are only valid to today, leading up to and including July 6.

Much waste in fabric tires — no need of it

THERE are four or five million car owners in this country using fabric tires.

When they see themselves being made a target for the sale of "odd lots", "discount offers", "retreads" and "seconds" — what do they think?

You can hardly blame quality seekers if this kind of situation is getting on their nerves.

* * *

Some people seem to feel that the spread of cord tires has made tire-makers and tire-dealers indifferent about fabric quality.

Others have the idea that fabric tires get less attention because they run to smaller sizes.

The makers of United States Tires would like to go on record as to how they feel about it.

As people say everywhere

United States Tires are Good Tires

They are engaged in serving people.

They build the most complete line of fabric tires in the world.

This year "Nobby", "Usco" and "Chain" Tread tires are more universally popular than ever before. Because they satisfy a legitimate need for fabric quality.

Neither the size of the tire nor the kind of tire has anything to do with U. S. Tire standards.

KNOX WARNS AGAINST THEORIES OF RADICALS

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Speaking at a Fourth of July celebration in Independence hall yesterday, Senator Knox of Pennsylvania warned against the novel theories of government and social and economic life brought to this country by races from alien soils—“doctrines born of the ill of the land from which they came, radical remedies sometimes self annihilating to those using them.”

“Mighty” ferments are at work amongst us governmentally and socially,” the senator said. “Today there are coming to us by the millions, peoples from races untraded and unseasoned in self government, peoples unfamiliar with and largely unappreciative of its good, and untutored to tolerate and meet its evils. There are those amongst us who deny the very basis of our social order, the very foundation of our whole system.”

“Just as the commingling of members of different races from different climes with different customs of life exposes each of the individuals to new and strange bodily ailments and disease, so the intimate actions and reactions of diverse race members bring novel theories of government and social and economic life. Were their new theories tried, had they been effectively used by any race, had any people or nation risen to wealth, power and happiness under them, we might hope that adjustment thereof of our environments would make them tolerable. But such are not the facts.”

“These strange doctrines come primarily from races unskilled in self government, untutored in the fundamentals of free government, uneducated in the basic discord between liberty and license. Their doctrines are born of the ill of the land from which they came. They are radical remedies, sometimes self annihilating to those using them, for ailments unfamiliar to our system of government and life. Bolshevism may be the heaven of the theorist crushed under the weight of a cruel czarism, but it bears no true relation to the inconsequential defects of free government.”

CREW JUMPS FROM BURNING MOTOR GIG

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—The motor gig of Commander Percy W. Foote of the U.S.S. Salem burned to the water's edge in San Francisco bay shortly before midnight Sunday night, severely burning the officer and two of the five men with him. They were returning to the Salem from shore at the time.

Commander Foote and the sailors jumped overboard from the gig when it started to burn and they were picked up some time later by a boat from the U.S.S. Tennessee.

News of the mishap did not get ashore until several hours after it had occurred. Commander Foote's hands were burned and Seaman B. Cunningham and Machinist's Mate T. J. Lockicker received burns on the face and body. Cunningham, who had no life preserver was in the water nearly an hour before he was rescued. Commander Foote and the other four sailors, however, were picked up in about fifteen minutes.

VINEGAR

Put a little vinegar in the pot of dried up glue and it will moisten it and make it fit for use.

Why Dread Old Age?

It don't make much difference how old you are if you only keep in good health and are active. Many people appear older at 50 than others do at 70. To keep looking young you have got to enjoy good health, and do as little worrying as possible. Backaches, swollen joints and legs, disturbed sleep by being compelled to arise one or more times during the night are sure symptoms of kidney trouble, and should have immediate attention to avoid serious consequences. SEVEN BARKS, nature's remedy of roots and herbs, is one of the best remedies to take not only for affected kidneys, but for liver, stomach and heart troubles. Middle-aged people realize that they cannot perform their work or move around as fast as formerly. The intestinal organs feel the effect of age and do not perform their work properly. The heart palpitates on the slightest exertion and the back aches after a day's work. The muscles and flesh get flabby, and the blood thinner than formerly. It is then you need a good tonic and bowel regulator—you cannot find a more reliable and efficient remedy for these conditions than SEVEN BARKS. If you want to enjoy life, recover some of your youthful vigor and have the glow of health, get SEVEN BARKS of your druggist. Do not accept a substitute.—Adv.

With ordinary fuel the exhaust gases of your car could be touched into flame

AN automobile engine on the test stand—two masked figures—fire extinguishers and sand on hand—tank filled with ordinary gasoline—then the engine was started.

Engineers wearing asbestos gloves applied a plumber's blow torch to the gases now rushing out the exhaust pipe.

Balls of flame shot across the room! The exhaust gas contained unburned gasoline in large quantities. The horsepower contained in each flame was a total waste. Here was the proof!

Ordinary sluggish gasoline could not vaporize fast enough to produce full engine power.

About 87% of the power in the ordinary sluggish gasoline you buy today is wasted and unused.

And yet this is not the total loss. Carbon, slow pick-up, loss of power, diluted oil—these are the results.

Utilizing every drop of gasoline

The next test was to compare ordinary gasoline with Tydol, the Economy Gasoline. Now, even with a cold engine, there was no waste gasoline to ignite. It was impossible to light the exhaust gases.

With Tydol, complete, instantaneous explosions in the cylinders drive your engine without such waste. Tydol vaporizes fast. Fill up with Tydol. Look for the orange and black Tydol sign today.

FORESTATION

WORK IN CHINA

PEKIN, July 5.—Forestation in China made noteworthy progress in 1920 through the activities chiefly of the provincial governments. More than 130,000,000 shoots were planted and cultivated by twenty-one institutions in central and north China at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars in Chinese currency.

The government railways, anticipating their need of timber, have also taken steps to plant trees along their rights of way. One alone, the Kansu-Hachow railways, is in process of planting 1,000,000 trees, according to the bureau of economic information. Afforestation has been extended to nearly all the provinces, with especially promising stations in Shantung and Kiangsu. In the latter province, at Nanking, there are approximately 6000 acres devoted to the cultivation of 25,000,000 trees. In this station students are given a three years' course in forestation, and later are sent to various districts to specialize.

There are three gardens in Shantung which occupy some 700 acres. The largest and most prosperous station is in the north of Kiangsu near Yangchow where 3000 to 4000 trees are grown every year. Special afforestation schools have been established in Anhui, Chakiang, Huper, Szechuan and Shantung. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the 1500 hsien or counties in China are now engaged in this work which the Chinese hope will in due course transform many of their barren tracts into flourishing forests.

The establishment of a national Arbor day when all classes of the population are encouraged to plant trees, is pointed to by the bureau as an indication of China's awakening to the value of forestation.

TOO MANY SPINSTERS; STATE IS CONCERNED

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
In England they're getting alarmed about the number of spinsters packed around in apartment houses and taking up room in the picture shows.

Miss Dorothy Evans, secretary of the Association of Women Clerks and Secretaries, has announced that in her opinion there is only one way to reduce the vast army of the unwed by settling a state dowry on them. America ought to have a nice secretory like that to speak right out for the girls. Some one who has their interest at heart.

Just think what a fine arrangement it would be to have your state give you a thousand or two or three and let you shop around for a husband. Just as you would for a suit, or a pair of shoes or a tooth brush. You could take your little dot down town with you and look them all over. If you didn't like the way he combed his hair or the kind of glasses he wore you could go on to the next lot. And maybe some days they'd have special bargains, dollar days and that sort of thing. And I wonder, kind sir, when they begin this outline of a price on the heads of husbands, will there be any approvals, exchanges or refunds?

Adventures of The Twins

THE TWINS WATCH

Up in the sky, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow away, I think I can get along very well said to Nancy and Nick, "My dears, well alone for awhile at making the I have a plan. Now that Old Man weather, South Wind tells me that Flood and Jack Frost are locked safely there ought to be someone down on all."

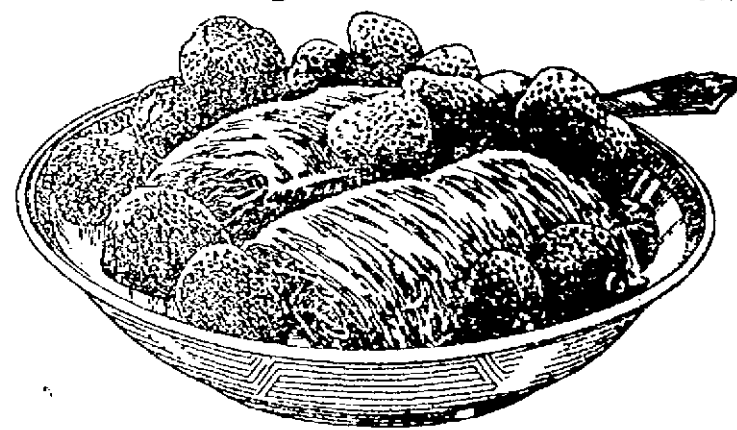

the earth to look after things, and I think that it is a good idea. Suppose you fly down there with your magic shoes and find out for me just what kind of weather folks need and I'll fix it. Sometimes the mail is delayed and by the time I send 'em the weather they want, it's too late to do any good. Here, Chick Chickaree, wanted the weather a little warmer and I never knew it until South Wind told me herself. You go down now to Whispering forest and keep me informed about things."

So down the twins went. They were nearly all the time Chick Chickaree (Red Squirrel) was singing and waiting for the maple syrup to run into the hole he had made. And they were there when he returned and found it missing. But they were also there in the meantime and knew who the thief was.

But Chick didn't know, and he jumped to a conclusion. "I just know who it was!" he fumed. "I know who it was that came to my house while I was away and drank up all my maple syrup sap. It was that cousin of mine, Scramble Squirrel. He's jealous of me and he was curious to know why I moved into his apartment house. He's come snooping around while I was away and stole my syrup."

"What had we better do?" Nancy asked Nick. "It wasn't Scramble at all."

YIP-EE! COWBOY HAT FOR PRESIDENT HARDING

These are supposed to be silk hat days for President Harding. But he's added the finest cowboy hat to the collection in the White House hat box. The picture shows the specially designed sombrero, presented to the president by citizens of Cheyenne, Wyo., bearing a chased silver band on which is engraved an invitation to be present at the Frontier celebration in July. Representative Dondell and Senators Warren and Kendrick of Wyoming presented the hat, which was made to the president's measurements, seven and three-eighths. Governor Carey of Wyoming is shown above passing his final O. K. on the novel invitation.

SHANTUNG QUESTION

Chinese People Regard With Suspicion Japan's Suggestion for Negotiations

PEKING, July 5.—The Chinese people regard with suspicion Japan's suggestion that China and Japan enter into negotiations regarding the Shantung question, realizing that in the past China always has lost either territory or prestige as the result of negotiations over international control. They further believe that in this instance there is no occasion for negotiations, according to Dr. W. W. Yen, China's minister of foreign relations, in a statement made to the Associated Press.

"If Japan intends to restore the German rights in Shantung and the inalienable rights and privileges formerly enjoyed by Germany, without conditions, Japan should announce that fact to the world in unequivocal terms," he said. "If she proposes to make conditions for such restitution she should likewise frankly announce those terms for all nations to pronounce judgment upon them."

"Furthermore China does not wish to jeopardize her right to carry the Shantung question to the League of Nations by entering into direct negotiations. China does not propose to permit Japan to cite such negotiations in support of possible opposition to submission of the question to that body."

"China also would be lacking in proper consideration for the nations which have interested themselves in the Shantung settlement should she undertake to negotiate directly. This is particularly true with reference to the United States, which has evinced a friendly desire to see China's interests safeguarded."

"Internationalization of the port of Tsingtau would meet with approval by the Chinese people."

China. It is in line with China's declared policy and action in throwing open various ports to international trade, and it is realized that it would be greatly to China's interest; but the initiative in this direction lies with China and not with Japan."

Dr. Yen sees a hopeful future for China regardless of present financial difficulties. "The welfare of the country," he said, "rests upon the thrift and stability of the people, and the people are making perceptible advancement economically. They are better educated, live better, think more correctly and are more thrifty than ever before."

The reasons for this advancement are greater contact with more advanced nations, the press and the railways, and the influence of thousands of students and others, not omitting the coolies who went to France, who have returned with new and more progressive ideas."

The longest word of usual occurrence in the English language is "incomprehensibilities."

"Don't rub your youth away!"

RUBBING on the washboard for hours each week makes a woman grow old faster than any other work she has to do.

Today hundreds of thousands of women are saving themselves this needless drudgery. They have learned to let Rinso take the place of all those hours of exhausting work.

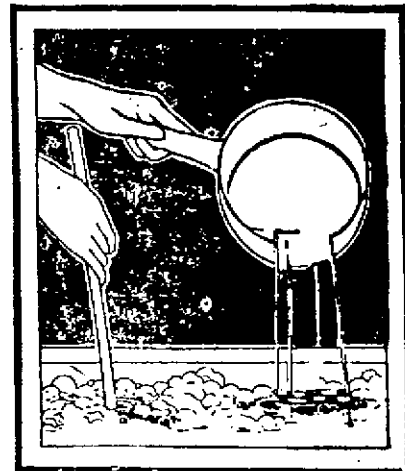

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap makers in the world. After years of experimenting, they have perfected a soap product which takes all the hard rubbing out of washday.

Rinso loosens and dissolves the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash, without injury to a single fabric.

Don't rub your youth away. Try doing next week's washing with Rinso. Get it today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

DISSOLVE—For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. (Where water is hard or clothes extra dirty, use more Rinso.)

FOUR INTO TUB of lukewarm water—mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds even after the clothes have been put in.

Rinso 8¢

Then let your clothes soak—and rinse without any hard rubbing—Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—whatever time is convenient. These wonderful mild suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinse, to remove the loosened dirt, till the water runs clear.

WASHING MACHINE OWNERS get beautifully white clothes with Rinso—follow the regular directions given here, adding a fresh Rinso solution before operating machine. The results are wonderful.

HARVEY PRAISES KING

Lauds Speech in Belfast—No U. S. Declaration in '76 if George III Had So Done."

LONDON, July 5 (by the Associated Press).—Diplomatic representatives of more than 30 foreign governments were guests last night at the annual independence day dinner of the American society of London. Ambassador Harvey was the guest of honor.

Lord Lee of Fareham, first lord of the admiralty, toasted the guest.

Referring, in his reply, to the revolt of the American colonies, Ambassador Harvey declared:

"Whether the territory comprising the United States could have been retained is wholly speculative. But one fact is certain—If George III had issued a proclamation even approximating in eloquent sincerity and appealing force that uttered the other day by George V in his faithful endeavor to reconcile a nation, there would have been no ringing of bells in Philadelphia 145 years ago this night, nor for many years thereafter."

"I find in Europe," said the ambassador, "the common impression that the United States alone among the nations of the world is today a land of milk and honey whose people not only are universally prosperous, though recalcitrantly discontented, but are rich beyond the traditional dreams of avarice. You have only to supplement the fancy with a suspicion, which I find not wholly lacking that all this opulence and this happiness are direct results of the great war, to account for the wholly natural sense of resentment."

Ambassador Harvey proceeded to cite the tremendously increased national debt, the congressional appropriations for 1920, and the heavy income taxation. He added:

"In dollars, the cost to America of her participation in the war, when finally computed, will fall not so very far short of the entire indemnity upon Germany."

The second misapprehension, he said, is by Americans who have been led to doubt that the peoples of Europe have been doing their utmost for themselves before seeking help. He confessed he has held somewhat to that surmise, but does so no longer. He had talked with representatives of every stricken state in Europe, and had heard no complaining word, nor received a single request for beneficence.

Through the better understanding between Great Britain and the United States the Atlantic has practically been eliminated from consideration of danger so far as naval warfare is concerned, he declared, and there is ground for good hope that "whatever apprehensions exist of perilous possibilities on the Pacific may be dispelled sooner than is commonly anticipated."

Then, he declared, "disarmament will follow naturally and inevitably, and peace on earth will be assured for years at least, and it may be, forever."

WASHING LIGHT MATERIALS

Your gay summer frocks—more gay this year than you have ever worn before—need careful laundering.

There are various ways of setting their color and keeping them quite like new. Blue, for instance, washed in a mixture of half cup of mild vinegar to a gallon of water, is not injured. Pink or red can be washed in the same solution with success.

One tablespoon of sugar of lead to each gallon of water will set the color in your lavender gown and keep it bright. Sugar of lead is good for green materials also.

If a salt solution is used it should be made with a handful of salt to a gallon of water; the material should be allowed to remain in the water for some time.

Extremely hot water, a very hot iron or strong soap will dull fabric colors.

HOT WATER BOTTLES

Hot water bottles when not in use during the summer months should be kept about three-quarters full of water so they will not dry and crack. The water should be changed frequently.

SWEEPING

After sweeping it is well to dust a carpet with a cloth wrung out of clear, clean water or ammonia.

Y. D. VETERAN KILLED IN BOSTON

BOSTON, July 5.—Joseph Coppinger, aged 39, of 51 Bennett street, Brighton, formerly of Co. E, 101st Infantry, died last night after being struck, it is alleged, by George E. Wilson, aged 41, formerly of Co. B, 101st Infantry, while both were in the Y.D. club at 209 Huntington avenue.

Wilson, who lives at 342 Dudley street, Roxbury, is under arrest at the Back Bay police station charged with manslaughter.

It is said that Coppinger and Wilson had an argument in the club and that Wilson struck Coppinger with his fist. Coppinger, it is said, toppled from the table and struck his head on the floor. He was unconscious when taken in the police ambulance of the Back Bay station to the City hospital and there he was pronounced dead.

Swans have been known to live 300 years.

Mr. Franklin Owner

WHAT a car the new Franklin is!

Of course, it isn't much better inside—it would be pretty hard to improve on the motor and the interior construction of the car. But everybody says the new car is even better looking than the smart Franklin of last year.

I ought to know all about them—I've been selling Franklins for a number of years now. I'll tell you there isn't a better car for the money on the market.

Easy on tires—smooth riding—lots of gasoline mileage—but oh!—wait until I tell you about FAM-O, and what it did to boost my mileage per gallon of gas.

The other day I was boasting to a friend about the distance my Franklin would go on one gallon of gasoline. And he dragged me into his old Wheeler Six and took me out for a spin. When his gas indicator showed one gallon gone his speedometer registered about three miles more than my high Franklin average per gallon.

I couldn't believe my eyes!

Then he whispered the magic word—FAM-O!!! I hot-footed to the nearest accessories store and paid out a dollar for an 8-oz. can. In a few days I had boosted my gasoline mileage nearly 33 1/2 percent. And now by using 1 oz. with every few gallons I'm saving 1/2 of my gas bill every month.

Some investment! Eh, what?

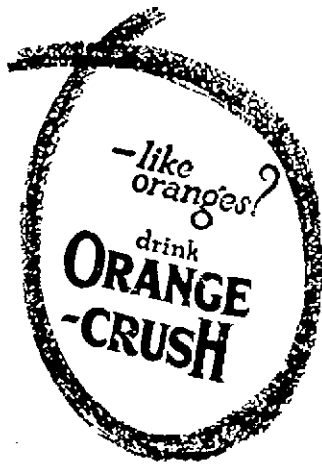

You should buy FAM-O today. Its continued use will remove all carbon and give you a smooth running motor. 8 oz. can $1.00. Gallon $12.00—all dealers. Gordon Mfg. Co., Foxboro, Mass.

FOCH PAYS TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN ARMY

PARIS, July 5.—(By the Associated Press).—Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies, sent yesterday through the Associated Press a message to the American nation on the occasion of the anniversary of the declaration of independence.

The message embodies a tribute to the American army, paid by the man who led to victory the Allied forces with whom that army fought, and to the people of the United States as a whole, for their "unparalleled effort in every branch of national activity," which did so much to bring ultimate triumph to the allied armies.

It was Germany's intention, says the marshal, to settle the fate of the continent before the United States could get effectively into the struggle, but America, "acting strongly and quickly," ruined the plans of our adversary.

Marshal Foch goes fully into the record and details and various steps through which American help was given the forces arrayed against Germany.

He says that the needs of the allied fighting front in the early stages of the crucial 1918 campaign and how, item by item, the American aid to meet these needs was given—in men, ships and supplies—as a result of the concentrated national effort and finally the great and telling part played by the American army organization on the battlefields and behind the lines in France.
